Fearful friends ask 'Why Marilyn?'

MIDLAND, Mich. — It was the usual kind of spring party at the Northwood Institute here — not wild at all but the kind of get together where you sit around and drink beer and talk about all sorts of things.

For Marilyn Louise Goodman, an 18-year-old freshman from Mount Prospect, it was one of the few parties she attended this year. She lived in a dormitory on campus and studied hard. Between that and never missing a class, there wasn't much time for college parties.

But for some reason she decided to go to this one. It was a prelude to her death.

The facts emerging from this mysterious murder case are sketchy. The 20 or so students who attended the party said they saw the girl there in the early hours Sunday. How she left the place is uncertain, but within a few hours she was sexually assaulted and killed, authorities said.

SHE APPARENTLY was accosted and murdered after she left the party in a rented house across town from the tiny Norwood campus. The partially clad body of the 5-foot-3-inch, 108-pound woman was found by fellow students Tuesday. Her shoulder length brown hair draped across her blouse. Blue jeans and a pair of sandals were lying beside her.

Coeds on campus today are afraid. They can't understand how something like this could happen to a girl like Marilyn, a shy and friendly girl who came to school to study.

Peggy Glause of Cleveland, Ohio, a Northwood student whose dormitory room is next to Miss Goodman's said security has become a conern for the school's coeds.

"If it can happen to her, it can happen to any one of us," Miss Glause said.

Sandy Goetz, who lived across the hall from Miss Goodman said students were "shocked" at the discovery of the body. Another spokesman said the mood on campus was quiet and mournful.

MISS GOETZ, of Westville, Ind., said Miss Goodman was a quiet girl and well-liked by other students.

Lela Sexton, one of the houseparents in the dormitory lived three doors from Miss Goodman. "She was shy but very friendly," Mrs. Sexton said. "She didn't have a big social life. She studied hard and didn't miss classes."

Nancy Kuehn, director of information services at Northwood, described Miss Goodman as a "low-profile person" who was not very well known on campus. "She was only a freshman and they're still making their berth (at school)," said Ms. Kuehn.

Robert Genzen, Marilyn's counselor at Prospect High School called her "an excellent student and a fine girl."

Miss Goodman was a secretarial services major whose grades were better than average at Northwood. School officials said she had never missed a class in three terms.

Miss Goodman was easy to communicate with and popular with other students at Prospect, Genzen said. She participated in chorus and a horseback riding club in high school.

It is not known whether Miss Goodman died where her body was found or whether it had been moved. She was discovered by Miss Goetz and a

Stupidity, greed snared suspects

INDIANAPOLIS — Manuel Robinson plunked down $11,500 in crisp hundred dollar bills, some still in the bank wrappers, and drove off in a shiny two-tone silver Lincoln Continental.

Don Miller, new car manager who approved the deal at Crossroads Lincoln Mercury in Indianapolis, Ind., didn't think much about it at the time. People buy cars with cash all the time. It wasn't that unusual. Besides, car dealers would rather have cash anyway. It's safer that way.

The deal last Thursday was just another sale to Miller. That is, until the story broke on Saturday.

Marjorie V. Jackson, a 66-year-old millionairess, was discovered shot to death in her northwest side home. Police found an incredible stash in her bedroom — $5 million in crisp bills, mostly hundreds — and said another $3 million was stolen.

THAT'S WHEN MILLER became suspicious. Monday morning he told dealership owner Donald McKenzie that a black man had bought a Continental with cash and wondered if there was a connection.

They told Crossroads' attorney Duge Butler who took the matter to the Marion County sheriff.

It was the lead police had been waiting for — the thread that was to unravel perhaps the largest single robbery in American history. It would lead to the arrest of Robinson and accomplices John Williams and Annie Young. It would lead to the recovery of nearly $2 million and the discovery of the alleged murder weapon in Robinson's apartment.

It seemed that the bizarre crime had been solved in short fashion. But the investigation eventually disclosed that it wasn't finished after all. A white man, believed to have masterminded the robbery, and his ex-wife, still were at large, perhaps with another million in cash. Police identified them as Howard R. Willard and Marjorie Louise Pollet, who were charged with murder and robbery.

Had the men not spent so much cash so soon after the killing, police might still be seeking suspects in the robbery that broke a record set in 1962 when a Massachusetts armored car was robbed of more than $1.5 million.

"After it had come out that there had been a murder and millions of dollars had been stolen, we let the police know about the deal," Miller said.

He said the police arrived Monday morning to question him and the auto saleswoman who dealt with Robinson. But the money the suspect used to pay for the car had been deposited in the bank. There was no hard evidence.

"NOT TOO LONG after the police had been here, Robinson and the other one (Williams) came back. At that time they were suspects," Miller said.

Robinson and Williams had come back to trade in their brand new car, saying there was a scratch on the side of the silver Lincoln. They wanted another car with a glass "moon roof."

Miller said he hurriedly called the sheriff's office to say the two black men were back, wanting to deal again. Police advised Miller to detain the two as long as possible, agree to make a deal, and above all, get some of those hundred dollar bills needed to link them with the Jackson murder and robbery. Police needed the time to get to the dealership and tail the suspects.

"We would have made the deal," Miller said. "We wouldn't have delivered the car, but we would have promised to have gotten more of the

The two large boulders sitting in William Voorhies' front yard aren't for esthetics. They stop the cars from landing on his front doorstep.

A short distance from Voorhies' house at 2235 N. Kennicott Dr. a tree is missing from Richard and Elvira Taege's parkway. Another tree on the parkway is tilted drastically.

Mrs. Taege considers it "a miracle" the tree survived after it was mowed over by an auto last year. A nearby utility pole wasn't as lucky.

"The village won't replace the tree. They say it will just get hit again," Mrs. Taege said, adding it's already been replaced three times.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS are keenly aware of the accident problem on the reverse "S" curve on the north end of Kennicott Drive between Techny Road and Ladd Street.

They were forced to replace a fire hydrant in that section of the street earlier this week when a hit-and-run motorist moved the old one about a foot.

In conjunction with replacing the fire hydrant, a bright yellow line was painted down the center of the winding residential street. And the Arlington Heights Police Dept. is giving the double-curve street special attention.

But residents on the street aren't satisfied. Voorhies Monday night will ask the Arlingon Heights Village Board for solutions to the Kennicott Drive problem.

Voorhies, who placed the boulders on his lawn after his trees were destroyed by runaway vehicles, has sent a letter to the board asking that it establish a policy that parkway trees run over by cars be replaced by the village.

VOORHIES' SUGGESTIONS for correcting the problem include installing hazard signs, or warning grooves similar to those used at approaches to tollway plazas, or raising the street's curbs.

No solutions to the problem are expected Monday. Village officials already have discussed the situation and aren't sure what the best recourse may be, Village Mgr. L.A. Hanson said.

"It's the same old story with curvilinear streets. They look nice, but they create problems," Hanson said.

The engineering department has considered straightening the street but has decided it wouldn't be feasible.

"It would mean taking away parkway and then the street would be too close to the sidewalks," Hanson said.

THE PROBLEMS are caused by motorists exceeding the 25 m.p.h. speed limit, Hanson said. Residents along the curves agree.

"There's no question they're going too fast. Police have made 23 arrests (for speeding) in the past 10 days," Hanson said.

But most of those arrests have been made during daylight hours, residents say while most of the accidents occur

Brown sows the seeds of urban farm proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A few members of the House Agriculture Committee set aside worries about an $8 billion farm bill Wednesday to consider the backyard tomato and stringbean.

Rep. George Brown Jr., D-Calif., urged the subcommittee on domestic markets and consumer relations to approve his bill providing plots for urban gardeners.

Under the measure, the Agriculture Department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service would locate vacant lots in metropolitan areas, lease them for $1 a year, and provide them to families for use as vegetable plots.

ASCS also would plow the land.

Testimony before the subcommittee was interrupted so members could vote on amendments to a big $8 billion farm bill being drafted in the next room by the full committee.

Brown said Congress would be amazed by the public's zest for growing its own.

He said he bought 2,000 kits of seeds last year, offered them to constituents through his newsletter and received 15,000 requests. He said he would up buying seeds in 100 pound sacks at a cost of $5,000 and having young volunteers package them.

Publicity on rape talk spoils lecturer's quiet life

Wanda Weitzorek, whose full-time job is teaching women how to avoid being the victims of violent crimes, is becoming a victim herself.

Ms. Weitzorek, a self-employed speaker about rape, said Wednesday she has lost 16 speaking engagements and has received bomb threats since publicity began about a rape program she presented in March at Palatine High School.

She spoke on "The Violent Crime — Rape" to a group of female home economics students after principal Leonard Newendorp decided the topic was too sensitive to be presented to a mixed audience.

MS. WEITZOREK said callers have threatened to bomb her car and tip it over if she continues to make speeches about rape.

She said she has received six calls in the past two days from the same young man, who accuses her of "giving our school bad publicity."

Ms. Weitzorek said she could not release a list of schools that have canceled bookings because officials of the schools have asked her not to.

"They don't want their schools to have the same publicity," she said.

SHE HAS HAD to take extra precautions to protect herself, she said. Threats against her always increase when her picture appears in newspapers so "I like to keep my picture out of it," she

Networks curb violence on TV 'action' programs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Television violence is harmful, particularly if you are a child, but at least you won't see Karen torture Doris in the pool, a Senate subcommittee was told Wednesday.

In the last of a series of "learning sessions" by the Senate commerce subcommittee on communications, Van Gordon Sauter, CBS vice president for program practices, exhibited instructions given to producers of the detective series "Barnaby Jones."

The instructions forbade a number of scenes and words in an episode entitled "The Killer on Campus:"

- "Kemper's hanging body should be shown only in shadow."
- "Filing of the action which shows 'Roger executing Jeff with a judo chop' should avoid being instructional or unduly vicious."
- "Please avoid having Karen torture Doris while the latter is in the pool."

A psychiatrist and pediatrician, Dr. Michael B. Rothenberg of the University of Washington School of Medicine in Seattle, testified that children must imitate "meaningful adults . . . if they are to learn the basic patterns of social and emotional interaction needed for everyday living — needed, for everyday survival."

Rothenberg said TV violence does not drain off violent tendencies. "Children are indeed likely to learn and remember new forms of aggressive behavior by watching the kind of violence presented in the mass media," he said.

THE NATIONAL PTA and other groups have urged advertisers to pressure networks to cut the amount of TV violence. Archa O. Knowlton, director of media services for General Foods Corp., one of the largest users of network TV commercial time, said his firm will not advertise on violent shows.

"It is fair to say that no advertiser wants to spend money on programming that drives people away from buying his products," Knowlton said.

In another development, the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting released figures Wednesday showing that enough crime was portrayed during one week of prime time television over the three commercial networks to warrant prison terms of 3,633 years.

The association got the figure by monitoring NBC, CBS and ABC between Feb. 28 and March 6. Law students kept track of every crime portrayed and assigned each one penalties provided under the California penal code.

Woman killed in Elgin crash

A 30-year-old Hanover Park woman was killed Wednesday when a car she was driving ran off a road and crashed into a concrete bridge abutment in Elgin, police reported. Elgin police said Diana Roberts, of 7602 Brookside Dr., Hanover Park, was killed when her auto, eastbound on U.S. Rte. 20 approaching the underpass at Ill. Rte. 31, crossed a median and slammed into a bridge abutment. Mrs. Roberts apparently died instantly when she was crushed by the engine of her auto, police said. The car flipped on its top and burst into flames, police said. Firefighters extinguished the blaze, and Mrs. Roberts was pronounced dead at the scene by a representative of the Kane County Coroner's office, police said.

Foy trial July 6 in drug case

A July 6 date was set Wednesday for the trial of Dr. Hayward W. Foy, an Arlington Heights doctor charged with illegally dispensing weight-control drugs. The date was set after Circuit Court Judge Robert J. Collins denied a motion by Foy's attorneys to suppress evidence obtained against Foy through tape recordings by an Illinois Bureau of Investigation agent. Foy, 77, of 203 S. Arlington Heights Rd., was charged in three separate indictments last year by a Cook County grand jury for allegedly issuing drugs to three Illinois Bureau of Investigation agents without conducting proper medical examinations. Foy's medical license was suspended three weeks ago by the Illinois Dept. of Registration and Education because of similar charges.

Networks curb violence on TV 'action' programs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Television violence is harmful, particularly if you are a child, but at least you won't see Karen torture Doris in the pool, a Senate subcommittee was told Wednesday.

In the last of a series of "learning sessions" by the Senate commerce subcommittee on communications, Van Gordon Sauter, CBS vice president for program practices, exhibited instructions given to producers of the detective series "Barnaby Jones."

The instructions forbade a number of scenes and words in an episode entitled "The Killer on Campus:"

- "Kemper's hanging body should be shown only in shadow."
- "Filing of the action which shows 'Roger executing Jeff with a judo chop' should avoid being instructional or unduly vicious."
- "Please avoid having Karen torture Doris while the latter is in the pool."

A psychiatrist and pediatrician, Dr. Michael B. Rothenberg of the University of Washington School of Medicine in Seattle, testified that children must imitate "meaningful adults . . . if they are to learn the basic patterns of social and emotional interaction needed for everyday living — needed, for everyday survival."

Rothenberg said TV violence does not drain off violent tendencies. "Children are indeed likely to learn and remember new forms of aggressive behavior by watching the kind of violence presented in the mass media," he said.

THE NATIONAL PTA and other groups have urged advertisers to pressure networks to cut the amount of TV violence. Archa O. Knowlton, director of media services for General Foods Corp., one of the largest users of network TV commercial time, said his firm will not advertise on violent shows.

"It is fair to say that no advertiser wants to spend money on programming that drives people away from buying his products," Knowlton said.

In another development, the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting released figures Wednesday showing that enough crime was portrayed during one week of prime time television over the three commercial networks to warrant prison terms of 3,633 years.

The association got the figure by monitoring NBC, CBS and ABC between Feb. 28 and March 6. Law students kept track of every crime portrayed and assigned each one penalties provided under the California penal code.

Woman killed in Elgin crash

A 30-year-old Hanover Park woman was killed Wednesday when a car she was driving ran off a road and crashed into a concrete bridge abutment in Elgin, police reported. Elgin police said Diana Roberts, of 7602 Brookside Dr., Hanover Park, was killed when her auto, eastbound on U.S. Rte. 20 approaching the underpass at Ill. Rte. 31, crossed a median and slammed into a bridge abutment. Mrs. Roberts apparently died instantly when she was crushed by the engine of her auto, police said. The car flipped on its top and burst into flames, police said. Firefighters extinguished the blaze, and Mrs. Roberts was pronounced dead at the scene by a representative of the Kane County Coroner's office, police said.

Foy trial July 6 in drug case

A July 6 date was set Wednesday for the trial of Dr. Hayward W. Foy, an Arlington Heights doctor charged with illegally dispensing weight-control drugs. The date was set after Circuit Court Judge Robert J. Collins denied a motion by Foy's attorneys to suppress evidence obtained against Foy through tape recordings by an Illinois Bureau of Investigation agent. Foy, 77, of 203 S. Arlington Heights Rd., was charged in three separate indictments last year by a Cook County grand jury for allegedly issuing drugs to three Illinois Bureau of Investigation agents without conducting proper medical examinations. Foy's medical license was suspended three weeks ago by the Illinois Dept. of Registration and Education because of similar charges.

Concorde ban lifted; ruling appeal set

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal judge ruled Wednesday the New York-New Jersey Port Authority does not have the right to ban a tryout of the Concorde SST at Kennedy Airport. Britain and France immediately announced they planned to start landing the controversial plane June 20.

The Port Authority, which operates the airport, said it would appeal the ruling.

Political and community leaders in the airport area — dead set against the Concorde because of the noise it makes on landing and takeoff — said they were prepared to take their fight against the plane to the U.S. Supreme Court.

BUSINESS AND labor leaders applauded the ruling on the grounds it would improve the city's flagging economy.

U.S. District Court Judge Milton Pollack said the Port Authority acted illegally on March 11, 1976, when it banned the trial landings of the British-French jet as authorized by the U.S. Transportation Dept. pending studies on air and noise pollution. He ordered the ban lifted.

Air France and British Airways, which cosponsored development of the plane, announced they planned to start Paris-New York flights June 20.

The actual tryout still may be a long way off, both because of the logistics of arranging the trial and the expected long and bitter court fights.

Pollack gave lawyers for both sides 10 days to prepare the necessary papers to implement the Concorde tryout. A Port Authority spokesman said its general counsel also will file his appeal of Pollack's ruling then.

IN FEBRUARY, 1976, then-Transportation Sec. William Coleman authorized a 16-month trial period for the SST at Kennedy and Dulles Airport outside Washington. The Concorde has been landing at Dulles for more than a year while the landings in New York were held up by the Port Authority ban.

In arguing the case, lawyers representing Britain and France said the ban violated international treaties and agreements. The Port Authority contended that it has the last word — even over a federal agency — in the use of its facilities.

In his 32-page decision, Pollack said the ban was in "irreconcilable conflict" with federal supremacy in the matter and "must give way under the supremacy clause in the Constitution."

He said, "Nullification of the federal review of the noise problem at JFK is not a prerogative" of the Port Authority and that Congress made clear "the federal government's exclusive statutory responsibility for noise abatement through regulation of flight operation and aircraft design."

No SST plans at O'Hare: airline

There are absolutely no plans to bring the controversial Concord SST into O'Hare Airport either for regular landings, or demonstration purposes, a British Airways spokesman said Wednesday.

Thomas Craft, British Airways spokesman in New York, said there are at least four reasons why the Concorde, at least as presently built, cannot land at O'Hare.

- Former Transportation Sec. William Coleman's order that permits testing of the plane at New York and Washington expressly prohibits the Concorde from landing at any other U.S. airport without a government-approved environmental impact statement.
- As presently designed, the Concorde cannot carry enough fuel to fly nonstop from Paris or London to Chicago.
- There is a gentleman's agreement among airlines not to fly at supersonic speeds over the United States.
- One of the strongest opponents of the SST in the U.S. is U.S. Rep. Sidney Yates, D-9th, from Chicago.

"There are no plans now, nor are any contemplated, to bring the Concorde to Chicago," Craft said. The U.S. Transportation Dept., however, recently completed a report on 12 U.S. airport markets capable of supporting SST travel, which included Chicago.

Israeli army helicopter crashes, all aboard killed

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — An army helicopter crashed and exploded on a training exercise, killing all 54 paratroopers and crewmen aboard, the military command announced Wednesday. It was Israel's worst military air disaster.

Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, the armed forces chief of staff, said the giant Sikorsky CH53 crashed for yet unknown reasons Tuesday night near the Jordanian frontier. He said the helicopter had not been attacked.

"This was the worst air disaster we ever had," Gur said. He said never in Israel's four wars was a plane shot down carrying so many soldiers.

No one on the ground was killed or injured.

Announcement of the crash, which occurred near the Jewish settlement of Naaran just north of the ancient city of Jericho in the occupied West Bank of Jordan, was delayed more than 18 hours to permit notification of next of kin.

It brought all campaigning for the May 17 general election, including prime time television spots, to an abrupt halt as the nation went into mourning for the dead. Solumn music was played over the state radio and a commission was appointed to investigate the cause of the crash.

Funerals will be held beginning Thursday.

Aboard the heavy assault transport helicopter — one of the biggest in the world and dubbed the Sea Stallion by the U.S. Navy — were 50 paratroopers led by a captain and four air force crew members.

The pilot was a 25-year-old reserve major and had 1,100 hours flying time in C-53 helicopters.

The twin-rotor helicopter was the last to take off in large-scale maneuvers involving combat jets, tanks, artillery and the engineering corps. It had a normal ascent.

"Due to as yet unknown reasons, the helicopter descended and after two kilometers struck the ground," Gur said.

Father Trapasso said he did not know "what the change was an indication of," but noted it was the first time there had been any change since Karen was removed from a respirator last May 17.

Mom, daughter found slain in apartment

SKOKIE, Ill. (UPI) — A mother and her 14-year-old adopted daughter were found slain early Wednesday in their Skokie apartment.

Police said it appeared the mother, Natalia Soppi, 50, had been strangled. Her daughter, Kathrina, was shot once in the head. No signs of sexual molestation were found on either victim, police said.

The bodies were found by Mrs. Soppi's husband, Frank, 55, a restaurant operator who had just returned home after eating an early breakfast with some of his employes. Soppi called police at 4:14 a.m.

Inside the home, police found the mother lying in a rear hallway and the daughter on a couch in a bedroom. No gun was found in the apartment, and there was no sign of forced entry into the apartment, which is the first floor of a two-flat.

Some furniture was overturned, indicating the mother or daughter might have struggled with the killer.

Soppi was questioned by police for about four hours and was then released.

Olga Soppi, a sister-in-law of Soppi, said Soppi called her before calling police and said, "I've lost everything. Something terrible has happened. Come right away."

She said the Soppis were born in Yugoslavia and came to the United States in 1959. She said Kathrina, also born in Yugoslavia, was adopted by the couple in 1966.

TRYING DESPERATELY to finish eating her spaghetti before the rest of her Elk Grove Community Center Nursery School classmates, Karla Imhauser slurps the noodles through her two missing front teeth. The spaghetti eating contest, to be an annual event, was sponsored by Barone's Restaurant, Mount Prospect. Owner Nick Barone donated $500 to B'nai B'rith for Jewish youth programs.

Spaghetti-eating contest a lip-smacker

Saucy 5-year-olds use noodle for good cause

by MARSHA S. BOSLEY

They came to the Mount Prospect restaurant Wednesday to see who could eat the most.

But except for three Elk Grove Community Center Nursery School students who cleaned their plates, their sparkling, little eyes were bigger than their tummies.

Nearly 30 pounds of steaming spaghetti and meat sauce were simmering in the pot at Barone's, 303 E. Kensington Rd., waiting for the nineteen 4-and 5-year-old contestants to arrive. When the tots finally got there, they amused themselves by singing "Ten Little Indians" and "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star," giving the pasta time to cool before they indulged.

IT WAS BARONE'S First Annual Spaghetti Eating Contest, and the excitement mounted as the plastic bibs were fastened around their necks and each child was served a glass of soda.

Forks were raised almost in unison as the waitresses emerged from the kitchen with 19 big bowls of spaghetti. "Spaghetti, spaghetti, spaghetti," one little girl chanted feverishly as she feasted her beaming eyes on the noon meal.

They straightened up in their chairs, some having to kneel in order to reach the table, and the signal to begin eating was given.

Giggles and slurps were all that could be heard. None of them bothered to twist and swirl the noodles around their forks. Some, in fact, saw no reason to use a fork at all. Their chins, cheeks and elbows turned orange with tomato sauce. Their parents will have a job of cleaning their clothes.

WITHIN FIVE minutes, Chris Calato, 5, licked his platter clean and was awarded dinner for his family at Barone's and a trophy naming him champion spaghetti eater. His classmates, Julie Newman and Raul Hurtado, also 5, finished second and third, respectively. They, too, received complimentary spaghetti dinners from Barone's.

The winner could barely talk after he finished eating but managed to say he was stuffed, had a stomach ache and was having fun.

"I learned how," Chris said when asked who taught him to eat so much spaghetti so quickly.

Nick Barone, owner of the restaurant, said the contest will be an annual event and students from various schools in the area will be asked to participate.

In honor of the First Annual Spaghetti Eating Contest, Barone is donating $500 to B'nai B'rith. The money will be used for Jewish youth programs throughout Chicago. Barone said each year of the competition he will make a contributon to a different ethnic organization in the spirit of "international brotherhood."

"It's so exciting," Barone said. "And the kids really enjoy it."

Publicity spoils lecturer's life

Ms. Weitzorek said she deliberatly gives newspapers a misspelling of her name when it is to be printed, so it is more difficult for strangers to find her.

Ms. Weitzorek also said she has requested protection from Palatine High School for her appearance there next Thursday and will bring a bodyguard to the presentation. Following a controversy about the absence of boys at her first talk, the Dist. 211 Board of Education agreed to another presentation for the 20 male home ec students.

She said she usually does not use the bodyguard at speeches but "definitely will on the 19th" because of the number of threats she has received.

She said no reporters or teachers will be allowed to attend the rape program next Thursday.

IN THE PAST, the lectures have been for female or mixed groups but never for an all-male audience, and she said she is not sure how she will gear the talk for the 20 boys.

"If anyone snickers or laughs in a place I don't think is right, I'll walk off the stage," she said.

"My big fear is that schools eventually will close their doors to me," she said. "Wherever I speak, there's always been a girl who tells me she was able to talk her way out of a rape because she knew what to do. But there are many girls with no one to talk to, and those are the ones I want to get to."

Mid–East war plan nixed: Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Nixon will disclose in his televised interview tonight that he rejected as "sheer madness" an Egyptian proposal that United States and Soviet troops intervene in the 1973 Middle East war.

Correspondent John Scali of ABC said Nixon, during his second interview with David Frost, will disclose he "rejected a proposal to send two American Marine divisions into Isarel to impost a cease fire" during the October war.

"Such a plan, he says, would have been 'sheer madness' because it also would have provided for two Russian infantry divisions to move into Egypt and Syria for the same purpose," Scali said.

According to Scali, the intervention idea was originated by Egypt's President (Anwar) Sadat."

Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur, the armed forces chief of staff, said the giant Sikorsky CH53 crashed for yet unknown reasons Tuesday night near the Jordanian frontier. He said the helicopter had not been attacked.

"This was the worst air disaster we ever had," Gur said. He said never in Israel's four wars was a plane shot down carrying so many soldiers.

No one on the ground was killed or injured.

Announcement of the crash, which occurred near the Jewish settlement of Naaran just north of the ancient city of Jericho in the occupied West Bank of Jordan, was delayed more than 18 hours to permit notification of next of kin.

It brought all campaigning for the May 17 general election, including prime time television spots, to an abrupt halt as the nation went into mourning for the dead. Solumn music was played over the state radio and a commission was appointed to investigate the cause of the crash.

Funerals will be held beginning Thursday.

Aboard the heavy assault transport helicopter — one of the biggest in the world and dubbed the Sea Stallion by the U.S. Navy — were 50 paratroopers led by a captain and four air force crew members.

The pilot was a 25-year-old reserve major and had 1,100 hours flying time in C-53 helicopters.

The twin-rotor helicopter was the last to take off in large-scale maneuvers involving combat jets, tanks, artillery and the engineering corps. It had a normal ascent.

"Due to as yet unknown reasons, the helicopter descended and after two kilometers struck the ground," Gur said.

Quinlan coma shows change: family priest

- A family priest Thursday said Karen Ann Quinlan, 23, in a coma since April of 1975, is showing some sign of change. "Julia Quinlan (Miss Quinlan's mother) said the last few time she's been there she seems to feel that Karen is holding her head and neck a little stiffer in the bed," the Rev. Thomas Trapasso told a symposium. Father Trapasso said he did not know "what the change was an indication of," but noted it was the first time there had been any change since Karen was removed from a respirator last May 17.

SKOKIE, Ill. (UPI) — A mother and her 14-year-old adopted daughter were found slain early Wednesday in their Skokie apartment.

Police said it appeared the mother, Natalia Soppi, 50, had been strangled. Her daughter, Kathrina, was shot once in the head. No signs of sexual molestation were found on either victim, police said.

The bodies were found by Mrs. Soppi's husband, Frank, 55, a restaurant operator who had just returned home after eating an early breakfast with some of his employes. Soppi called police at 4:14 a.m.

Inside the home, police found the mother lying in a rear hallway and the daughter on a couch in a bedroom. No gun was found in the apartment, and there was no sign of forced entry into the apartment, which is the first floor of a two-flat.

Some furniture was overturned, indicating the mother or daughter might have struggled with the killer.

Soppi was questioned by police for about four hours and was then released.

Olga Soppi, a sister-in-law of Soppi, said Soppi called her before calling police and said, "I've lost everything. Something terrible has happened. Come right away."

She said the Soppis were born in Yugoslavia and came to the United States in 1959. She said Kathrina, also born in Yugoslavia, was adopted by the couple in 1966.

Spaghetti-eating contest a lip-smacker

Saucy 5-year-olds use noodle for good cause

by MARSHA S. BOSLEY

They came to the Mount Prospect restaurant Wednesday to see who could eat the most.

But except for three Elk Grove Community Center Nursery School students who cleaned their plates, their sparkling, little eyes were bigger than their tummies.

Nearly 30 pounds of steaming spaghetti and meat sauce were simmering in the pot at Barone's, 303 E. Kensington Rd., waiting for the nineteen 4-and 5-year-old contestants to arrive. When the tots finally got there, they amused themselves by singing "Ten Little Indians" and "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star," giving the pasta time to cool before they indulged.

IT WAS BARONE'S First Annual Spaghetti Eating Contest, and the excitement mounted as the plastic bibs were fastened around their necks and each child was served a glass of soda.

Forks were raised almost in unison as the waitresses emerged from the kitchen with 19 big bowls of spaghetti. "Spaghetti, spaghetti, spaghetti," one little girl chanted feverishly as she feasted her beaming eyes on the noon meal.

They straightened up in their chairs, some having to kneel in order to reach the table, and the signal to begin eating was given.

Giggles and slurps were all that could be heard. None of them bothered to twist and swirl the noodles around their forks. Some, in fact, saw no reason to use a fork at all. Their chins, cheeks and elbows turned orange with tomato sauce. Their parents will have a job of cleaning their clothes.

WITHIN FIVE minutes, Chris Calato, 5, licked his platter clean and was awarded dinner for his family at Barone's and a trophy naming him champion spaghetti eater. His classmates, Julie Newman and Raul Hurtado, also 5, finished second and third, respectively. They, too, received complimentary spaghetti dinners from Barone's.

The winner could barely talk after he finished eating but managed to say he was stuffed, had a stomach ache and was having fun.

"I learned how," Chris said when asked who taught him to eat so much spaghetti so quickly.

Nick Barone, owner of the restaurant, said the contest will be an annual event and students from various schools in the area will be asked to participate.

In honor of the First Annual Spaghetti Eating Contest, Barone is donating $500 to B'nai B'rith. The money will be used for Jewish youth programs throughout Chicago. Barone said each year of the competition he will make a contributon to a different ethnic organization in the spirit of "international brotherhood."

"It's so exciting," Barone said. "And the kids really enjoy it."

Publicity spoils lecturer's life

Ms. Weitzorek said she deliberatly gives newspapers a misspelling of her name when it is to be printed, so it is more difficult for strangers to find her.

Ms. Weitzorek also said she has requested protection from Palatine High School for her appearance there next Thursday and will bring a bodyguard to the presentation. Following a controversy about the absence of boys at her first talk, the Dist. 211 Board of Education agreed to another presentation for the 20 male home ec students.

She said she usually does not use the bodyguard at speeches but "definitely will on the 19th" because of the number of threats she has received.

She said no reporters or teachers will be allowed to attend the rape program next Thursday.

IN THE PAST, the lectures have been for female or mixed groups but never for an all-male audience, and she said she is not sure how she will gear the talk for the 20 boys.

"If anyone snickers or laughs in a place I don't think is right, I'll walk off the stage," she said.

"My big fear is that schools eventually will close their doors to me," she said. "Wherever I speak, there's always been a girl who tells me she was able to talk her way out of a rape because she knew what to do. But there are many girls with no one to talk to, and those are the ones I want to get to."

Mid–East war plan nixed: Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Nixon will disclose in his televised interview tonight that he rejected as "sheer madness" an Egyptian proposal that United States and Soviet troops intervene in the 1973 Middle East war.

Correspondent John Scali of ABC said Nixon, during his second interview with David Frost, will disclose he "rejected a proposal to send two American Marine divisions into Isarel to impost a cease fire" during the October war.

"Such a plan, he says, would have been 'sheer madness' because it also would have provided for two Russian infantry divisions to move into Egypt and Syria for the same purpose," Scali said.

Bottle bill crushed by 125-42 vote

The Illinois House by a 125-42 vote Wednesday crushed legislation which would have outlawed no-deposit beverage containers. The action came after the bill's sponsor, Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, worked Tuesday night to remove an amendment which would have put a 3-cent deposit on newspapers, as well as 5 cents on beverage containers. "The legislature did not look at the long view on this. They were sold a bill of goods by lobbyists and special interest groups," Pierce said after the defeat.

Opponents of the legislation charged the bill would force workers in the bottling and container industry out of jobs. Pierce argued that similar legislation in other states brought about the creation of additional jobs. Pierce promised to bring the legislation back in two years.This is the first time in several sessions the full House has voted on the legislation.

YES: Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie; Richard Mugalian, D-Palatine. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights.

Thompson, bond experts to meet

Gov. James R. Thompson will meet with bond experts and lecture at Harvard University next week during a two-day trip to the East coast. Thompson aides are billing the trip as "official state business" but the governor also is expected to meet with several prominent New York Republicans.

The meeting with New York bond market officials is seen as an effort by the governor to maintain the state's Triple A bond rating.

There are no indications the state is in danger of losing the rating, but a $150 million bond sale is planned next month. Some state officials said recent bond sales have produced interest rates higher than should be expected with the triple A rating. the governor is expected to tell the financial experts the state's financial condition is improving and that lower interest rates are warranted.

Elections board gets court stay

The Illinois Supreme Court Wednesday gave the unconstitutional state Board of Elections another reprieve, allowing it to continue in business until June 30, 1977. The court handed down, without explanation, the extension on the last day of the board's existence. Under the stay, the legislature now has until the scheduled end of the session to pass and have signed by the governor a bill that would reconstitute the board, which was declared unconstitutional by the court late last year.

Police spied on 15 in Assembly: rep

Fifteen current members of the Illinois General Assembly from Chicago were targets of a Chicago police spy group in the 1960s and 1970s, State Rep. Woods Bowman, D-Chicago, said Wednesday. Bowman said he learned last week the lawmakers were among an estimated 200,000 citizens the Chicago Police Dept. kept files on during the 1960s and early 1970s. During that time the so-called "Red Squad" documented the lawmakers' attendance at organization meetings, speeches before community groups and other harmless activities, Bowman said.

Among those with files are: Senators Dawn Clark Netsch, Charles Chew and Harold Washington, all Chicago Democrats, and Chicago Representatives Susan Catania, Raymond Ewell, Charles Gaines, Ellis Levin, Jesse Madison, Robert Mann and Peggy Smith Martin. All except Mrs. Catania and Gaines are Democrats. All of those named by Bowman as targets of the "Red Squad" either are black, women or independents. Bowman said three other Chicago House members, Bernard Epton, James Houlihan and Michael Holewinski, were named in other files on legislators or groups and indications were found that there may have been files on them. But Bowman said no files have been found.

Bowman said he is not convinced the spying has stopped completely and is seeking support for a bill he has introduced. That bill (H1547) would prohibit political snooping by police unless a judge approves. Most legislators who appeared at a news conference with Bowman said they had not been aware the files were being kept.

Firm broke theater contract: court

The Illinois Appellate Court has upheld a lower court ruling that Keep Productions Inc. failed to comply with contract terms to provide "legitimate live theatrical productions" at the Arlington Park Theater.

In an opinion handed down Wednesday, Justice Mel Jiganti said the production company's booking of the Free Street Theatre group in April 1976 did not meet the terms of the company's contract with the theater.

Justices Daniel J. McNamara and Helen F. McGillicuddy concurred.

David Lonn, president of Keep Productions, expressed disappointment Wednesday at the decision, but said the matter would not be appealed.

Lonn's company had filed suit against the now-closed theater last year, saying his group had been locked out of the theater March 4 when the theater contended Lonn had failed to abide by terms of a contract by not booking acts at the theater for several weeks.

THE COURT ISSUED an injunction in Lonn's favor, but the ruling later was lifted when the company failed to book an act until April 6, when the Free Street Theatre was hired.

The theater argued the troupe did not constitute the kind of act Lonn was to provide, an opinion which Cook County Circuit Court Judge Donald O'Brien upheld.

Lonn has other lawsuits pending against the theater including one seeking $300,000 in damages for allegedly locking out his company.

Lonn Wednesday said the court ruling means the theater is not obligated to pay his company, adding "they are free to do now what I always said they want to do and that is convert it to a night club."

late at night and usually on weekends.

"After six o'clock I don't know what happens. It's so wild out there people are scared to let their kids go out," Suzanne Colbert said. She moved to the house at 2226 N. Kennicott Dr., a month ago, not knowing that the neighbor's car landed in her front yard one night when it was struck by another auto driven by a motorist who fell asleep.

"The police said he must have been going 50-75 m.p.h.," said Sue Baldacci, Mrs. Colbert's neighbor.

MRS. BALDACCI'S station wagon was demolished in the accident, which happened about 5 a.m. Thanksgiving Day last year.

"I'm a nervous wreck thinking what's going to happen next. It gets so you're afraid to go to bed on weekend nights," Mrs. Baldacci said.

Mrs. Taege, whose home at 2220 N. Kennicott Dr. was one of the first built on the street 13 years ago, said the problem has existed for about 10 years.

"We've had problems ever since they opened both ends of the street. The only solution I can see is to go back and correct their original mistake by closing the street at at least one end," she said.

"We lay in bed and hear squealing brakes and then we listen to see if there's a crash. It's been going on for so many years and the village just ignores us," Mrs. Taege said.

"I DON'T COMPLAIN about the heavy traffic. You have to go along with progress. But this street obviously wasn't designed for this kind of traffic," she said.

"We've more or less learned to live with the amount of traffic," said Marty Landorf, 2227 N. Kennicott Dr. "The bad thing is the terrific speed of traffic and people going out of control. If you fall asleep on this street, there's no place to go but somebody's front yard," she said.

"It looks like the same old story where someone is going to have to be hurt or killed before something is done," Mrs. Taege said.

RTA buddy day gives commuter free bus ride

Riders on the Buffalo Grove-Arlington Heights commuter bus can get a free ride May 20 if they bring a friend along.

Steve Forstyth, a spokesman for the Regional Transportation Authority which operates the bus, said the "Board with a Buddy" program is designed to attract new riders. The line has had a decrease in riderships since February, Forsyth said.

"We want to get that ridership up a little higher than it has been," he said. "And we're looking for something to stimulate a little more interest in the route."

Riders boarding the bus Friday will receive coupons entitling them to a free ride May 20 if they are accompanied by a paying passenger, he said.

Friday is National Transportation Day, Forsyth said.

Steve Goldspiel of the Buffalo Grove transportation committee, said the program is a good idea because "the biggest problem some suburban people have is knowing how to do it (take the bus)."

Ridership on the route, which began last June, hovered between 1,400 and 1,500 a week during February and March, but dropped to a low of 1,140 the week ending April 9, Forsyth said.

It has since been climbing again and reached 1,348 for the week ending April 30, the last week figures are available, he said.

Library to be closed Friday morning

The Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton St., will be closed Friday morning because of construction work on the library expansion project.

The library will be open to patrons from 2 to 10 p.m. Friday.

If it rains Friday, the construction will be delayed and the library will be open during its regular hours from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Firm broke theater contract: court

The Illinois Appellate Court has upheld a lower court ruling that Keep Productions Inc. failed to comply with contract terms to provide "legitimate live theatrical productions" at the Arlington Park Theater.

In an opinion handed down Wednesday, Justice Mel Jiganti said the production company's booking of the Free Street Theatre group in April 1976 did not meet the terms of the company's contract with the theater.

Justices Daniel J. McNamara and Helen F. McGillicuddy concurred.

David Lonn, president of Keep Productions, expressed disappointment Wednesday at the decision, but said the matter would not be appealed.

Lonn's company had filed suit against the now-closed theater last year, saying his group had been locked out of the theater March 4 when the theater contended Lonn had failed to abide by terms of a contract by not booking acts at the theater for several weeks.

THE COURT ISSUED an injunction in Lonn's favor, but the ruling later was lifted when the company failed to book an act until April 6, when the Free Street Theatre was hired.

The theater argued the troupe did not constitute the kind of act Lonn was to provide, an opinion which Cook County Circuit Court Judge Donald O'Brien upheld.

Lonn has other lawsuits pending against the theater including one seeking $300,000 in damages for allegedly locking out his company.

Lonn Wednesday said the court ruling means the theater is not obligated to pay his company, adding "they are free to do now what I always said they want to do and that is convert it to a night club."

The financially troubled theater held its last performance last weekend.

Crippled jet lands safely in Tampa

The veteran pilot of an Eastern Airlines Miami-to-New York jet gently eased his crippled aircraft down on a foamed runway at Tampa Wednesday after ordering passengers to bury their heads in pillows as a precautionary measure. "It was a normal landing," said Dr. Joseph Davis of Miami, one of the nine passengers and six crewmen aboard. "In fact, it was a better landing than going into Baltimore yesterday." Hundreds of spectators lined a nearby roadway to watch the emergency landing, and a cheer went up when the captain, George Lacey, 51, a pilot of 35 years, finally braked the jet to a halt in front of the Tampa International terminal. No one was hurt.

The Eastern flight, No. 152, was to have made an intermediate stop at Orlando, but Lacey noticed a problem with his right landing gear when he began preparing for the landing. After making a low level pass so control tower personnel could check the problem, Lacey touched down softly and balanced the plane on its nose gear as he gradually slowed the plane before putting the weight on the main gear. A rooster tail of foam sprayed out behind.

Ease benzene order: trade groups

Two trade associations and 10 oil companies asked a federal court Wednesday to block new emergency government limits on worker exposure to benzene, claiming they cannot comply. The limits are scheduled to take effect May 21. The American Petroleum Institute, one of the trade associations involved, said the request for aid was made in a petition for judicial review filed with the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. An API spokesman said the request to the court seeks at least an extension of the deadline, if not a complete reversal of the new limits imposed recently by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said OSHA acted on "overwhelming" evidence that benzene causes leukemia. OSHA's order reduced permissible average exposure levels from 10 parts of benzene per million parts of air to 1 ppm, based on an eight-hour day, and lowers the ceiling for benzene concentrations from 25 ppm to 5 ppm.

Panel OKs crime victim pay bill

The House Judiciary Committee Wednesday approved a bill authorizing the federal government to help pay victims of violent crimes up to $50,000 each for medical bills and loss of wages. The $150 million, three year authorization measure, adopted by 22-12 vote, was expected to be brought up for House floor consideration next week. The Carter administration has endorsed the legislation, but had urged a $20,000 limit be established for payments under state programs that would qualify for federal reimbursement.

U.S. funds a must for relations: Viet Charging that America's obligation toward the reconstruction of Vietnam is "undeniable," Hanoi said Wednesday there will be no diplomatic relations between the two former foes until Washington agrees to give aid money. Nhan Dan, the Communist country's only daily newspaper, published an official commentary a week after the first round of Paris talks and Washington's declaration that no reparations will be made to its former foe.

"There can be no normalization of relations unless the United States meets its obligation and stops its hostility to Vietnam," said the commentary, which was carried by official Vietnam News Agency and monitored in Bangkok. The commentary did not refer to the vote by Congress last week banning aid to Vietnam. The United States is continuing its erroneous policy," the commentary said.

Young meets with Afircan chiefs

U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young Wednesday met behind closed doors with 35 American diplomats stationed in African capitals to help President Carter chart Washington's new policy for the black continent. The meeting was held in Abidjan, Ivory Coast, on the first business day of Young's 12-day African tour, which will include a visit to Johannesburg, South Africa, where Young has been invited to speak. In Washington, meantime, the State Department announced South Africa has approved Young's visit to Johannesburg for May 21.

We killed Borgonovo: leftists

Leftist guerrillas Wednesday claimed responsibility for the assassination of Foreign Minister Mauricio Borgonovo Pohl and blamed "Yankee imperialism" for his death. The body of Borgonovo, 38, was found late Tuesday on a highway five miles from San Salvador, dressed in the clothes of a beggar and with three bullet wounds in the back of his head. The Farabundo Marti Popular Liberation Forces said its members killed Borgonovo because the government of President Arturo Armando Molina refused to negotiate the release of 37 political prisoners in exchange for Borgonovo's life.

THE LAST 40 to 60-foot assent of 3,000-foot high Tumbledown Mountain in Byron, Maine was easy for golden retriever, "Chelsea." She received a ride in the back pack of her master James Daniels. Dog and master, along with some other friends, were seeking a hidden trout stream. Daniels reports Chelsea enjoyed the outing.

Crippled jet lands safely in Tampa

The veteran pilot of an Eastern Airlines Miami-to-New York jet gently eased his crippled aircraft down on a foamed runway at Tampa Wednesday after ordering passengers to bury their heads in pillows as a precautionary measure. "It was a normal landing," said Dr. Joseph Davis of Miami, one of the nine passengers and six crewmen aboard. "In fact, it was a better landing than going into Baltimore yesterday." Hundreds of spectators lined a nearby roadway to watch the emergency landing, and a cheer went up when the captain, George Lacey, 51, a pilot of 35 years, finally braked the jet to a halt in front of the Tampa International terminal. No one was hurt.

The Eastern flight, No. 152, was to have made an intermediate stop at Orlando, but Lacey noticed a problem with his right landing gear when he began preparing for the landing. After making a low level pass so control tower personnel could check the problem, Lacey touched down softly and balanced the plane on its nose gear as he gradually slowed the plane before putting the weight on the main gear. A rooster tail of foam sprayed out behind.

Ease benzene order: trade groups

Two trade associations and 10 oil companies asked a federal court Wednesday to block new emergency government limits on worker exposure to benzene, claiming they cannot comply. The limits are scheduled to take effect May 21. The American Petroleum Institute, one of the trade associations involved, said the request for aid was made in a petition for judicial review filed with the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. An API spokesman said the request to the court seeks at least an extension of the deadline, if not a complete reversal of the new limits imposed recently by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said OSHA acted on "overwhelming" evidence that benzene causes leukemia. OSHA's order reduced permissible average exposure levels from 10 parts of benzene per million parts of air to 1 ppm, based on an eight-hour day, and lowers the ceiling for benzene concentrations from 25 ppm to 5 ppm.

The Carter administration has endorsed the legislation, but had urged a $20,000 limit be established for payments under state programs that would qualify for federal reimbursement.

Park board wrapup

Train station move up for review

The feasibility of moving the downtown Arlington Heights train station to Prairie Farm and Garden and rebuilding it at the 15-acre park site will be reviewed by the Arlington Heights Park Board.

The board Tuesday voted to have Preservation/Urban/Design/Inc. of Ann Arbor, Mich., architects of Prairie Form, study the possibility of reconstructing the station at the park site at Belmont Avenue and Council Trail.

The decision followed a presentation by residents who have started a drive to save the station built in 1894. The station is scheduled to be demolished this summer when a new station is constructed.

The residents hope that if they can find a site for the train station they will be able to obtain a federal or state grant to pay the estimated $10,000 cost of moving and reconstructing the building.

Petitions to save the train station will be presented by residents Monday to the Arlington Heights Village Board.

Tentative site for band shell

Recreation Park tentatively has been selected by the park board as the location of a band shell being purchased by the Festival '77 Committee.

A final decision on the location of the band shell is pending further meetings with the festival committee and village planners. Some park commissioners said they felt the band shell should be located at the proposed Lake Arlington.

The park board also tentatively agreed to maintain and program the band shell.

Attorney to prepare budget

The park board has directed its attorney, Charles K. Bobinette, to prepare a budget and appropriation ordinance for the proposed $1.4 million operating budget for the 1977-78 fiscal year. The budget represents a 28 per cent increase from the current operating budget of $1.13 million. The increase is due to an 8 per cent hike in salaries, a 24 per cent increase in utility and contractual fees, a 47 per cent increase in insurance costs and a 100 per cent increase in maintenance and repair costs.

The board is scheduled to adopt the tentative budget May 23 and give final approval June 27 following a public hearing.

Gruenewald elected president

Jackie J. Gruenewald has been elected to a one-year term as president of the Arlington Heights Park Board.

Mrs. Gruenewald replaces Lloyd W. Meyer who has served as park board president for the past two years.

Robert P. Rohleder was elected vice president of the five-member board. Reelected to other offices were Thomas Thornton, secretary; Raymond Simpson, treasurer; and Charles K. Bobinette, attorney.

Meyer who was elected to a two-year term and F. Bruce Westerburg who was elected to a six-year term in the April 5 elections were sworn into office at the meeting.

Boosters' flea market

The Arlington High School Instrumental Boosters Assn. will sponsor a flea market from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday in the school parking lot at Euclid and Walnut avenues.

In the event of rain, sale items will be moved inside the school.

There will be a paper drive in conjunction with the flea market. Band members will collect papers at the athletic field's Walnut Avenue entrance.

Proceeds from the paper drive and flea market will be used to fund various band activities and to purchase uniforms for the newly organized flag corps.

Dance show slated

"Prisms of Motion," a show featuring jazz, ballet, modern and abstract dances, will be performed by the Arlington High School Orchesis group at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the Brystol Theater, 502 W. Euclid St. Tickets are $1.50 for students and $2 for adults.

Train station move up for review

The feasibility of moving the downtown Arlington Heights train station to Prairie Farm and Garden and rebuilding it at the 15-acre park site will be reviewed by the Arlington Heights Park Board.

The board Tuesday voted to have Preservation/Urban/Design/Inc. of Ann Arbor, Mich., architects of Prairie Form, study the possibility of reconstructing the station at the park site at Belmont Avenue and Council Trail.

The decision followed a presentation by residents who have started a drive to save the station built in 1894. The station is scheduled to be demolished this summer when a new station is constructed.

The residents hope that if they can find a site for the train station they will be able to obtain a federal or state grant to pay the estimated $10,000 cost of moving and reconstructing the building.

Petitions to save the train station will be presented by residents Monday to the Arlington Heights Village Board.

Tentative site for band shell

Recreation Park tentatively has been selected by the park board as the location of a band shell being purchased by the Festival '77 Committee.

A final decision on the location of the band shell is pending further meetings with the festival committee and village planners. Some park commissioners said they felt the band shell should be located at the proposed Lake Arlington.

The park board also tentatively agreed to maintain and program the band shell.

Attorney to prepare budget

The park board has directed its attorney, Charles K. Bobinette, to prepare a budget and appropriation ordinance for the proposed $1.4 million operating budget for the 1977-78 fiscal year. The budget represents a 28 per cent increase from the current operating budget of $1.13 million. The increase is due to an 8 per cent hike in salaries, a 24 per cent increase in utility and contractual fees, a 47 per cent increase in insurance costs and a 100 per cent increase in maintenance and repair costs.

The board is scheduled to adopt the tentative budget May 23 and give final approval June 27 following a public hearing.

Gruenewald elected president

Jackie J. Gruenewald has been elected to a one-year term as president of the Arlington Heights Park Board.

Mrs. Gruenewald replaces Lloyd W. Meyer who has served as park board president for the past two years.

Robert P. Rohleder was elected vice president of the five-member board. Reelected to other offices were Thomas Thornton, secretary; Raymond Simpson, treasurer; and Charles K. Bobinette, attorney.

Meyer who was elected to a two-year term and F. Bruce Westerburg who was elected to a six-year term in the April 5 elections were sworn into office at the meeting.

Boosters' flea market

The Arlington High School Instrumental Boosters Assn. will sponsor a flea market from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday in the school parking lot at Euclid and Walnut avenues.

In the event of rain, sale items will be moved inside the school.

There will be a paper drive in conjunction with the flea market. Band members will collect papers at the athletic field's Walnut Avenue entrance.

Proceeds from the paper drive and flea market will be used to fund various band activities and to purchase uniforms for the newly organized flag corps.

Dance show slated

"Prisms of Motion," a show featuring jazz, ballet, modern and abstract dances, will be performed by the Arlington High School Orchesis group at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the Brystol Theater, 502 W. Euclid St. Tickets are $1.50 for students and $2 for adults.

Teen escapes as fire hits home

by DAVE IBATA

An 18-year-old Mount Prospect resident escaped death late Wednesday by jumping from the second floor bedroom of his family's burning home.

Dominick Alvino, his wife, Shirley and five of their six children escaped the smoke and flames of the fire that struck the family room of their home at 1422 Cypress Dr. about 10 p.m., but once safely outside, they realized that their son, Nick, was missing.

"We called, 'Nicky, Nicky, where are you?' " Alvino said. "He was caught upstairs in all that smoke for five minutes."

ALVINO SAID he was talking on a telephone shortly after 10 p.m. when he saw fire in the family room in the rear, northwest corner of his house. The entire family was awake when the fire broke out.

"It went up so fast, we didn't know what to do," Alvino said. "Before you could say Jack Robinson, it went up."

Alvino unsuccessfully tried to extinguish the flames, which were shooting up from a television and two stereo sets, he said.

Shirlevy Alvino called firefighters; then she and her husband were forced outside by thick smoke, Alvino said.

HOWEVER, ONCE outside, they realized Nick was missing.

After five minutes of searching outside the home and calling, Alvino said he heard his son calling, "Help! Help!"

Alvino said he looked up, and saw Nick.

"He was standing in the middle (second-story) window," Alvino said. "We couldn't see his face — the smoke was covering his face."

NICK ALVINO jumped from the window and landed on the grass of the home's back yard, Alvino said.

"He was really black," Alvino said.

A woman who Alvino said he did not know came from her apartment on Cottonwood Lane, across the street from the house, and led Nick to safety.

Mount Prospect Paramedics took Nick Alvino to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, for treatment of smoke inhalation.

Firefighters had the flames doused within a half-hour after they arrived. They said the fire broke out in the family room, flames spread upstairs to an attic and heat caused sliding-glass patio doors to explode.

Family members who escaped injury included daughters Pam, 15, Terry, 19, and Pat, 21; and sons Joe, 11, and Mark 14. The family was taken to the hospital for a physical examination after the blaze.

Roosevelt U. plans revealed tonight

Roosevelt University officials will present their plans for the leasing of an Arlington Heights Dist. 25 junior high school when the Dist. 25 Board of Education meets at 7:30 p.m. today at Dunton School, 1200 S. Dunton Ave.

The board will make no decision on the univesity's proposal until summer and there will be several more public meetings before it decides, Supt. Donald Strong said.

Board members in February decided to close one of the district's four junior high schools next June because of declining enrollment and mounting budget deficits, but deferred naming a particular school until Roosevelt officials determine which school they prefer to lease.

The Chicago-based university hopes to operate a satellite program in Dist. 25, offering courses at the junior, senior and graduate level.

"If your doctor will prescribe generic drugs, Medicare Pharmacies will save you money."

To lower the cost of your medication, Medicare Pharmacies announce a new generic drug program which can save Missouri and Illinois residents up to 50% on many prescriptions.

Many drugs have two names: a generic name, which is the product's chemical name, and a brand or trade name.

There should be no chemical difference between a brand name drug and a top quality generic drug. But there IS a price difference. Brand name drugs cost you more to buy because they cost drug companies more to sample and promote.

Generic drugs are not available for all pharmaceuticals. However, Medicare Pharmacies have a full stock of generic drugs. And, IF YOUR DOCTOR AGREES to prescribe a generic, Medicare Pharmacies can save you money on your medication.

LET YOUR PHYSICIAN BE YOUR GUIDE. Next time you need medication, ask him to prescribe a generic drug. Then come in or call any Medicare Pharmacy and see how much you can save. At your request, Medicare pharmacists will call your doctor for you.

Aerosol spray ban urged; skin cancer danger cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing dangers of skin cancer, the government Wednesday proposed a ban on "insidious and destructive" fluorocarbon gases in aerosol sprays, effective in 1979.

It was estimated the ban could save consumers up to $240 million per year since other gases used to power spray products are 8 to 19 cents per can cheaper.

The government said it also intends to go after non aerosol uses of fluorocarbons in air conditioners and refrigerators, although it cannot yet tell whether a ban will be needed there.

The ban was proposed by the Food and Drug Administration, Environmental Protection Agency and the Consumer Product Safety Commission, which regulate all aerosol consumer products propelled by fluorocarbon gases.

THEY CITED evidence the gas is eroding Earth's ozone layer, which scientists have said could lead to as many as 120,000 new cases of skin cancer a year.

About 60 per cent of all fluorocarbons released into the atmosphere from this country come from spray products and 40 per cent from refrigerant uses.

FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy said the phase-out is a "prudent and proper response to the problems of human health and safety imposed upon our world by a chemical introduced and used in innocence but apparently both insidious and destructive."

A BAN ON fluorocarbons in aerosol products does not mean the end of high-pressure spray cans because other gases can be used.

The government agencies said the ban may save consumers $58 million to $240 million a year, since spray products pressured by non-fluorocarbons cost less.

Industry says fluorocarbons account for only 30 per cent of the 2.4 billion aerosol spray containers sold in the United States each year.

But the governmdnt said the aerosol industry, chiefly companies like DuPont which make the basic gas, may lost $169 million to $267 million in each of the four years after the ban takes effect.

EPA ADMINISTRATOR Douglas Costle said "essential" products, which account for 2 to 3 per cent of fluorocarbon emissions, will be exempt from the ban, since fluorocarbons apparently do a better job of dispersing spray than other gases.

These include a mine safety warning device, plastic mold release agents, and flying insect sprays used on airplanes and in commercial food-handling establishments. Nonprescription asthma sprays also are exempted.

The phase-out regulations provide that as of Oct. 15, 1978, no company may manufacture fluorocarbons for use in aerosol products.

As of Dec. 15, 1978, companies must stop using fluorocarbons in aerosol products, and as of April 15, 1979, no spray product containing fluorocarbons may be put into interstate commerce. Products on store shelves may be used up, however, and there will be no recall.

The dealing went on almost an hour, but Crossroads didn't have a car on hand to please the two. The two left without leaving any more cash, but sheriff's deputies in cars and a helicopter had arrived, and a day-long journey tailing the suspects began.

Robinson and Williams stopped at two more dealerships during the day. Back at Crossroads, Miller was calling his competitors, telling them to make whatever deal necessary to get the cash as evidence.

THE MEN FINALLY left three more hundred dollar bills at one dealership as a deposit on a car, and the snare had been set. Authorities took the bills and began checking the numbers.

Apparently tired of the auto shopping, Robinson and Williams returned home where sheriff's deputies closed in. In the search of the apartments, Butler, the auto dealer's attorney, who accompanied the police, found the .22-caliber rifle apparently used in the slaying.

The suspects had been caught, but many questions were left unanswered. Why had Mrs. Jackson — the goose who laid the golden eggs been killed? She had been robbed numerous times before, yet hardly ever complained to the police or pressed charges. She even called the robberies "God's will."

And why had the men been so blatant as to spend the money so freely and so soon after the murder?

Police and others close to the scene conceded that the three found with the money were pretty stupid. But stupidity is not the answer to all the questions.

Det. Robert Kirkman chief investigator in the case, said he suspects the men had been visiting the Jackson home to steal money for two or three weeks before the killings Kirkman speculated that Mrs. Jackson finally had enough of the robberies and resisted. That could have resulted in her death.

"Maybe it didn't bother her too much when they took only part of it," he said. Maybe this time it was different. Maybe she thought they would take it all." He said he had no other explanation for the slaying.

AS THEY DUG deeper into the strange affair, police said there may be a connection between the killing and a May 1976 robbery in which three men were arrested with $800,000 in Mrs. Jackson's money — but were released because the widow refused to press charges.

Don Miller: Cash is not unusual.

Betty and Jesse Miller were prehaps Mrs. Jackson's only friends. She would visit the Miller home after numerous burglaries, but would never cal the police.

Attorney Duge Butler said suspects who purchased this Lincoln wanted to trade it for another because of the scratch on the front panel.

FBI hunts suspect pair in millionairess murder

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The FBI searched Wednesday night for an ex-convict and his former wife who, police said, may be driving across the country with millions of dollars from the burglary-slaying of heiress Marjorie V. Jackson.

Federal fugitive warrants were issued for Howard Russell Willard, 38, who had served three priosn terms for burglary and theft, and his former wife, Marjorie Louise Pollitt, 48.

Both were charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of the reclusive Mrs. Jackson, a grocery chain magnate's widow who kept millions of dollars in her mansion and was a frequent victim of burglars.

Three other persons have been arrested in the shooting of Mrs. Jackson, 66, last week. Police recovered at least $1.6 million in loot from them. They said Willard may have much more.

THE FBI WAS on the case because authorities believed Willard was headed toward Daytona Beach, Fla., and because of Mrs. Jackson's withdrawal of her fortune from Indianapolis banks.

Authorities indicated they believed Willard was the mastermind of the crime.

Police said they got on Willard's trail when he started spending money freely last week — in crisp, new $100 bills — and told neighbors he had inherited $12 million from an uncle.

Marjorie Pollitt

Howard Willard

Marion County Police Lt. Robert Kirkman said the three other suspects said $6 million was taken from Mrs. Jackson's home, though they missed more than $5 million more. If the claim is true, the burglary could be the biggest theft in United States history.

"It wouldn't surprise me," Kirkman said with regard to the possibility that the take might have actually been $12 million.

"Their statement was that they had $3 million, but whether they had counted it or were guessing I don't know, although they had spent a lot of money on jewelry and clothes and passed out thousands of dollars to friends," Kirkman said.

SEVERAL NEIGHBORS reported Willard told them: "I went to North Carolina, went into the attorney's office and he told me that my uncle had died and left me $12 million."

He was seen driving two new cars and bought rounds of drinks for patrons of a tavern, paying the check with new $100 bills which the FBI said came from Mrs. Jackson's house.

Kirkman said the couple was traveling separately. One was driving a 1972 silver Oldsmobile with black vinyl roof and pulling a 24-foot beige Concord travel trailer, police said. The other was driving a 1977 silver Olds 98, pulling a U-Haul trailer, they said.

"I'm sure he had more than we got off these other guys," Kirkman said. "If I masterminded something, I know I would have been getting more than the rest."

THE OTHER SUSPECTS were caught because two of them flashed large bankrolls in buying a two-tone silver Lincoln Continental and then tried to trade it on a fancier one after the first car received a few scratches.

Arraignment of Manuel Lee Robinson, 29; John A. Williams, 38, and Annie K. Young, 22, was continued until May 25.

Robinson faces murder, burglary and arson charges and is held without bond. Bond of $100,000 was set for Williams, who is charged as an accessory after the fact. Bond for Miss Young was reduced to $1,000, apparently in hopes that she would cooperate with the prosecutor. '

More than $5 million was found in the Jackson home Saturday when firemen went to put out an arson blaze apparently started to conceal the crime. Some police sources said the burglars may have taken an equal amount.

friend, Northwood sophomore Bill Thompson. The body was found face down in clear view of a pathway leading to a cluster of apartments.

Positive identification of the body was made Wednesday by Miss Goodman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Goodman, 514 Wille, Mount Prospect. Marilyn would have been 19 June 26.

The Wednesday autopsy showed the girl had been strangled. Dr. J. Daniel Cline, Midland County Chief Medical Examiner said she had probably been dead since Sunday morning.

Mount Prospect police, who also are investigating the murder said Miss Goodman was sexually assaulted and bludgeoned.

The body was found only about 30 feet from a gatehouse at the campus' main entrance where security officers stand guard from 5 p.m. until 4 a.m. weekdays and 5 p.m. to 5 a.m. weekends.

The campus was not searched Monday Meyer said. Instead, 30 policemen combed the woods in the vicinity of the party. Both that area and the campus were searched by helicopter Tuesday but the body was not found.

Kuehn said there was no indication that the party was unusually boisterous. She said campus security is maintained at night by off-duty policemen in cars and on-foot.

The only planned change for better safety was posting bulletin board notices on campus, urging that women avoid being alone at night.

A memorial serviceon campus has been planned for 4 p.m. Friday at the student center.

friend, Northwood sophomore Bill Thompson. The body was found face down in clear view of a pathway leading to a cluster of apartments.

Positive identification of the body was made Wednesday by Miss Goodman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Goodman, 514 Wille, Mount Prospect. Marilyn would have been 19 June 26.

The Wednesday autopsy showed the girl had been strangled. Dr. J. Daniel Cline, Midland County Chief Medical Examiner said she had probably been dead since Sunday morning.

Mount Prospect police, who also are investigating the murder said Miss Goodman was sexually assaulted and bludgeoned.

The body was found only about 30 feet from a gatehouse at the campus' main entrance where security officers stand guard from 5 p.m. until 4 a.m. weekdays and 5 p.m. to 5 a.m. weekends.

The campus was not searched Monday Meyer said. Instead, 30 policemen combed the woods in the vicinity of the party. Both that area and the campus were searched by helicopter Tuesday but the body was not found.

Kuehn said there was no indication that the party was unusually boisterous. She said campus security is maintained at night by off-duty policemen in cars and on-foot.

The only planned change for better safety was posting bulletin board notices on campus, urging that women avoid being alone at night.

A memorial serviceon campus has been planned for 4 p.m. Friday at the student center.

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN remove fallen tree limbs and trees wrecked by the freak snow storm that hit New England Monday. The Guardsmen were called to Newton, Mass. Wednesday because that area was one of the hardest hit. Newton's mayor said the town looked like a tornado hit.

Debris of New England storm cleared

by United Press International

National Guardsmen used chainsaws Wednesday to help suburban Boston residents clear away debris left by a late spring ice and snowstorm. Utility crews worked around the clock to restore electricity.

"We are starting to bail out right now," said Mayor Theodore Mann of Newton, a Boston suburb. "We had about 100 streets that were impassable last night and many power lines are still hot. It looks like a tornado hit our city."

The storm that dumped up to 1½ feet of snow on New England was long gone, but an estimated 30,000 homes, businesses and industrial plants in the Boston area remained without power.

At the peak of an extensive, domino-effect power failure Tuesday, 625,000 utility customers in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut — well over 1 million people — were without electricity.

THE TWO-DAY storm was the worst since 1870 to strike New England so late in the season. Both seashore and inland communities were battered, and at least 37 boats sank or were grounded in the Marblehead, Mass., harbor.

From snowy New England, cold speared all the way to the Gulf of Mexico. Record low temperatures for the date were set at Raleigh, Wilmington and Charlotte, N.C., Columbus, Ga., and Beckley, W.Va.

The National Weather Service issued freeze warnings for Wednesday night in the mountains of Maryland and in northern Delaware. A frost warning was up in North Carolina's Smokies.

Funnel clouds moved over south Texas. Heavy thunderstorms swept areas west and north of Corpus Christi. Overnight, up to three inches of rain fell near San Angelo.

Pat Condon, director of the Chicago Park District's programs for the mentally retarded, will be the featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Suburban Townships Assn. for the Retarded (STAR) at 8 p.m. May 17 at Kirk Center, 520 S. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine. She will speak on recreational and sports programs for the developmentally disabled.

Unit refuses to disclose Korean gifts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House committee investigating alleged South Korean bribery on Capitol Hill refused Wednesday to require its own members to disclose whether they got any gifts from the Koreans.

Some House Ethics Committee members said later the panel probably would adopt an alternative provision in which each member would fill out a questionnaire on the matter, and suggested all House members might be asked to do the same.

They gave no details on what such a questionnaire might ask, or how it might differ from the rejected disclosure proposal.

REJECTION OF the disclosure requirement followed news reports suggesting at least a few of the 12 committee members had accepted various favors from South Koreans.

Asked about that, committee chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., said "I don't know."

Pressed to explain why the public might not suspect "a coverup" in the committee's action, Flynt said, "I can't answer that question."

The disclosure plan, rejected on a 6-2 vote, was proposed by the panel's most junior member, Rep. Bruce Caputo, R-N.Y.

He said it would show that those running the inquiry were "clean," and the panel's chief attorney, Philip Lacovara, a former assistant Watergate prosecutor, endorsed the idea.

"I DON'T SEE anything to be gained by members of this committee trying to prove their purity," said Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala. He recalled Richard Nixon's famous "I am not a crook" declaration during the Watergate scandal and asked, "Is that what we're doing here?"

Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., said the disclosure requirement would 'impugn our integrity."

The House gave the committee a $500,000 budget in March to investigate reports that some congressmen took thousands of dollars in bribes or kickbacks from South Korean businessman Tongsun Park and other Korean agents in the 1970s.

The Koreans allegedly made the payments to gain favorable U.S. policy toward Seoul.

As the committee met for three hours, all 21 House GOP freshmen except Caputo told a news conference the public was losing faith in the Ethics Committee's inquiry.

State bargaining bill faces tough Senate fight

Backers of legislation to grant collective bargaining rights to public employes in Illinois may have won a battle in the Illinois House Tuesday, but opponents believe they have lost the war.

The legislation, which allows strikes for all government workers except police officers and firefighters won approval in the lower chamber, but opponents see history repeating itself in the Illinois Senate.

"I think there is an excellent opportunity to defeat this labor legislation in the Senate," said Steve Sargent, executive director of the Illinois Municipal League.

SARGENT SAID the legislation is too one-sided.

Past legislative sessions have witnessed the collective bargaining legislation win approval in the Illinois House, but defeated in the Senate.

"We are always scared the legislation might pass, but I think it can be beat again," he said.

Sargent based his prediction on the fact the bill got fewer votes in the Illinois House than a similar bill in 1975.

THE LEGISLATION that year became bottled up in the Illinois Senate Labor Committee and never reached the floor for a vote. In other sessions the collective bargaining legislation has been beaten on the senate floor.

Several new factors, however, have entered the picture that might alter the legislation's outcome.

Aides to Gov. James R. Thompson Wednesday said the governor has not taken a position on the legislation, but is not backing away from his campaign pledge to support collective bargaining legislation.

Thompson wants 'no strike' provisions for emergency workers. However, most Republicans traditionally have opposed mandatory collective bargaining bills and Thompson's position is seen as a marked change.

Sargent said he hopes if the legislation is passed by the Illinois Senate, Thompson would veto the bill. He said he has not met with the governor to discuss the measure as yet, adding the league is not opposed to collective bargaining but does favor a state mandated law.

The major collective bargaining legislation, which is sponsored by State Rep. Thomas Hanahan, D-McHenry, one of the more prominent pro-labor spokesmen in the legislature, creates a state labor relations board.

State bargaining bill faces tough Senate fight

Backers of legislation to grant collective bargaining rights to public employes in Illinois may have won a battle in the Illinois House Tuesday, but opponents believe they have lost the war.

The legislation, which allows strikes for all government workers except police officers and firefighters won approval in the lower chamber, but opponents see history repeating itself in the Illinois Senate.

"I think there is an excellent opportunity to defeat this labor legislation in the Senate," said Steve Sargent, executive director of the Illinois Municipal League.

SARGENT SAID the legislation is too one-sided.

Past legislative sessions have witnessed the collective bargaining legislation win approval in the Illinois House, but defeated in the Senate.

"We are always scared the legislation might pass, but I think it can be beat again," he said.

Sargent based his prediction on the fact the bill got fewer votes in the Illinois House than a similar bill in 1975.

THE LEGISLATION that year became bottled up in the Illinois Senate Labor Committee and never reached the floor for a vote. In other sessions the collective bargaining legislation has been beaten on the senate floor.

Several new factors, however, have entered the picture that might alter the legislation's outcome.

Aides to Gov. James R. Thompson Wednesday said the governor has not taken a position on the legislation, but is not backing away from his campaign pledge to support collective bargaining legislation.

Thompson wants 'no strike' provisions for emergency workers. However, most Republicans traditionally have opposed mandatory collective bargaining bills and Thompson's position is seen as a marked change.

Sargent said he hopes if the legislation is passed by the Illinois Senate, Thompson would veto the bill. He said he has not met with the governor to discuss the measure as yet, adding the league is not opposed to collective bargaining but does favor a state mandated law.

The major collective bargaining legislation, which is sponsored by State Rep. Thomas Hanahan, D-McHenry, one of the more prominent pro-labor spokesmen in the legislature, creates a state labor relations board.

Girl, 13, admits to sex in Polanski case hearing

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — A 13-year-old girl allegedly raped by Roman Polanski admitted to the grand jury that she had twice before had sexual intercourse with unnamed persons before the alleged incident with the film director, according to testimony Wednesday.

Polanski's attorney, Douglas Dalton, read portions of the county grand jury transcript that led to the director's indictment on six felony counts stemming from the alleged rape at the home of actor Jack Nicholson March 10.

The 43-year-old director had been scheduled to face trial Wednesday. But after hearing Dalton's motion for a delay of the trial, Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband agreed to a postponement until Jan. 29. Polanski did not appear at the session.

TWO OTHER MOTIONS, one seeking dismissal of the indictment and the other seeking more information about the alleged victim, including her sexual background and psychiatric history, will be argued at a hearing before Rittenband Friday.

Dalton read a portion of the grand jury transcript which showed that the girl was asked: "Had you had any sexual intercourse with anyone before March 10:"

"Yes," the girl answered.

"Approximately how many times?"

"Twice."

Dalton also quoted the girl's boyfriend as telling an investigator for the District Attorney's office that the girl "is always acting and therefore, it was difficult to determine if she was truthful or not."

In arguing unsuccessfully for an immediate dismissal of the charges, Dalton said in court briefs that "it is possible that she fantasizes or lies about previous sexual experiences."

He further accused the District Attorney's office of withholding important evidence in the case, and asked for access to all items involved in the alleged rape including "undergarments . . . which might show semen."

Deputy District Attorney Roger Gunson said he would fight Dalton's efforts to bring the girl's prior sexual history into the trial.

A recent California law prevents the admission of evidence of prior sex histories of rape victims unless the defense can prove during pretrial hearings that the evidence can "destroy credibility" of the victim's testimony.

Dalton's motions asked for full disclosure by the prosecution's witnesses, including the victim's prior history of sexual activities and "fantasizing." It also sought evidence of prior psychiatric or psychological evaluations of the girl and the right to examine all physical evidence of the sex acts Polanski is accused of.

POLANSKI WAS scheduled to appear in court for the Friday hearing.

The director of such films as 'Rosemary's Baby" and "Chinatown" was indicted by a county grand jury March 24 on charges stemming from the alleged rape of a girl March 10 at the home of actor Jack Nicholson.

Polanski reportedly had been a friend of the girl's mother and had been given permission to photograph her for a French issue of Vogue magazine.

After picking the girl up at her home in suburban Woodland Hills, the director drove her to the Bel-Air home of Nicholson, who was not at home.

HE MADE SEXUAL advances toward the girl, authorities said, but she resisted them until Polanski coaxed her into taking the drug Quaalude, a sedative and hypnotic, with a glass of champagne.

Polanski was arrested the following day after the girl's mother overheard her daughter talk about the alleged rape with a friend on the telephone.

Study needed on saccharin experts say

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A panel of researchers agreed Wednesday more studies are needed to see if recently discovered impurities in saccharin caused Canadian laboratory animals fed the artificial sweetener to develop cancer.

A Canadian health official involved in the original research linking saccharin to bladder tumors in rats said so many uncertainties exist that an assessment of the human risk is difficult.

"We simply don't know to what extent these impurities are responsible for the tumors," said Dr. Harold Grice, head of the toxicology division of Canada's Health and Welfare Dept. Health Protection Branch.

RESEARCHERS FROM the United States, Canada, England, Japan, Germany and France discussed the issue at a three-day forum on saccharin at the Eppley Institute for Cancer Research, together with representatives of industries involved in use of saccharin.

Dr. Frank Fairweather, British director of chemical contamination of food and environmental pollution, said he had seen no evidence saccharin produces bladder cancer in man.

"I do not believe you can get the over-all picture from the Canadian study," he said. British officials, he said, are recommending against a ban of saccharin.

Canada has imposed a ban on saccharin to be applied in stages beginning July 1. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration plans to impose at least a partial ban on use of the sweetener.

The group called for additional research to isolate and identify impurities in saccharin and tests aimed at determining whether saccharin acts alone or in concert with impurities or traces af cancer agents found in animal diets.

It would have been a good idea in any of those years. It's a good idea today. Our own surveys show that resale prices of northwest suburban homes have increased from 9.2% to 12.2% per year over the past four years.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — A 13-year-old girl allegedly raped by Roman Polanski admitted to the grand jury that she had twice before had sexual intercourse with unnamed persons before the alleged incident with the film director, according to testimony Wednesday.

Polanski's attorney, Douglas Dalton, read portions of the county grand jury transcript that led to the director's indictment on six felony counts stemming from the alleged rape at the home of actor Jack Nicholson March 10.

The 43-year-old director had been scheduled to face trial Wednesday. But after hearing Dalton's motion for a delay of the trial, Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband agreed to a postponement until Jan. 29. Polanski did not appear at the session.

TWO OTHER MOTIONS, one seeking dismissal of the indictment and the other seeking more information about the alleged victim, including her sexual background and psychiatric history, will be argued at a hearing before Rittenband Friday.

Dalton read a portion of the grand jury transcript which showed that the girl was asked: "Had you had any sexual intercourse with anyone before March 10:"

"Yes," the girl answered.

"Approximately how many times?"

"Twice."

Dalton also quoted the girl's boyfriend as telling an investigator for the District Attorney's office that the girl "is always acting and therefore, it was difficult to determine if she was truthful or not."

In arguing unsuccessfully for an immediate dismissal of the charges, Dalton said in court briefs that "it is possible that she fantasizes or lies about previous sexual experiences."

He further accused the District Attorney's office of withholding important evidence in the case, and asked for access to all items involved in the alleged rape including "undergarments . . . which might show semen."

Deputy District Attorney Roger Gunson said he would fight Dalton's efforts to bring the girl's prior sexual history into the trial.

A recent California law prevents the admission of evidence of prior sex histories of rape victims unless the defense can prove during pretrial hearings that the evidence can "destroy credibility" of the victim's testimony.

Dalton's motions asked for full disclosure by the prosecution's witnesses, including the victim's prior history of sexual activities and "fantasizing." It also sought evidence of prior psychiatric or psychological evaluations of the girl and the right to examine all physical evidence of the sex acts Polanski is accused of.

POLANSKI WAS scheduled to appear in court for the Friday hearing.

The director of such films as 'Rosemary's Baby" and "Chinatown" was indicted by a county grand jury March 24 on charges stemming from the alleged rape of a girl March 10 at the home of actor Jack Nicholson.

Polanski reportedly had been a friend of the girl's mother and had been given permission to photograph her for a French issue of Vogue magazine.

After picking the girl up at her home in suburban Woodland Hills, the director drove her to the Bel-Air home of Nicholson, who was not at home.

HE MADE SEXUAL advances toward the girl, authorities said, but she resisted them until Polanski coaxed her into taking the drug Quaalude, a sedative and hypnotic, with a glass of champagne.

Polanski was arrested the following day after the girl's mother overheard her daughter talk about the alleged rape with a friend on the telephone.

Study needed on saccharin experts say

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A panel of researchers agreed Wednesday more studies are needed to see if recently discovered impurities in saccharin caused Canadian laboratory animals fed the artificial sweetener to develop cancer.

A Canadian health official involved in the original research linking saccharin to bladder tumors in rats said so many uncertainties exist that an assessment of the human risk is difficult.

"We simply don't know to what extent these impurities are responsible for the tumors," said Dr. Harold Grice, head of the toxicology division of Canada's Health and Welfare Dept. Health Protection Branch.

RESEARCHERS FROM the United States, Canada, England, Japan, Germany and France discussed the issue at a three-day forum on saccharin at the Eppley Institute for Cancer Research, together with representatives of industries involved in use of saccharin.

Dr. Frank Fairweather, British director of chemical contamination of food and environmental pollution, said he had seen no evidence saccharin produces bladder cancer in man.

"I do not believe you can get the over-all picture from the Canadian study," he said. British officials, he said, are recommending against a ban of saccharin.

Canada has imposed a ban on saccharin to be applied in stages beginning July 1. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration plans to impose at least a partial ban on use of the sweetener.

The group called for additional research to isolate and identify impurities in saccharin and tests aimed at determining whether saccharin acts alone or in concert with impurities or traces af cancer agents found in animal diets.

"Wish we'd bought a house in 1945...1955...1965...1975"

It would have been a good idea in any of those years. It's a good idea today. Our own surveys show that resale prices of northwest suburban homes have increased from 9.2% to 12.2% per year over the past four years.

With rising lumber prices, labor costs, zoning laws, building codes, and environmental restrictions, there is little foreseeable hope for any easing of housing needs.

We have the funds to make home ownership a reality for you now. Come in and talk with us if you want prompt action on applications, competitive interest rates and closing costs, and mortgage loan provisions that are all in your favor.

Carter hospital lid may allow 10% hike: Califano

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's proposed lid on hospital costs probably will allow annual charge increases of more than 10 per cent instead of the 9 per cent announced earlier, HEW Sec. Joseph Califano told Congress Wednesday.

Under questioning at a hearing, Califano said the economic conditions that control the ceiling already have worsened enough to permit at least a 10.2 per cent annual increase under the Carter plan.

A HEW aide later told United Press International the allowable ceiling could go as high as 11 per cent.

CALIFANO ALSO testified the cost of an average hospital stay of more than seven days — $350 in 1965 — now is $1,300, and in five years will double to $2,600. He called that a "gargantuan . . . galloping . . . intolerable" increase.

He presented the administration's first congressional testimony on the hospital cost proposal at a joint hearing of two House health subcommittees.

"America simply cannot tolerate hospital costs that are rising at 2½ times the rate of inflation," he said, and estimated the Carter proposal would save taxpayers $1.9 billion the first year through reduced Medicare and Medicaid costs.

He said hospitals have a "fat list" of unnecessary expenditures that could be trimmed by more than $5 billion through energy conservation and measures such as barring admission of elective surgery patients on Fridays and Saturdays when laboratory and operating facilities are closed.

"Sickness doesn't take a holiday," snapped Rep. Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., a physician.

CALIFANO encountered some other skeptical reactions too, even from lawmakers upset about rising hospital costs.

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., said the administration had "a great deal riding on this legislation" because some of the anticipated savings would be diverted to the financially troubled Social Security system.

Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., said he hoped a cut in hospital costs wouldn't reduce health services for poor persons.

Rep. Willis Gradison, R-Ohio, said he wondered if Congress wasn't being asked "to buy a pig in a poke" substitute for national health insurance.

Califano opened the hearing by saying the plan would limit total revenues for 6,000 acute-care hospitals to an annual rate "of about 9 per cent" through a formula reflecting economic conditions.

He revised that estimate upward after Rep. John Duncan, R-Tenn., challenged it.

Child psychiatrist talk Tuesday

"Parents and Growing Children — A Child Psychiatrist's View" will be the topic of a free community program at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the sanctuary of the South Church Community Babtist Church, 501 S. Emerson, Mount Prospect.

Dr. Pieter de Vryer, director of child and adolescent psychiatry at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, will be the speaker. He will discuss the pros and cons of parents being too aware of their responsibilities as parents. "Today people are more aware of their responsibilities as parents than they have been in the past," he says. "Often when parents try too hard to be a good parent, they don't succeed."

Dr. de Vryer will explain how a parent's own experience as a child determines how he acts as a parent.

Want a finer lawn? Then read this!

Last summer, was your lawn starting to thin out? Brown patches showing up here and there? To much shade, or too many kids playing on it to give it a chance?

It doesn't make much difference whether you are starting from scratch with a new lawn or your lawn is ten, twenty-five or fifty years old; here are some facts you should consider:

WITH AN OLD LAWN you don't have to put up with a scuffy, unsightly lawn you are ashamed of . . .

WITH A NEW LAWN you can avoid the discouragement and problems mentioned above.

HERE IS WHY: Research facilities, established nearly a third of a century ago by Warren's Turf Nursery, Inc., have under observation over 1,000 strains and species of lawn grasses. Several of these new grass discoveries have had excellent ratings from universities who are doing turfgrass research. They have no financial interest in the sale of these new grasses.

One of these grasses is BenSun ® (A-34) Kentucky Bluegrass which outranks all other bluegrasses in most of the categories studied and tested. For example:

BenSun (A-34) is rated the most shade tolerant of any bluegrass.

BenSun (A-34) is the only grass to receive an excellent rating for wear tolerance.

BenSun (A-34) is rated at or near the top in disease resistance.

BenSun (A-34) has been under observation for twenty-five years and has been performance proven on hundreds of thousands of lawns, athletic fields and golf courses for the past eighteen years. No other recent bluegrass development has had such a long experience of successful ratings and performance.

BenSun (A-34) thrives in hot or cold climates, high or low altitudes and does well on good or poor soils.

BenSun (A-34) is the most hardy bluegrass available. When injured it springs back quickly, healing the injury in a very short time.

BenSun (A-34) was the only grass to remain green during the recent drought in England and Scotland. Tees at St. Andrews Golf Course planted with BenSun (A-34) remained green even when not watered regularly.

BenSun (A-34) Kentucky Bluegrass is available as sod, sod plugs or seed. BenSun (A-34) Sun & Shade Mixture Lawngrass Seed is guaranteed as follows:

"If you are not satisified with the results obtained from this seed, return the empty box with proof of purchase within 6 months to Warren's Turf Nursery, Inc. You will be supplied with more seed or your money will be refunded, your choice."

For every person who sees the inside of your home, thousands will see your lawn and landscaping around your home. So when renovating an old lawn or establishing a new lawn why not insist on the finest lawn possible at the lowest price possible . . . BenSun (A-34) Kentucky Bluegrass. You, your children and maybe your grandchildren will be glad you did. BenSun (A-34) is like a diamond . . . it is forever.

BenSun (A-34) is a product of the world's largest, one of the oldest and most experienced grower of fine lawns.

Carter abroad makes good start

President Jimmy Carter's first official trip abroad deserves high marks for spreading his "new spirit" doctrine to other leaders of the free world.

The six-day European summit meeting demonstrates that the new president can move with ease and authority in the area of foreign affairs.

While Carter and the other leaders did not forge any major substantive initiatives, the commitment to future meetings portends a strengthening of cooperation between the United States and its allies.

The importance of Carter's European initiative must be measured in the light of the presidential campaign rhetoric which contended the former Georgia governor was ill-suited for global diplomacy.

Although the president did not return home with any new agreements, he won a small concession in the form of a study of the policy of selling nuclear technology to developing nations. Carter wanted a formal agreement banning such sales, but other nations, intent on marketing their expertise, balked. The U.S. had to settle for a policy review.

The president also announced new commitments for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, bolstered the sagging rapport between the U.S. and France, and met with Syrian Pres. Hafez Assad on Middle East questions.

Carter joined other Western leaders in a strong warning to the Soviet Union that East-West relations could be damaged by Russian efforts to interfere with Western activities in West Berlin.

All of the presidential activities in Europe point to a firm new push for greater understanding and cooperation with Western allies, something that has been neglected in past administrations which focused on Southeast Asia and the Middle East.

The glow of success which has surrounded Carter on this trip — and been bolstered by the cheers of ordinary British citizens — will doubtless dim as time goes on and the normal strains among allies resurface.

Nevertheless, Carter has made a good start in his foreign relations. The tone set by this trip augurs well for future foreign relations.

It's time for van pooling

In the middle of all the debate on energy and the need for energy conservation, a new term appears destined to become common place — van pooling.

A group of businessmen in Schaumburg and Rolling Meadows is promoting the idea. Simply, van pooling would provide rides to work in air conditioned comfort for up to 12 persons per van. The program would be supported by local businesses with fares paid by employes.

Van pooling is an expansion of the idea of car pools; the companies with employes involved giving the project official sanction. Federal money for such projects has been granted in Knoxville, Tenn., Marin, Calif. and Norfolk, Va.

Robert Winslow, managing director of IDC Real Estate in Schaumburg, is chief promoter of the idea in this area. He wants to interest businesses such as Motorola, Union Oil and International Harvester in supporting van pooling.

Winslow has proposed that local businesses start the program without applying for federal funds, with the companies involved buying the vans. Federal grants could be received later, once the program is off the ground.

Such a proposal would certainly help cut both energy consumption and harassment for commuters to the Schaumburg-Rolling Meadows area.

Van pooling sounds like an idea whose time has come.

Hereinafter some hope

'It is to be duly hoped that under the present circumstances which have heretofore been described by the chief executive, hereinafter referred to as the president, that in the near future that the rules, regulations and other publications of the federal government will be revised, changed and otherwise altered to provide information to those parties interested in it in a way that . . .'

We give up. Bureaucrats may be able to write like that, but as that partly completed paragraph shows, eventually all meaning is lost in the verbiage.

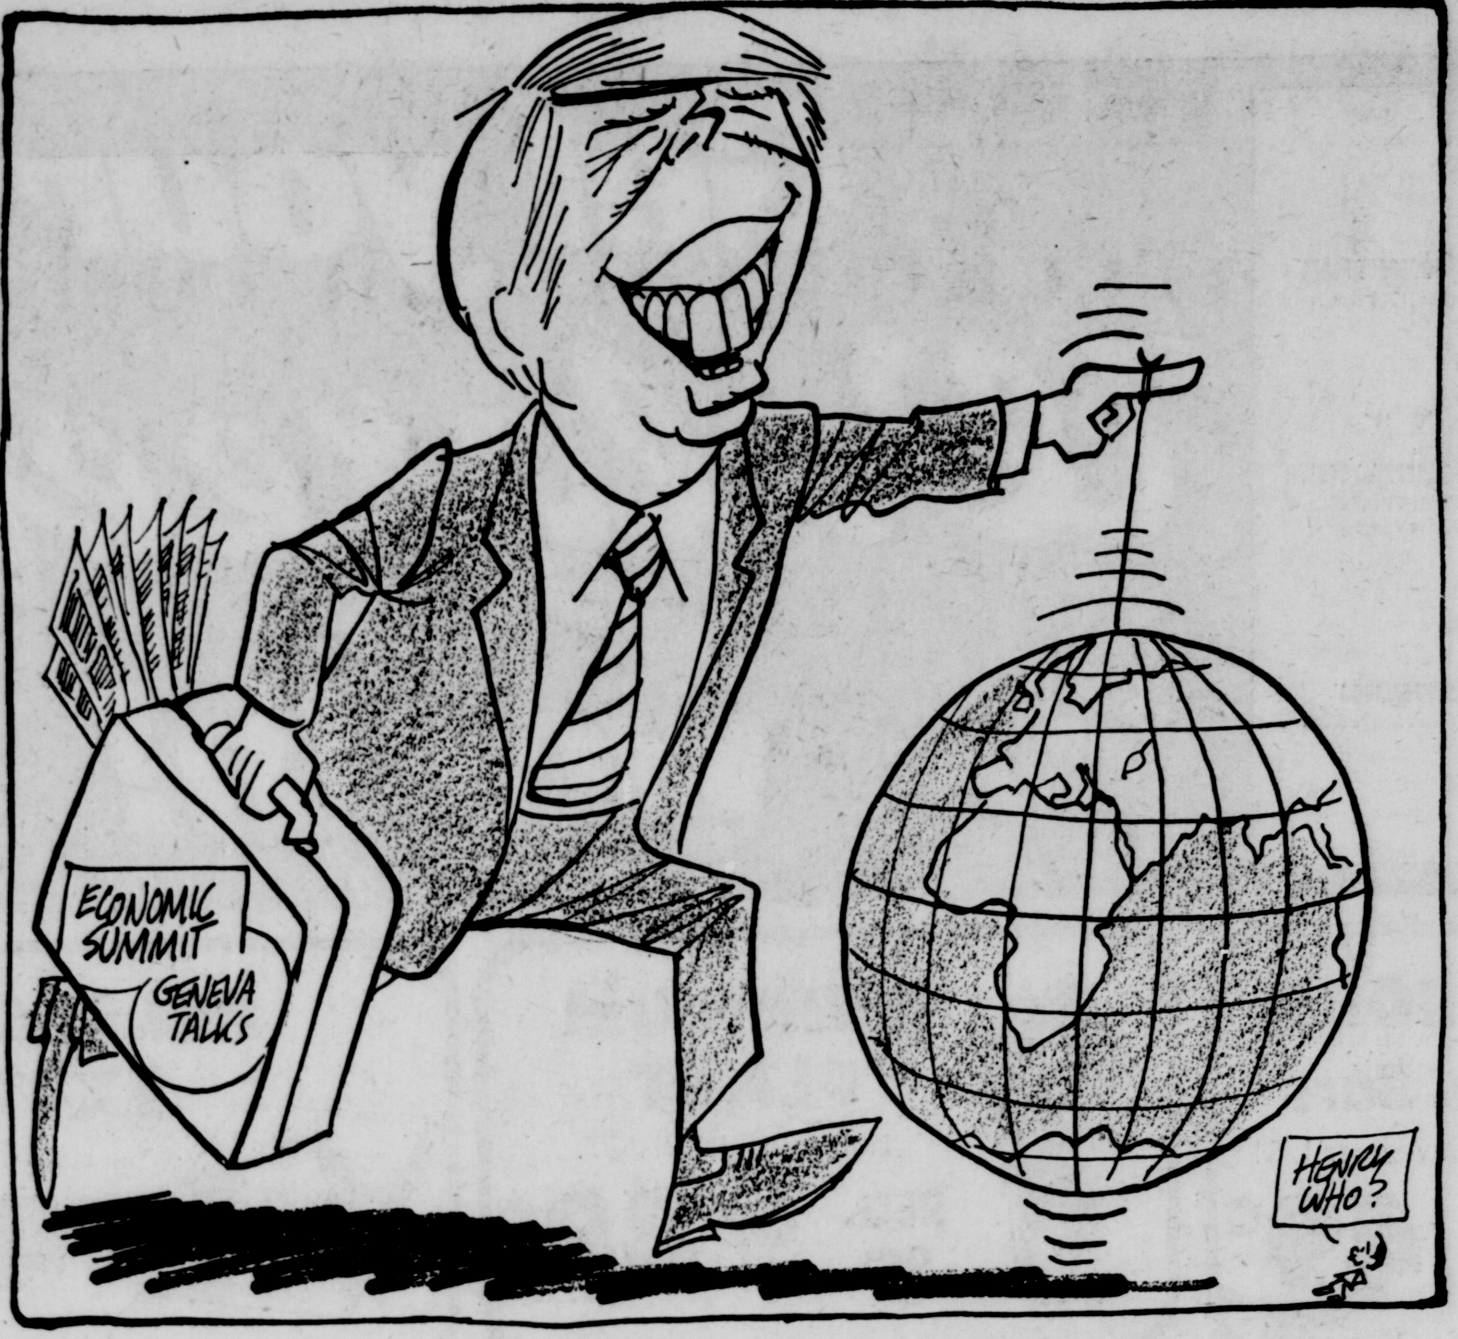
That paragraph originally was supposed to say, in the jargon of the federal government, that Pres. Jimmy Carter has declared war on fuzzy writing. Word from Washington indicates there is some hope for more clarity because of the president's concern.

The director of the "Federal Register," the place where all government regulations are published, has started writing classes for regulation writers to convince them that all their work doesn't have to be muddy and to help them change.

Officials in other parts of the government have taken steps to try to clarify their writing. Last month the Labor Department hired a consulting firm to help with new pension regulations.

Someday, perhaps, the regulations issued by the government will make sense — or at least make more sense than they make now.

If that occurs, Jimmy Carter's presidency will surely earn a place in semantic history.



Henry, where ever you are, eat your heart out!

Paul Greenberg

If Richard Nixon is not a man hag-ridden with unresolved guilt, he's the world's greatest actor. And he ceased to be even a passable actor some time ago. In the first televised interview he was caught on tape again, this time complete with visual image. He seemed older, seedier and even more alone than he once seemed in the midst of crowds.

The Old Nixon was still present. In the direct indirect answer ("Let me say this before I answer that question directly . . .") and in the rare spurt of unconvincing indignation ("How many times do I have to tell you . . .") and when he stalled for time at the introduction of new evidence ("Not published, you say?"). His dodges are all so familiar by now that in a curious sense they ring true — to the man's character. Sputtering, he spoke of E. Howard Hunt's demands for money ("B-blackmail!") with the genuine hatred and contempt of someone who could be blackmailed.

He began by taking refuge in brittle legalisms, explaining that he had not obstructed justice corruptly. He may have condoned or acquiesced in it, but only for reasons of Political Containment, or National Security, or to protect others — it was a question of motive, you see, and so he hadn't really obstructed justice.

HIS REASONING, like his appearance, had more than a touch of the pathetic. As if one could not be corrupted by political gain or high-sounding ideals that happened, in Richard Nixon's case, to coincide with his own immediate interests. In the end he was reduced to stonewalling David Frost with sand. ("That's your opinion; I have my opinion . . . You're entitled to your conclusion and I to my own views . . . I can't interpret it at this time . . .")

It was David Frost who proved up for last week's show, well groomed and even better briefed.

Frost's manner may be better suited to the assizes than to an American courtroom, but it suited well enough— too well for those who grow weary of tormenting Richard Nixon. A man in sore need of a father confessor was instead being delivered into the hands of a show-biz entrepreneur. The reptilian way Frost quoted that line about a "modified, limited hang-out" from the Nixon tapes made it sound much worse than an honest lie, which it was. Like a Soviet purge artist in English garb, the inquisitor explained to Nixon that what the American people wanted and needed from him was a full confession. One wished the ASPCA would step in and end it.

"One has to go contrary to the normal usage of language in 10,000 gangster movies," David Frost patiently explained to Richard Nixon, to conceive of any interpretation of his words but obstruction of justice. In the surest sign of success for any prosecutor, he soon had the witness using the prosecutor's language with its built-in confesssion. "Using our gangster language here . . ." Mr. Nixon would say later, flashing his 15-cent smile. If they ever turn these interviews into a movie and are in need of a one-word title a la Alfred Hitchcock, they could call it "Cornered."

NOT THAT THERE weren't moments of carefully planned sincerity on the part of the witness. With Richard Nixon, one can tell when they're coming. The voice drops half an octave and he rolls out a daughter, a dog or Dwight D. Eisenhower. He hesitated to fire H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, he explained, because as vice president back in the Eisenhower Administration he had been picked to give the boot to Sherman Adams, that splendid man. And now that he was president himself, there was no trustworthy Richard Nixon around for him to assign the dirty work. After all, he couldn't have Spiro Agnew do it. (That had to be the most convincing statement of the evening.) And so let Haldeman and Ehrlichman linger.

It was a classical Nixon performance, the unspoken line of the chorus being "Pity Poor Me," which used to alternate with "Admire Strong Me!"

Richard Nixon is still Everyman early in the morality play, scurrying from one false savior to another and finding no comfort. As if his suffering torment, rather than freeing himself of it, were the test of manliness. Yes, he gave the sadists of America their money's worth Wednesday night. In his final and doubtless premeditated peroration, he confessed only to letting others down, to a lack of ability rather than to any moral guilt. "I let down my friends. I let down the country. I let down our system of government and the dreams of all those young people that ought to get into government but think it's all too corrupt and the rest. I let the American people down . . ." And yet he still does not seem to grasp in his blindness and pride whom he has kept down most cruelly and most poignantly. Himself.

He tells of good deeds by Dr. Foy

You printed an article about Dr. H. Foy in your paper and I would like to comment on it. Why is it that you always print a story one-sided? Why not write what good Dr. Foy has done?

Last year I received a bad laceration on my finger. Dr. Foy came to his office at 10 p.m. to stitch it up for me. I was very grateful for his dedication to do this. If I had gone to a hospital, I would have had a two-hour wait.

Dr. Foy just didn't give out pills. He was a doctor too. He gave my wife and me our blood tests for our marriage. He has been my wife's family doctor for years. What other doctor do you know who charges five dollars for a visit?

In my opinion, Dr. Foy is just a man who believes people are honest when they come in and tell him they are overweight. Maybe what he did was wrong, but don't leave out all the facts.

Kenneth LaHay
Wheeling

(The Herald has printed an interview with Dr. Foy as well as numerous letters supporting him. The doctor has been charged with illegally dispensing drugs).

Worthy of note

I would like to openly express my sincere gratitude to "Dave Major and The Minors" for bringing such happiness into my life. Their concert of April 24 at Rolling Meadows High School was yet another example of their tremendous talent. Whether it was rock music or country music, vocals or instrumentals, they were executed to the utmost perfection.

The amount of love radiated on stage was overwhelming, and the enthusiasm was just as evident.

Convention abortion foes latest tactic

WASHINGTON — The drive for a Constitutional amendment outlawing abortions has taken a new twist this year which Congress can no longer afford to ignore.

Frustrated by congressional inaction, right-to-life groups are now trying to get state legislatures to force the calling of a national constitutional convention to overturn the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion.

Preposterous? Don't be too sure. Eight states have already approved formal applications to Congress demanding a constitutional convention and similar resolutions are moving through the legislative mill in at least 15 other states.

THAT IS PRETTY substantial progress towards the two-thirds total (34 states) required to trigger a convention call, especially when you realize that five of the petitions were approved in a span of just four months.

The fact that there has never been a constitutional convention since the founding fathers first assembled to draft our basic charter does not preclude the possibility that one might be held in the future.

Article V of the Constitution specifically provides two separate avenues for amending the Constitution. The familiar route is for Congress to approve a proposed amendment by a two-thirds vote of each house and for three-fourths of the state legislatures to ratify it.

BUT ARTICLE V also stipulates that Congress shall call a Constitutional convention to consider a proposed amendment if two-thirds of the state legislatures petition it to do so. Any amendment adopted by such a convention would still need ratification by three-fourths of the states to become effective.

It is this second, uncharted course which anti-abortion forces are now pursuing for the first time as a supplement to their continuing, and thus far fruitless, frontal assault on Congress.

The tactical shift has created some dissension and uneasiness within the anti-abortion movement. Dr. Mildred Jefferson, president of the National Right-to-Life Committee, has opposed the move for a constitutional convention, fearing it could dilute the impact of the lobbying campaign to get Congress to approve a "human life" amendment.

BUT DAN BUCKLEY, chairman of the newly organized Americans for a Constitutional Convention, contends the state legislative route gives anti-abortion advocates a two-edged sword.

"On the one hand, if pursued all the way to a convention, Congress is bypassed completely. On the other hand, once a convention seems inevitable, or even likely, Congress may well decide to pass its own anti-abortion amendment to stop the convention drive," Buckley said in his group's first newletter.

Buckley and his allies contend that state legislators are flocking to the convention cause because they are "more responsive" to the public will than members of Congress.

PERHAPS SO. But having seen a few state legislatures in action, we suspect their members are simply less able to withstand the kind of single-minded, emotional lobbying pressure the foes of abortion exert wherever they go.

"We've always known state legislators were much more vulnerable," said Karen Mulhauser, director of the "pro-choice" National Abortion Rights Action League. "We suspected the other side could use this convention route and are just surprised it took them so long to land on it."

Supporters of legal abortions believe the drive for a Constitutional convention will lose its momentum as it nears the magic goal of 34 states. "It's easy to vote for a 'con-con' resolution if you are the 9th state, or the 12th. But if you are the 33rd state, you have to be more responsible and decide whether a convention is really a wise idea," Mulhauser said.

Carter abroad makes good start

President Jimmy Carter's first official trip abroad deserves high marks for spreading his "new spirit" doctrine to other leaders of the free world.

The six-day European summit meeting demonstrates that the new president can move with ease and authority in the area of foreign affairs.

While Carter and the other leaders did not forge any major substantive initiatives, the commitment to future meetings portends a strengthening of cooperation between the United States and its allies.

The importance of Carter's European initiative must be measured in the light of the presidential campaign rhetoric which contended the former Georgia governor was ill-suited for global diplomacy.

Although the president did not return home with any new agreements, he won a small concession in the form of a study of the policy of selling nuclear technology to developing nations. Carter wanted a formal agreement banning such sales, but other nations, intent on marketing their expertise, balked. The U.S. had to settle for a policy review.

The president also announced new commitments for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, bolstered the sagging rapport between the U.S. and France, and met with Syrian Pres. Hafez Assad on Middle East questions.

Carter joined other Western leaders in a strong warning to the Soviet Union that East-West relations could be damaged by Russian efforts to interfere with Western activities in West Berlin.

All of the presidential activities in Europe point to a firm new push for greater understanding and cooperation with Western allies, something that has been neglected in past administrations which focused on Southeast Asia and the Middle East.

The glow of success which has surrounded Carter on this trip — and been bolstered by the cheers of ordinary British citizens — will doubtless dim as time goes on and the normal strains among allies resurface.

Nevertheless, Carter has made a good start in his foreign relations. The tone set by this trip augurs well for future foreign relations.

It's time for van pooling

In the middle of all the debate on energy and the need for energy conservation, a new term appears destined to become common place — van pooling.

A group of businessmen in Schaumburg and Rolling Meadows is promoting the idea. Simply, van pooling would provide rides to work in air conditioned comfort for up to 12 persons per van. The program would be supported by local businesses with fares paid by employes.

Van pooling is an expansion of the idea of car pools; the companies with employes involved giving the project official sanction. Federal money for such projects has been granted in Knoxville, Tenn., Marin, Calif. and Norfolk, Va.

Robert Winslow, managing director of IDC Real Estate in Schaumburg, is chief promoter of the idea in this area. He wants to interest businesses such as Motorola, Union Oil and International Harvester in supporting van pooling.

Winslow has proposed that local businesses start the program without applying for federal funds, with the companies involved buying the vans. Federal grants could be received later, once the program is off the ground.

Such a proposal would certainly help cut both energy consumption and harassment for commuters to the Schaumburg-Rolling Meadows area.

Van pooling sounds like an idea whose time has come.

Hereinafter some hope

'It is to be duly hoped that under the present circumstances which have heretofore been described by the chief executive, hereinafter referred to as the president, that in the near future that the rules, regulations and other publications of the federal government will be revised, changed and otherwise altered to provide information to those parties interested in it in a way that . . .'

We give up. Bureaucrats may be able to write like that, but as that partly completed paragraph shows, eventually all meaning is lost in the verbiage.

That paragraph originally was supposed to say, in the jargon of the federal government, that Pres. Jimmy Carter has declared war on fuzzy writing. Word from Washington indicates there is some hope for more clarity because of the president's concern.

The director of the "Federal Register," the place where all government regulations are published, has started writing classes for regulation writers to convince them that all their work doesn't have to be muddy and to help them change.

Officials in other parts of the government have taken steps to try to clarify their writing. Last month the Labor Department hired a consulting firm to help with new pension regulations.

Someday, perhaps, the regulations issued by the government will make sense — or at least make more sense than they make now.

If that occurs, Jimmy Carter's presidency will surely earn a place in semantic history.

Paul Greenberg

If Richard Nixon is not a man hagridden with unresolved guilt, he's the world's greatest actor. And he ceased to be even a passable actor some time ago. In the first televised interview he was caught on tape again, this time complete with visual image. He seemed older, seedier and even more alone than he once seemed in the midst of crowds.

The Old Nixon was still present. In the direct indirect answer ("Let me say this before I answer that question directly . . .") and in the rare spurt of unconvincing indignation ("How many times do I have to tell you . . .") and when he stalled for time at the introduction of new evidence ("Not published, you say?"). His dodges are all so familiar by now that in a curious sense they ring true — to the man's character. Sputtering, he spoke of E. Howard Hunt's demands for money ("B-blackmail!") with the genuine hatred and contempt of someone who could be blackmailed.

He began by taking refuge in brittle legalisms, explaining that he had not obstructed justice corruptly. He may have condoned or acquiesced in it, but only for reasons of Political Containment, or National Security, or to protect others — it was a question of motive, you see, and so he hadn't really obstructed justice.

HIS REASONING, like his appearance, had more than a touch of the pathetic. As if one could not be corrupted by political gain or high-sounding ideals that happened, in Richard Nixon's case, to coincide with his own immediate interests. In the end he was reduced to stonewalling David Frost with sand. ("That's your opinion; I have my opinion . . . You're entitled to your conclusion and I to my own views . . . I can't interpret it at this time . . .")

It was David Frost who proved up for last week's show, well groomed and even better briefed.

Frost's manner may be better suited to the assizes than to an American courtroom, but it suited well enough—too well for those who grow weary of tormenting Richard Nixon. A man in sore need of a father confessor was instead being delivered into the hands of a show-biz entrepreneur. The reptilian way Frost quoted that line about a "modified, limited hang-out" from the Nixon tapes made it sound much worse than an honest lie, which it was. Like a Soviet purge artist in English garb, the inquisitor explained to Nixon that what the American people wanted and needed from him was a full confession. One wished the ASPCA would step in and end it.

"One has to go contrary to the normal usage of language in 10,000 gangster movies," David Frost patiently explained to Richard Nixon, to conceive of any interpretation of his words but obstruction of justice. In the surest sign of success for any prosecutor, he soon had the witness using the prosecutor's language with its built-in confesssion. "Using our gangster language here . . ." Mr. Nixon would say later, flashing his 15-cent smile. If they ever turn these interviews into a movie and are in need of a one-word title a la Alfred Hitchcock, they could call it "Cornered."

NOT THAT THERE weren't moments of carefully planned sincerity on the part of the witness. With Richard Nixon, one can tell when they're coming. The voice drops half an octave and he rolls out a daughter, a dog or Dwight D. Eisenhower. He hesitated to fire H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, he explained, because as vice president back in the Eisenhower Administration he had been picked to give the boot to Sherman Adams, that splendid man. And now that he was president himself, there was no trustworthy Richard Nixon around for him to assign the dirty work. After all, he couldn't have Spiro Agnew do it. (That had to be the most convincing statement of the evening.) And so let Haldeman and Ehrlichman linger.

It was a classical Nixon performance, the unspoken line of the chorus being "Pity Poor Me," which used to alternate with "Admire Strong Me!"

Richard Nixon is still Everyman early in the morality play, scurrying from one false savior to another and finding no comfort. As if his suffering torment, rather than freeing himself of it, were the test of manliness. Yes, he gave the sadists of America their money's worth Wednesday night. In his final and doubtless premeditated peroration, he confessed only to letting others down, to a lack of ability rather than to any moral guilt. "I let down my friends. I let down the country. I let down our system of government and the dreams of all those young people that ought to get into government but think it's all too corrupt and the rest. I let the American people down . . ." And yet he still does not seem to grasp in his blindness and pride whom he has kept down most cruelly and most poignantly. Himself.

You printed an article about Dr. H. Foy in your paper and I would like to comment on it. Why is it that you always print a story one-sided? Why not write what good Dr. Foy has done?

Last year I received a bad laceration on my finger. Dr. Foy came to his office at 10 p.m. to stitch it up for me. I was very grateful for his dedication to do this. If I had gone to a hospital, I would have had a two-hour wait.

Dr. Foy just didn't give out pills. He was a doctor too. He gave my wife and me our blood tests for our marriage. He has been my wife's family doctor for years. What other doctor do you know who charges five dollars for a visit?

In my opinion, Dr. Foy is just a man who believes people are honest when they come in and tell him they are overweight. Maybe what he did was wrong, but don't leave out all the facts.

Worthy of note

I would like to openly express my sincere gratitude to "Dave Major and The Minors" for bringing such happiness into my life. Their concert of April 24 at Rolling Meadows High School was yet another example of their tremendous talent. Whether it was rock music or country music, vocals or instrumentals, they were executed to the utmost perfection.

The amount of love radiated on stage was overwhelming, and the enthusiasm was just as evident.

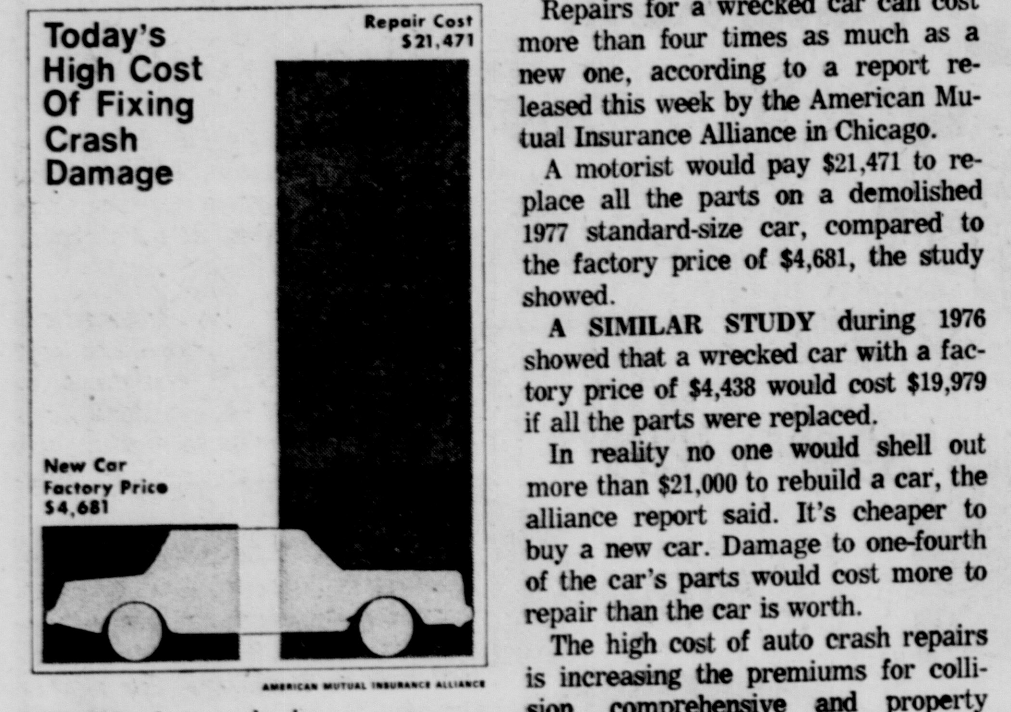
Repairs of wrecked car can cost 4 times more than new one: study



FIXING A wrecked new car can cost four times as much as the factory price, an American Mutural Insurance report says.

Repairs for a wrecked car can cost more than four times as much as a new one, according to a report released this week by the American Mutual Insurance Alliance in Chicago.

A motorist would pay $21,471 to replace all the parts on a demolished 1977 standard-size car, compared to the factory price of $4,681, the study showed.

A SIMILAR STUDY during 1976 showed that a wrecked car with a factory price of $4,438 would cost $19,979 if all the parts were replaced.

In reality no one would shell out more than $21,000 to rebuild a car, the alliance report said. It's cheaper to buy a new car. Damage to one-fourth of the car's parts would cost more to repair than the car is worth.

The high cost of auto crash repairs is increasing the premiums for collision, comprehensive and property damage insurance, the report said. The cost of these coverages is rising faster than the cost of bodily injury insurance.

DRIVERS OF late model, medium-priced cars will probably spend 60 to 70 per cent of their total auto insurance premium for collision, comprehensive and property damage coverage. Insurance companies "continue to fight the rising cost of auto repairs by urging auto body shops to repair damaged parts whenever possible instead of replacing them with more expensive new parts," the report said.

The industry also has encouraged body shops to use new methods of repair, and development of more crash-resistant cars.

The trade group's auto repair study is based on the cost to rebuild a 1977 Chevrolet four-door Impala with AM radio, automatic transmission, air conditioning, power steering, power brakes, 305 V-8 engine, whitewall tires, bumper pads and guards. The model was selected because it is one of the leaders in domestic car sales. The factory price does not include dealer preparation and sales tax charges.

THE ESTIMATE of repair costs does not include discounts on crash repair parts, state and local taxes. Labor costs were estimated at $12 an hour.

A Herald investigation earlier this year showed that estimates for repair of auto damage vary widely in the Northwest suburbs.

Under a bill approved Wednesday in the Illinois House of Representatives, auto mechanics would be required to give motorists an estimate for work that would exceed $75. Provisions in the bill sponsored by State Rep. Lee Daniels, R-Elmhurst, are aimed at protecting motorists from unnecessarily high auto repair bills.

Republic Steel follows 6% crowd

Steel producers Wednesday fell in line with the 6 per cent price increase announced earlier by U.S. Steel Corp. on steel used in making automobiles and home appliances. Republic Steel Corp. joined Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. in rolling back its 7-9 per cent increase on flat rolled and bar steel products, while Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. announced a price increase in line with U.S. Steel's No. 3 ranked National Steel Corp. followed U.S. Steel's lead Tuesday. Bethlehem Steel Corp., the second largest producer, has not made an announcement. The 6 per cent increase on flat-rolled steel is the third in the past year. A similar increase went into effect in June 1976, and another one was effective last December.

Price tags on 1978-model cars probably will range $300 to $350 higher than on the current models in dealer showrooms because of climbing steel prices and inflationary pressures. Industry and financial analysts who were questioned this week on the steel price hikes said increases in the automobile market are a certainty, although they probably won't come before the new models are introduced this fall. Arvid Jouppi, Detroit-based analyst for the Wall Street firm of Colin Hochtin Co., said the retail price of the average-equipped car — $5,750 on 1977 models — probably will rise to $6,100 when the '78s are introduced.

Antitrust No. 1 with Bell

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell Wednesday said he will make antitrust enforcement his No. 1 priority, with more emphasis on the oil industry and other energy producers. He told the Senate Antitrust subcommittee he agreed with former Antitrust division chief Donald Baker's position favoring some form of oil pipeline divestiture. But he qualified his position by saying another possibility could be a plan "opening up the pipelines" for use by other firms. "That's a different thing from divestiture," Bell said.

Bell also urged Congress to reexamine whether antitrust exemptions given to other areas of the economy, including labor and dairy co-ops, have "outlived their usefulness." Consumer advocate Ralph Nader told the subcommittee the combined resources of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division and the Federal Trade Commission were "trivial when matched against the magnitude" of needed antitrust enforcement.

Coffee prices coming down?

The Agriculture Dept. Wednesday released a statistic that shows coffee prices eventually may be coming down — there's a 79 per cent increase in the crop in Brazil, the world's biggest supplier. An increase in coffee production, they said, probably will curb skyrocketing retail prices. Department officials issued their first forecast for the 1977-78 Brazilian harvest, estimating it will reach about 17 million bags, up 79 per cent from last year. However, they said the new forecast still is well below the 25.2 million bags produced in the two years before a freeze cut 1976 production sharply.

Individual incomes show rise

Pipeline construction pushed Alaska's individual income to $10,178 last year for the highest earnings in the nation, but Michigan made the biggest percentage gain because of rehired auto workers. Although most other Americans fared less well than those in Alaska and Michigan, incomes in only five states — Hawaii, Montana, Nebraska, and North and South Dakota — failed to keep pace with inflation. These developments were revealed in the Commerce Department's 1976 report on per capita income for the 50 states and the District of Columbia, released this week. Commerce said per capita income for all Americans was $6,441 last year compared with $5,903 in 1975. The national average increase was 9.1 per cent. The District of Columbia, whose major employer is the federal government, had per capita income of $8,648 or $2,207 higher than the nation's average. The next highest ranking state, Illinois, had income of $7,432 or $991 above average.

Dow drops 9 in moderate trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Widespread selling of glamor stocks amid concern about rising interest rates sent prices plunging Wednesday to their worst loss in more than two weeks in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 3.05-point winner Tuesday, dropped 9.24 points to 926.90. That was the worst loss since it skidded 12.47 points to a 15-month low of 914.6 April 25.

Analysts said the Federal Reserve Board, which has been tightening credit the past two weeks, appeared to be turning the screws even more because of the recent rise in the nation's money supply.

The NYSE common stock index lost .32 to 53.98 and the average price of a common share decreased 19 cents.

Declines topped advances, 887 to 506, among the 1,896 issues crossing the tape. The 503 unchanged issues reflected considerable investor uncertainty.

Big board volume totaled 19,980,000 shares, down from the 21,090,000 traded Tuesday.

Louis Rukeyser

NEW YORK — The lowest-calorie diet around is political oratory. And when the government tells us that it now is talking sensibly in the saccharin controversy, I suggest that it's time to sprinkle on a few extra grains of salt.

When the Food and Drug Administration first told us that it was going to ban saccharin completely, based on findings that the artificial sweetener might be dangerous to the health of some Canadian rats, the long-sleeping American people began to rouse.

The outcry was so great that Congress began to have second thoughts about the legislation that mandated such arbitrary actions by the FDA.

Grudgingly acknowledging the dubious medical basis of its original decision, or at least the degree of public outrage, the FDA thus proposed a fascinating scenario: crowds of calorie-conscious Americans streaming to the drug store to buy saccharin fixes.

THE FDA PLAINLY is attempting to split opposition to its coercive proposal, which would require each company using saccharin to establish medical efficacy. We're now in a 60-day "comment period," with the FDA planning to make its ban final about 30 days later.

Well, here is my comment: Come off it, guys. That experiment on Canadian rats, which wasn't run by Louis Pasteur, has been sharply criticized by scientists who reviewed the preliminary data at the recent Society of Toxicology meeting in Toronto. Two earlier U.S. studies, cited by the FDA, also were blemished, to say the least — as the National Academy of Sciences formally declared — and repeated studies on humans in the interim have failed to uncover any relationship at all between heavy saccharin intake and bladder cancer.

Life is not risk-free, at best; and for those, such as diabetics and the obese, to whom saccharin is a major aid, the cloudy theoretical risk may be distinctly preferable to the known alternatives. The decision is for them and their doctors, helped by the best information we can give them. We need a thorough scientific review, not an arbitrary ban, and until we get the former it will be time for the government to do the thing it does best, but most rarely: butt out.

Republic Steel follows 6% crowd

Steel producers Wednesday fell in line with the 6 per cent price increase announced earlier by U.S. Steel Corp. on steel used in making automobiles and home appliances. Republic Steel Corp. joined Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. in rolling back its 7-9 per cent increase on flat rolled and bar steel products, while Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. announced a price increase in line with U.S. Steel's No. 3 ranked National Steel Corp. followed U.S. Steel's lead Tuesday. Bethlehem Steel Corp., the second largest producer, has not made an announcement. The 6 per cent increase on flat-rolled steel is the third in the past year. A similar increase went into effect in June 1976, and another one was effective last December.

Price tags on 1978-model cars probably will range $300 to $350 higher than on the current models in dealer showrooms because of climbing steel prices and inflationary pressures. Industry and financial analysts who were questioned this week on the steel price hikes said increases in the automobile market are a certainty, although they probably won't come before the new models are introduced this fall. Arvid Jouppi, Detroit-based analyst for the Wall Street firm of Colin Hochtin Co., said the retail price of the average-equipped car — $5,750 on 1977 models — probably will rise to $6,100 when the '78s are introduced.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell Wednesday said he will make antitrust enforcement his No. 1 priority, with more emphasis on the oil industry and other energy producers. He told the Senate Antitrust subcommittee he agreed with former Antitrust division chief Donald Baker's position favoring some form of oil pipeline divestiture. But he qualified his position by saying another possibility could be a plan "opening up the pipelines" for use by other firms. "That's a different thing from divestiture," Bell said.

Bell also urged Congress to reexamine whether antitrust exemptions given to other areas of the economy, including labor and dairy co-ops, have "outlived their usefulness." Consumer advocate Ralph Nader told the subcommittee the combined resources of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division and the Federal Trade Commission were "trivial when matched against the magnitude" of needed antitrust enforcement.

Coffee prices coming down?

The Agriculture Dept. Wednesday released a statistic that shows coffee prices eventually may be coming down — there's a 79 per cent increase in the crop in Brazil, the world's biggest supplier. An increase in coffee production, they said, probably will curb sky-rocketing retail prices. Department officials issued their first forecast for the 1977-78 Brazilian harvest, estimating it will reach about 17 million bags, up 79 per cent from last year. However, they said the new forecast still is well below the 25.2 million bags produced in the two years before a freeze cut 1976 production sharply.

Individual incomes show rise

Pipeline construction pushed Alaska's individual income to $10,178 last year for the highest earnings in the nation, but Michigan made the biggest percentage gain because of rehired auto workers. Although most other Americans fared less well than those in Alaska and Michigan, incomes in only five states — Hawaii, Montana, Nebraska, and North and South Dakota — failed to keep pace with inflation. These developments were revealed in the Commerce Department's 1976 report on per capita income for the 50 states and the District of Columbia, released this week. Commerce said per capita income for all Americans was $6,441 last year compared with $5,903 in 1975. The national average increase was 9.1 per cent. The District of Columbia, whose major employer is the federal government, had per capita income of $8,648 or $2,207 higher than the nation's average. The next highest ranking state, Illinois, had income of $7,432 or $991 above average.

Dow drops 9 in moderate trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Widespread selling of glamor stocks amid concern about rising interest rates sent prices plunging Wednesday to their worst loss in more than two weeks in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 3.05-point winner Tuesday, dropped 9.24 points to 926.90. That was the worst loss since it skidded 12.47 points to a 15-month low of 914.6 April 25.

Analysts said the Federal Reserve Board, which has been tightening credit the past two weeks, appeared to be turning the screws even more because of the recent rise in the nation's money supply.

The NYSE common stock index lost .32 to 53.98 and the average price of a common share decreased 19 cents.

Declines topped advances, 887 to 506, among the 1,896 issues crossing the tape. The 503 unchanged issues reflected considerable investor uncertainty.

Big board volume totaled 19,980,000 shares, down from the 21,090,000 traded Tuesday.

Louis Rukeyser

NEW YORK — The lowest-calorie diet around is political oratory. And when the government tells us that it now is talking sensibly in the saccharin controversy, I suggest that it's time to sprinkle on a few extra grains of salt.

When the Food and Drug Administration first told us that it was going to ban saccharin completely, based on findings that the artificial sweetener might be dangerous to the health of some Canadian rats, the long-sleeping American people began to rouse.

The outcry was so great that Congress began to have second thoughts about the legislation that mandated such arbitrary actions by the FDA.

Grudgingly acknowledging the dubious medical basis of its original decision, or at least the degree of public outrage, the FDA thus proposed a fascinating scenario: crowds of calorie-conscious Americans streaming to the drug store to buy saccharin fixes.

THE FDA PLAINLY is attempting to split opposition to its coercive proposal, which would require each company using saccharin to establish medical efficacy. We're now in a 60-day "comment period," with the FDA planning to make its ban final about 30 days later.

Well, here is my comment: Come off it, guys. That experiment on Canadian rats, which wasn't run by Louis Pasteur, has been sharply criticized by scientists who reviewed the preliminary data at the recent Society of Toxicology meeting in Toronto. Two earlier U.S. studies, cited by the FDA, also were blemished, to say the least — as the National Academy of Sciences formally declared — and repeated studies on humans in the interim have failed to uncover any relationship at all between heavy saccharin intake and bladder cancer.

Life is not risk-free, at best; and for those, such as diabetics and the obese, to whom saccharin is a major aid, the cloudy theoretical risk may be distinctly preferable to the known alternatives. The decision is for them and their doctors, helped by the best information we can give them. We need a thorough scientific review, not an arbitrary ban, and until we get the former it will be time for the government to do the thing it does best, but most rarely: butt out.

Ford says he pardoned Nixon to 'clear the decks'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "Professor" Gerald Ford told a group of 200 political science students Wednesday that he pardoned President Nixon because he found himself spending too much time worrying about Watergate and needed to get on with the job of being president.

The former president, beginning a three-day lectureship at University of Southern California, walked around the treeshaded campus with a small Secret Service contingent and paused occasionally to make small talk with passing students.

At one point he was grabbed goodnaturedly by several members of the Skull and Dagger honor society, dressed in costumes for their annual initiation, who serenaded him with a rendition of the Michigan Fight Song on kazoos and gave him a bottle of Mexican beer. He walked off with the bottle unopened.

FORD TOLD REPORTERS he would meet with 13 classes in a variety of disciplines in an effort to give the students "a practical appraisal of how some of the decisions" were made during his tenure in the White House.

During the first class, a 50-minute question-and-answer session with 200 political science undergraduates, Ford said crime, defense spending and the energy crisis were the three main problems he faced in office.

He also expressed general agreement with President Carter's energy and electoral college proposals and said a two-party system is vital to the nation's "political and economic security."

One student asked Ford what he thought about Nixon's televised interviews with David Frost and whether he had second thoughts about giving Nixon a pardon.

FORD REPLIED THAT he would let Nixon's words in the interviews "speak for themselves" and then explained why he had pardoned his predecessor.

"I as President was spending 25 per cent of my time meeting with lawyers in the White House and lawyers in the Dept. of Justice," he recalled, "and getting their advice on what we should do with his tapes, with his documents — and at the same time we were fighting inflation of over 12 per cent and we were on the brink of the worst recession in 40 years.

"I felt that in the national interest I should concentrate 100 per cent on the economic problems this country had instead of spending 25 per cent of my time worrying about what we should do with tapes and the like.

"So in order to spend the time that was necessary on the serious problems both domestically and internationally, I thought we ought to clear the decks so I could do the job that was required for 250 million Americans.

"If we had precisely the circumstances today that we had in August and September of 1974, I would make the same decision."

When another student asked Ford if he thought Nxon chose him as vice president because he had a reputation as a "do-nothing Congressman," Ford said he was in fact "the best informed member of Congress on appropriations and expenditures and defense."

Johnsons' life strained by Vietnam: Lady Bird

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lady Bird Johnson said Wednesday her life was "strained and rent" by Vietnam just like her husband's, but they both were "convinced this country had to live up to its commitments."

Lyndon Johnson's widow also said her husband enjoyed his job as Senate majority leader better than he did the presidency.

Mrs. Johnson spoke to a capacity audience at the Kennedy Center's weekly "National Town Meeting." She said her feelings about Vietnam, which ultimately cost her husband the presidency, were the same as Johnson's.

"I WAS JUST AS sorry, just as strained, just as rent as he was by not knowing the answers," she said, "but just as convinced this country had to live up to its commitments."

"He was extremely pained because he couldn't find an honorable way to end that war. He wanted peace for this country."

Mrs. Johnson was asked which her husband liked better — the Senate or the White House.

"He was a Senate man, he loved that life and that job, and I would have to say he enjoyed it more," she replied. But he realized the chance "to do things for your country is exhilarating . . . you get a sense of satisfaction that you could attain only in that place" — the White House.

MRS. JOHNSON also said:

- Her husband's spot in history, from her "subjective" viewpoint, will be "a high place, what he did in education and civil rights will loom larger" as time passes.
- She still pursues her goal of helping beautify America.
- She supports integration but says busing is "too often painful and divisive" and wishes someone more "wise" than she could figure how to achieve desegregation without rending the community.
- The assassination of John Kennedy that elevated her husband to the presidency was "a nightmare. You held on tight and you prayed and you were determined your nation was not going to be that sort of a country. It was a frightening time."

$35.6 million U.S. grant funds 2,666 county jobs

Some 2,666 new public service jobs will be created in suburban Cook County as the result of a $35.6 million grant expected as part of President Carter's $6.6 billion federal jobs package.

The new positions will triple the total number of people working at federally sponsored jobs in the Cook County suburbs.

Carter is expected to sign legislation soon creating new jobs for 725,000 unemployed persons nationwide, the Labor Dept. said Wednesday.

MANY SUBURBAN villages and park districts, as well as private businesses, already employ federally paid workers under the 4-year-old Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

There are 1,300 persons working under the U.S. Comprehensive Employment and Training Act sponsorship now, Josepeh P. Monaghen, Cook County's director of manpower services, said Wednesday.

Approximateley $10 million of the anticipated $35.6 million will be used to continue paying these workers through 1978, he said. The remaining $25 million will fund new positions at an average salary of $9,000 yearly, including fringe benefits.

"It is a significant amount of money," Monaghen said of the $35.6 million. "For comparison, the total funds (in CETA) this year are $12.8 million."

MONAGHEN SAID Cook County will be soliciting job proposals from suburban taxing bodies, as well as private businesses, that want to hire and train unemployed workers.

The county board ultimately must approve distribution of the manpower grants to communities and other employers.

The federal program gives preference to persons from high unemployment areas, veterans, welfare recipients, former participants in the job training program, and other low-income persons.

The latest jobs bill is part of Carter's economic stimulus program.

Chicago is expected to receive $103.8 million, while the total allocation for Illinois will be $270 million.

Carter meets Mondale, tackles work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, "very happy" about his six-day European trip, Wednesday met with Vice President Walter Mondale and tackled a backlog of White House work.

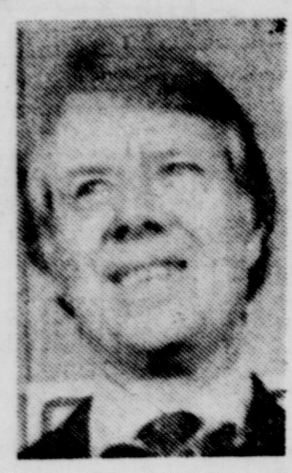
White House sources said that Friday, Carter will sign the $4 billion public works legislation, a key element of his economic stimulus program. It is aimed at creating jobs in construction and related industries.

The President will hold a news conference today to talk about his first foreign trip since assuming office, a venture that senior aides say has added new international dimensions to the administration.

ORIGINALLY, Carter had scheduled the news conference for 6:30 p.m. CDT today, but moved it up to 1:30 p.m. after it was pointed out there would be a conflict with the second in a series of David Frost interviews with Richard Nixon.

Carter had no formal schedule on his first day back at the White House. He met with Mondale and discussed the London summit meeting and the vice president's European trip that begins today, a White House spokesman said.

The President had lunch with First Lady Rosalynn Carter, something they hope to do on a weekly basis.



President Carter

He also was to meet with members of his senior staff today. Carter's paperwork included items such as his environmental conservation message, changes in procedures for dealing with illegal aliens and consideration of some nominations awaiting his approval, the spokesman said.

Carter was described as "very happy" with the results of his trip, which included a seven-nation economic summit, a four-power summit talk and the NATO ministerial meeting.

PRESIDENTIAL assistant Hamilton Jordan told reporters on the flight back to Washington that "this was the first time any of us has really had a sense of the international dimensions of the American presidency."

Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security affairs adviser, said in discussing the economic summit that a mechanism for coordinating activities among the advanced Western industrial democracies had been established for the first time.

He also said the summit reflected a reaffirmation of the close collaboration among the United Sttes, Western Europe and Japan. He said the summit indicated a beginning of "the restoration of confidence in the West."

Brzezinski said it is unlikely a Middle East peace settlement can be reached this year, even if serious negotiations begin soon.

$35.6 million U.S. grant funds 2,666 county jobs

Some 2,666 new public service jobs will be created in suburban Cook County as the result of a $35.6 million grant expected as part of President Carter's $6.6 billion federal jobs package.

The new positions will triple the total number of people working at federally sponsored jobs in the Cook County suburbs.

Carter is expected to sign legislation soon creating new jobs for 725,000 unemployed persons nationwide, the Labor Dept. said Wednesday.

MANY SUBURBAN villages and park districts, as well as private businesses, already employ federally paid workers under the 4-year-old Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

There are 1,300 persons working under the U.S. Comprehensive Employment and Training Act sponsorship now, Josepeh P. Monaghen, Cook County's director of manpower services, said Wednesday.

Approximateley $10 million of the anticipated $35.6 million will be used to continue paying these workers through 1978, he said. The remaining $25 million will fund new positions at an average salary of $9,000 yearly, including fringe benefits.

"It is a significant amount of money," Monaghen said of the $35.6 million. "For comparison, the total funds (in CETA) this year are $12.8 million."

MONAGHEN SAID Cook County will be soliciting job proposals from suburban taxing bodies, as well as private businesses, that want to hire and train unemployed workers.

The county board ultimately must approve distribution of the manpower grants to communities and other employers.

The federal program gives preference to persons from high unemployment areas, veterans, welfare recipients, former participants in the job training program, and other low-income persons.

The latest jobs bill is part of Carter's economic stimulus program.

Chicago is expected to receive $103.8 million, while the total allocation for Illinois will be $270 million.

Carter meets Mondale, tackles work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, "very happy" about his six-day European trip, Wednesday met with Vice President Walter Mondale and tackled a backlog of White House work.

White House sources said that Friday, Carter will sign the $4 billion public works legislation, a key element of his economic stimulus program. It is aimed at creating jobs in construction and related industries.

The President will hold a news conference today to talk about his first foreign trip since assuming office, a venture that senior aides say has added new international dimensions to the administration.

ORIGINALLY, Carter had scheduled the news conference for 6:30 p.m. CDT today, but moved it up to 1:30 p.m. after it was pointed out there would be a conflict with the second in a series of David Frost interviews with Richard Nixon.

Carter had no formal schedule on his first day back at the White House. He met with Mondale and discussed the London summit meeting and the vice president's European trip that begins today, a White House spokesman said.

The President had lunch with First Lady Rosalynn Carter, something they hope to do on a weekly basis.

He also was to meet with members of his senior staff today. Carter's paperwork included items such as his environmental conservation message, changes in procedures for dealing with illegal aliens and consideration of some nominations awaiting his approval, the spokesman said.

President Carter

Carter was described as "very happy" with the results of his trip, which included a seven-nation economic summit, a four-power summit talk and the NATO ministerial meeting.

PRESIDENTIAL assistant Hamilton Jordan told reporters on the flight back to Washington that "this was the first time any of us has really had a sense of the international dimensions of the American presidency."

Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security affairs adviser, said in discussing the economic summit that a mechanism for coordinating activities among the advanced Western industrial democracies had been established for the first time.

He also said the summit reflected a reaffirmation of the close collaboration among the United Sttes, Western Europe and Japan. He said the summit indicated a beginning of "the restoration of confidence in the West."

Brzezinski said it is unlikely a Middle East peace settlement can be reached this year, even if serious negotiations begin soon.

"What went wrong?" asked the student. "I thought I was making a safety play."

"No, you made an unsafety play. Your play would have succeeded against a singleton ace of trumps, it would not have helped against any other four-one break and as you have just seen it cost you your contract when trumps broke 3-2."

The essence of a safety play is that it guards you against something, while not exposing you to a greater danger somewhere else. The student had guarded against one danger, but exposed himself to a greater one.

Ask Andy

Span of river determines size of bridge

HOW ARE BRIDGES BUILT ACROSS WIDE RIVERS?

Man's first bridge most likely was a log that had fallen across a river. And it probably didn't take him too long to discover that with several logs placed side by side it was easier to take a heavy load from one side of the river to the other.

Today, building a bridge is a job for an engineering team that involves beams, columns, tension bars and cables.

Bridges used for crossing rivers are designed in a great variety of ways. The distance to be crossed, in most cases, determines the type of bridge to be built, although also important is the load that will be carried and the type of foundations that are feasible.

Almost all modern bridges must be built with steel and sometimes with concrete covering. They have to be able to stand firm under their own weight (called static load) plus be able to take a load of people, vehicles, rain and wind.

If you were to build a big bridge across a river today, you'd make it either a truss, suspension, arch or cantilever bridge — or several of these types combined.

A truss bridge is often used by railroads. It consists of fabricated trusses, placed side by side, which are made of girders and tie-rods riveted together for great stiffness.

Suspension bridges are most dramatic and are used to jump over long waterways where central supports are impractical. High pillars at the ends are built to hold cables that are hung to make a carefully calculated curve downward from both ends toward the middle. Massive end columns must bear the load of the whole structure. The deck of this bridge is somewhat arched, converting some of the downward load into endwise thrust.

An arch bridge is a form of suspension bridge with a massive steel arch replacing the suspension cables. The deck of the bridge is supported by steel rods or bars dropping down from the arch.

The cantilever bridge is commonly found in lift bridges.

The main thing necessary to solve in building large bridges across rivers is to correctly handle stresses — that is the forces tending to stretch, compress, bend, twist and shear the steel members of the bridge. Weights must be transmitted to and borne by the end abutments and pillars set in between.

Much engineering work must be done on paper before ground is broken for the actual bridge construction.

HOW DO WE GET CARROT SEEDS?

If you have grown carrots in your backyard garden, you know they come from seeds, but there certainly aren't any visible when the vegetable is ready to be harvested for the dinner table. All you find is a long orange root that you enjoy eating either raw or cooked plus a fern-like and lacy top.

Carrots are biennials and need two years to complete their life cycle. That means if you want to obtain seeds, you will have to leave the plants in the ground. After a properly prescribed period of time, Mother Nature will produce a beautiful flower at the top of the lacy top, and when the cycle is completed, the flower will be full of new carrot seeds and ready to start a new season.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

West won and led a second spade for the student to win. Now he led his queen of hearts. East took his ace, cashed the queen of spades and led a fourth spade. The student ruffed, West overruffed and another sure-fire plan had gone East with the geese.

"What went wrong?" asked the student. "I thought I was making a safety play."

"No, you made an unsafety play. Your play would have succeeded against a singleton ace of trumps, it would not have helped against any other four-one break and as you have just seen it cost you your contract when trumps broke 3-2."

The essence of a safety play is that it guards you against something, while not exposing you to a greater danger somewhere else. The student had guarded against one danger, but exposed himself to a greater one.

Ask Andy

Span of river determines size of bridge

HOW ARE BRIDGES BUILT ACROSS WIDE RIVERS?

Man's first bridge most likely was a log that had fallen across a river. And it probably didn't take him too long to discover that with several logs placed side by side it was easier to take a heavy load from one side of the river to the other.

Today, building a bridge is a job for an engineering team that involves beams, columns, tension bars and cables.

Bridges used for crossing rivers are designed in a great variety of ways. The distance to be crossed, in most cases, determines the type of bridge to be built, although also important is the load that will be carried and the type of foundations that are feasible.

Almost all modern bridges must be built with steel and sometimes with concrete covering. They have to be able to stand firm under their own weight (called static load) plus be able to take a load of people, vehicles, rain and wind.

If you were to build a big bridge across a river today, you'd make it either a truss, suspension, arch or cantilever bridge — or several of these types combined.

A truss bridge is often used by railroads. It consists of fabricated trusses, placed side by side, which are made of girders and tie-rods riveted together for great stiffness.

Suspension bridges are most dramatic and are used to jump over long waterways where central supports are impractical. High pillars at the ends are built to hold cables that are hung to make a carefully calculated curve downward from both ends toward the middle. Massive end columns must bear the load of the whole structure. The deck of this bridge is somewhat arched, converting some of the downward load into endwise thrust.

An arch bridge is a form of suspension bridge with a massive steel arch replacing the suspension cables. The deck of the bridge is supported by steel rods or bars dropping down from the arch.

The cantilever bridge is commonly found in lift bridges.

The main thing necessary to solve in building large bridges across rivers is to correctly handle stresses — that is the forces tending to stretch, compress, bend, twist and shear the steel members of the bridge. Weights must be transmitted to and borne by the end abutments and pillars set in between.

Much engineering work must be done on paper before ground is broken for the actual bridge construction.

HOW DO WE GET CARROT SEEDS?

If you have grown carrots in your backyard garden, you know they come from seeds, but there certainly aren't any visible when the vegetable is ready to be harvested for the dinner table. All you find is a long orange root that you enjoy eating either raw or cooked plus a fern-like and lacy top.

Carrots are biennials and need two years to complete their life cycle. That means if you want to obtain seeds, you will have to leave the plants in the ground. After a properly prescribed period of time, Mother Nature will produce a beautiful flower at the top of the lacy top, and when the cycle is completed, the flower will be full of new carrot seeds and ready to start a new season.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Independent stations race for ratings

by DIANE MERMIGAS

The networks are on the run these days.

All their regular, highly rated shows are into reruns, even though A.C. Nielsen and Arbitron are compiling ratings statistics that will be used to help set the pace for commercial time costs and programming in the new fall season.

ABC, CBS and NBC traditionally prepare themselves for at least a 5 per cent drop in audience this time of year and have been prone to hyping up their schedules with a sprinkling of big name movies and specials.

BUT THIS YEAR is different. The networks are losing more of their usual audiences to independent stations who have rallied to show the exclusive David Frost-Richard Nixon interviews and the novel adaptation, "Testimony of Two Men.'

The situation on television already is tense. ABC upset things last season by zooming from third to first place in ratings with innovative programming like "Roots" and serials like "Happy Days," displacing the 20-year giant of the industry, CBS.

ABC is concerned about staying on top, CBS is concerned about regaining its lost leadership and NBC is just concerned about doing better.

Compounding the fierce network competition is the fact that independent television stations have picked this month to flex their muscles.

STATIONS LIKE WGN-TV, Channel 9 in Chicago, cannot afford top, prime-time programming on their own, so they are financing such projects jointly.

The independent and public broadcasting stations usually attract larger audiences from April through August when the networks are rebroadcasting shows. But last week, independent stations began to erode network audiences significantly.

The first of four 90-minute interviews in the Nixon-Frost package ran nationally last Wednesday. In Chicago, the program received a top rating of 20.6 and 34 per cent of the audience as compared with programming offered by the three network-owned stations. WLS-TV, had only a 17.6 rating, WBBM-TV had a 13.6 rating and WMAQ-TV had 9.2.

WGN attracted 150 per cent more viewers than it usually does during prime-time on Wednesdays by snatching 1.4 million viewers from network programming. The Nixon-Frost interview nationally drew an estimated 45 million viewers away from the networks during that 90-minute period.

"TESTIMONY OF two Men" also has had a noticeable effect on viewing. The first of three 2-hour episodes of the program aired Monday in Chicago. It received a 12.9 rating and attracted 19 per cent of the area's audience, although station officials had hoped for a slightly higher rating.

Although it wasn't the highest rated show of the night, "Testimony of Two Men" doubled WGN's regular Monday night viewing audience, again drawing from the network viewers.

The significance of the situation is that for the first time in television history, independent stations like WGN, along with the networks, are being considered seriously in the competition game.

"At most, we could give the networks a run only occasionally. We couldn't do this regularly because we don't have that kind of money. But, it would seem to me the way the networks are radically altering their programming, they are taking our effort to heart," said Jack Jacobson, vice president of programming for WGN.

He and other WGN officials are hoping the high ratings will continue for the duration of the Nixon-Frost interviews and "Testimony of Two Men."

Independent stations race for ratings

by DIANE MERMIGAS

The networks are on the run these days.

All their regular, highly rated shows are into reruns, even though A.C. Nielsen and Arbitron are compiling ratings statistics that will be used to help set the pace for commercial time costs and programming in the new fall season.

ABC, CBS and NBC traditionally prepare themselves for at least a 5 per cent drop in audience this time of year and have been prone to hyping up their schedules with a sprinkling of big name movies and specials.

BUT THIS YEAR is different. The networks are losing more of their usual audiences to independent stations who have rallied to show the exclusive David Frost-Richard Nixon interviews and the novel adaptation, "Testimony of Two Men.'

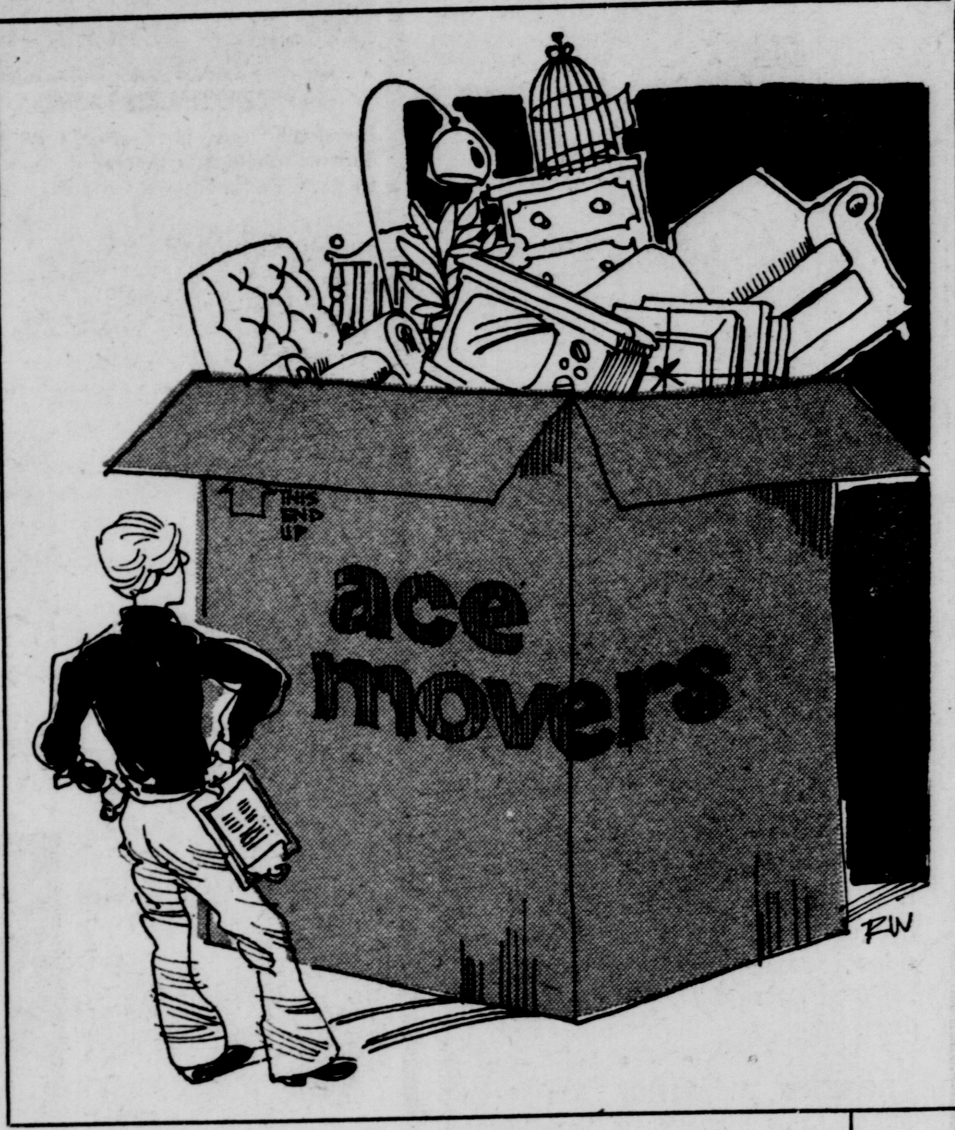
Moving mania

Preparation the key to avoiding woes when using pros to help you move



by JOE FRANZ

For many families summertime means picnics, barbecues, camping, vacations and other leisure activities. But to many it's a time to face up to the chores of moving.

From now through September, thousands of Americans will be transplanted to new homes throughout the country. Some will move just a stone's throw away from their current residence while others will find themselves in a strange environment, many miles from what they once knew as home.

John Riddle, general manager of Mayflower Moving and Storage Inc., Elmhurst, estimated that about 60 per cent of his firm's business comes between May and October.

"THIS IS THE time. The madhouse starts now," he said. "I think the fact that school is nearing an end and the weather is nice are the biggest reasons we're so busy now."

He suggests that anyone who plans to move during the busy season and use a professional mover, make arrangements well in advance to avoid making the transition from one home to another any more chaotic than it has to be.

"At this time of year short notice can be a problem," Riddle said. "I think anyone planning to move within the next few months should make arrangements at least three weeks in advance."

In addition to hiring a mover early, there are other steps that should be taken by the homeowner to avoid unnecessary turmoil on moving day and the days that follow.

ALTHOUGH numerous chores await a household that is moving, packing and eliminating everything that does not need to be moved are two of the more important tasks.

Riddle said poor preparation is one of the biggest reasons moving day often turns into disaster.

"Be ready to move when the mover gets there is probably the best piece of advice I can give," he said. "A lot of times when the mover arrives people aren't packed and the mover has to wait.

"On a local move they are charged by time, and if they keep the mover waiting, it's just more money," Riddle said. "It's like a meter in a cab."

HE SAID one of the most common mistakes made by homeowners is that they move old clothes, junk and numerous other items they do not need.

"A lot of people don't dispose of things they don't need," he said. "It costs them more money to move these things and very often they have no use for them."

Riddle said that when moving, homeowners should use strong boxes and be sure to properly pack all items.

"They should pad everything very, very carefully to prevent breakage," he said. "They should also use a good sturdy box. One of the biggest mistakes people make is trying to move things in weak, flimsy boxes."

MOST MOVING companies sell boxes for virtually every type of item that is found in a home.

"Boxes are available from us for china, crystal, mattresses or anything else they want to pack," Riddle said.

Although it is more economical for a homeowner to do his own packing, Riddle said he believes it is wise to let the mover pack fragile items.

"If someone is trying to save money they can pack books and any other items that aren't breakable," he said. "But I think it's a good idea to leave lamps, pictures, dishes, antiques, china and crystal to the mover."

When a homeowner does do his own packing, Riddle suggested that he pack related items together and mark on boxes a description and the rooms in the new house to which they should be moved.

"IT IS A good idea to do this so you're not digging all over trying to find something in the new house," he said. "It also will prevent having to move boxes from room to room."

Besides marking all boxes, most professional movers recommend that homeowners fill several boxes with essential items that will be needed before the unpacking is done at the new house.

These boxes should contain such things as toilet articles, towels, facial tissues, snacks, a first aid kit, paper plates, plastic knives, forks and spoons, tools, tape and any other items the homeowner deems necessary. The boxes containing these items should be loaded in the moving truck last and unloaded first at the new house.

Riddle said that in most cases dressers, bureaus and other furniture can be moved with the drawers and contents as long as they are not too heavy.

"THEY CAN be moved most of the time without emptying the drawers, but we tell people not to load them up for the move," he said. "We also tell them to take out any valuables or breakable items."

In addition to not loading up furniture, Riddle said homeowners should be sure not to fill large boxes with a lot of heavy items.

"If they do that, they'll either break their back or the movers," he said.

One way for the homeowner to save money, according to Riddle, is to move smaller items himself in a car.

"MOST PEOPLE do this," he said. "They move the small items and leave the big stuff for the movers."

Although the cost of interstate moving depends on several factors, Riddle estimated it would cost about $850 to move six rooms of furniture (based on 1,000 pounds a room) 500 miles from the Chicago area.

"That would be the transportation charge only," he said. "That wouldn't include any packing or insurance."

He said insurance for interstate moving costs the homeowner about $5 per $1,000 of valuation.

Real estate goes the way of hamburger—franchised

by MILDRED JAILER

An innovative and possibly revolutionary development has been taking shape in the real estate field during the past 10 years. An increasing number of brokers are becoming franchised operations, a move, enthusiasts contend, that can make the comparatively few umbrella firm names as quick to recognize as McDonald's golden arch.

For real estate offices that have become franchised operations, there is nationwide advertising and promotion under a single banner.

And there is management and sales force training that, many believe, can greatly increase the professionalism and production of sales associates in a field where first-timers are numerous and turnover is often rapid.

THE CONCEPT OF the real estate franchise began in California with a firm called Red Carpet. Red Carpet has since been joined by a handful of ambitious competitors: Realty World, Gallery of Homes, and Century 21 among them, which cater primarily to the needs of medium- and small-size brokers.

In January, yet another aspect was added when at least one organization, the Real Estate Place in New Jersey, began recruiting larger firms as franchisees with the feeling that "the public wants name brands."

Century 21, for example, is regarded as the largest among the franchisers in dollar volume, number of offices, and employes. It was organized in California in 1971 to help small real estate companies compete with larger firms.

DURING THE PAST four years, Century 21 has worked its way eastward with a surge in growth along the way; escalating from 200 offices to 3,200 offices in 44 states.

Within a single year, some 900 franchises were added to the firm's fast-swelling roster. In New Jersey alone, the last state to be approached, Century 21 now represents 64 different brokers totaling approximately 83 offices.

Although the company caters largely to firms handling residential properties, its member brokers, according to a spokesman, "are still independent, still make their own decisions, and still go after the business they want: tracts, commercial, farms, anything."

To provide advertising, training programs, and plans designed to assist prospective buyers who are relocating, Red Carpet, the pioneer franchising organization, requires a $7,900 fee from its brokers. Century 21 asks $6,500 of its brokers in New Jersey, but the cost varies from state to state. In California, for instance, where the market is saturated, the franchising charge can range from $15,000 to $16,000. In addition, each Century 21 broker is expected to pay 6 per cent of gross commissions earned. (These are payable after the transactions.)

LOCAL BROKERS' COUNCILS decide how much they want to pay for television and radio advertising. (The New Jersey, Long Island, and lower Connecticut assessment per broker currently is $200 a month.)

Television commercials are shown by Century 21 on a national basis with similar messages through the country; each stressing the firm's slogan: "We're national, but neighborly."

Approximately $4 million was invested in this form of promotion during a recent one-year period. Radio spots are offered on a regional basis with the names of local realtors mentioned together with the national message. Newspaper advertising, however, remains the responsibility of the individual broker.

Training of both management and sales personnel is considered a key ingredient in the franchise operation. Century 21 franchisees can attend several management seminars during the course of a year to learn, among other subjects, how to use the telephone to best advantage and how to weed out the poorer sales-people from the office staff.

WEEKLY CLASSES FOR sales personnel are held in central locations within given regions in two cycles of 8 to 10 weeks each. Graduates of the first cycle move on to the more advanced second cycle. The sessions are presented at two- to three-month intervals to enable new personnel to take advantage of their content early in their employment.

One of the other services which franchising organizations feel lends value to their function is an efficient method of handling the needs of the home buyer who is being relocated to a different section of the country.

VIP Referral, an interbroker referral system, is the method favored by Century 21. As one broker explained it: "If someone who was planning to move from Connecticut to Ohio asked for assistance at a Century 21 office, the broker would personally contact an Ohio broker by using his national directory (provided by Century 21) that lists all franchised brokers, the towns they cover, and the price ranges of their properties.

"The Ohio broker would either mail the information wanted by the buyers or make hotel reservations for them and even pick them up at the airport. He would then show them around without obligation.

"AND IF HE couldn't satisfy them, he would send them to another Century 21 broker in an area that probably could."

Who are the franchisees? There is, for example Donald G. Smith. For the past six years Smith has been the owner-broker of Don Smith Realty Inc., with two offices in attractive suburban New Jersey communities: Ridgewood and Waldwick. Since November 1974, his advertising logo, office signs, business cards, and stationery have included the name "Century 21."

"I knew Bob Sperte, a regional director of Century 21, personally," recalled Smith during an interview. "He was very excited about real estate franchising and I was very interested because of the way the industry is

Century 21, for example, is regarded as the largest among the franchisers in dollar volume, number of offices, and employes. It was organized in California in 1971 to help small real estate companies compete with larger firms.

DURING THE PAST four years, Century 21 has worked its way eastward with a surge in growth along the way; escalating from 200 offices to 3,200 offices in 44 states.

Within a single year, some 900 franchises were added to the firm's fast-swelling roster. In New Jersey alone, the last state to be approached, Century 21 now represents 64 different brokers totaling approximately 83 offices.

Although the company caters largely to firms handling residential properties, its member brokers, according to a spokesman, "are still independent, still make their own decisions, and still go after the business they want: tracts, commercial, farms, anything."

To provide advertising, training programs, and plans designed to assist prospective buyers who are relocating, Red Carpet, the pioneer franchising organization, requires a $7,900 fee from its brokers. Century 21 asks $6,500 of its brokers in New Jersey, but the cost varies from state to state. In California, for instance, where the market is saturated, the franchising charge can range from $15,000 to $16,000. In addition, each Century 21 broker is expected to pay 6 per cent of gross commissions earned. (These are payable after the transactions.)

LOCAL BROKERS' COUNCILS decide how much they want to pay for television and radio advertising. (The New Jersey, Long Island, and lower Connecticut assessment per broker currently is $200 a month.)

Television commercials are shown by Century 21 on a national basis with similar messages through the country; each stressing the firm's slogan: "We're national, but neighborly."

Approximately $4 million was invested in this form of promotion during a recent one-year period. Radio spots are offered on a regional basis with the names of local realtors mentioned together with the national message. Newspaper advertising, however, remains the responsibility of the individual broker.

Training of both management and sales personnel is considered a key ingredient in the franchise operation. Century 21 franchisees can attend several management seminars during the course of a year to learn, among other subjects, how to use the telephone to best advantage and how to weed out the poorer sales-people from the office staff.

WEEKLY CLASSES FOR sales personnel are held in central locations within given regions in two cycles of 8 to 10 weeks each. Graduates of the first cycle move on to the more advanced second cycle. The sessions are presented at two- to three-month intervals to enable new personnel to take advantage of their content early in their employment.

One of the other services which franchising organizations feel lends value to their function is an efficient method of handling the needs of the home buyer who is being relocated to a different section of the country.

VIP Referral, an interbroker referral system, is the method favored by Century 21. As one broker explained it: "If someone who was planning to move from Connecticut to Ohio asked for assistance at a Century 21 office, the broker would personally contact an Ohio broker by using his national directory (provided by Century 21) that lists all franchised brokers, the towns they cover, and the price ranges of their properties.

"The Ohio broker would either mail the information wanted by the buyers or make hotel reservations for them and even pick them up at the airport. He would then show them around without obligation.

"AND IF HE couldn't satisfy them, he would send them to another Century 21 broker in an area that probably could."

Who are the franchisees? There is, for example Donald G. Smith. For the past six years Smith has been the owner-broker of Don Smith Realty Inc., with two offices in attractive suburban New Jersey communities: Ridgewood and Waldwick. Since November 1974, his advertising logo, office signs, business cards, and stationery have included the name "Century 21."

"I knew Bob Sperte, a regional director of Century 21, personally," recalled Smith during an interview. "He was very excited about real estate franchising and I was very interested because of the way the industry is

Stirn, a graduate of the Real Estate Institute, is on the board of directors of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors and is an active member of the National Assn. of Realtors and the Illinois Assn. of Realtors.

Real estate franchising

changing.

"There is increased mobility of executive transferring and an increasing number of brokers and salespeople are entering the field. Because of all of this growth, I felt I needed a more sophisticated way of marketing and training."

ACCORDING TO SMITH, his affiliation with Century 21 has brought only positive results. He attributes the opening of his second office in Waldwick to a rise in business he feels came as an almost direct result of national television advertising.

"My name is now familiar to many more people than I could ever have promoted on an individual basis," he said. And, Smith contends, both the national and more local cooperative promotions have "increased the general activity through my offices with buyers and sellers."

There are, however, critics of the real estate franchising plans. For the most part, they resent the mandatory requirement of turning a percentage of gross sales over to an umbrella firm and they express the fear that the small independent broker will be swallowed into oblivion by "big business" domination.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

JERRY BOUSCHARD

Under our present tax laws, owners of real property get certain breaks on taxes as well as the satisfaction of owning a parcel of land. The property owner can deduct from income taxes the interest paid on a mortgage or trust deed as well as the property taxes that are paid.

If you own income property, you may also take another deduction that is not available to everyone. You may deduct an amount for depreciation, computed by any of several acceptable formulas, and you may depreciate the entire value of improvements even though you have paid only a fraction as a down payment.

We're not tax lawyers but we can outline some of the areas where tax savings are available through real estate. Come in and "Talk it Over."

Tips on making a move

Here is a checklist of moving tips provided by the Aero Mayflower Transit Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

30-15 Days Before Your Move

- Eliminate everything you don't wish to move.
- Prepare inventory of goods to be moved.
- Call a mover and ask for a moving estimate. It is better to do this even earlier if possible.
- Determine value coverage on everything to be moved.
- Arrange for whatever packing services you'll need.
- Arrange for packing cartons you need.
- Collect and sort mail for listing address changes.
- Notify post office of move and fill out change of address cards.
- Send address change to friends and businesses.
- Obtain all medical and dental records.
- Notify local draft board.
- Transfer insurance records, check auto licensing requirements.
- Notify school and make arrangements for sending transcripts of school records to new school.
- Have letters of introduction written.
- Close charge accounts.
- Arrange shipment of pets and obtain immunization records.

14 Days Before Your Move

- Make travel plans.
- Collect all clothing or items to be cleaned or repaired.
- Return things borrowed — collect things loaned.
- Have bank transfer accounts and release safe deposit box.
- Arrange to disconnect utility services.
- Arrange to connect utility services at new home.
- Make arrangements to have heavy applicances serviced for move.
- Give away articles you don't plan to take along, give to charitable organizations, get signed receipt for tax purposes.

7 Days Before Your Move

- Dispose of all flammables.
- Pack suitcases ahead of time.
- Set things aside to pack in car. Include travel games for children.
- If you haven't made arrangements with your mover to do so, take down curtains, rods, shelves, TV antenna if agreement with new owner authorizes this.
- Start packing suitcases you can live out of for first day in your new home.
- In a special carton place items you will need in the first few hours in your new home: soap, towels, coffee, cooking pot etc. Mark this carton with sticker "Load Last — Unload First!"
- Make up special cartons with "Do Not Move" for articles to be taken in car.

Day Before Moving

- Empty and defrost your refrigerator and freezer and let them air at least 24 hours. Also clean and air your range.
- Line up a simple breakfast for next morning that won't require refrigeration or much cooking. Use paper plates.
- Finish packing personal belongings but leave out the alarm clock!
- Get a good night's rest.

Moving Day

- Be on hand when movers arrive, or have someone there authorized to answer questions.
- Accompany van operator while he inventories your possessions to be moved.
- Make last minute check on your appliances to see that they have been serviced.
- Sign (and save your copy) of bills of lading and make sure delivery address and place to locate you enroute are correct.
- Advise driver exactly how to get to new residence.
- Also delivery date or dates.
- Ask that you be advised of final cost. (This will be determined after van is weighed.) If your company is not paying for your move, make sure you'll have the needed cash, money order or certified check to pay before van is unloaded at destination.
- Strip your beds, but leave fitted bottom sheets on your mattresses.
- Before leaving house, check each room and closet, make sure windows are down and lights out.

Tips on making a move

Here is a checklist of moving tips provided by the Aero Mayflower Transit Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

30-15 Days Before Your Move

- Eliminate everything you don't wish to move.
- Prepare inventory of goods to be moved.
- Call a mover and ask for a moving estimate. It is better to do this even earlier if possible.
- Determine value coverage on everything to be moved.
- Arrange for whatever packing services you'll need.
- Arrange for packing cartons you need.
- Collect and sort mail for listing address changes.
- Notify post office of move and fill out change of address cards.
- Send address change to friends and businesses.
- Obtain all medical and dental records.
- Notify local draft board.
- Transfer insurance records, check auto licensing requirements.
- Notify school and make arrangements for sending transcripts of school records to new school.
- Have letters of introduction written.
- Close charge accounts.
- Arrange shipment of pets and obtain immunization records.

14 Days Before Your Move

- Make travel plans.
- Collect all clothing or items to be cleaned or repaired.
- Return things borrowed — collect things loaned.
- Have bank transfer accounts and release safe deposit box.
- Arrange to disconnect utility services.
- Arrange to connect utility services at new home.
- Make arrangements to have heavy applicances serviced for move.
- Give away articles you don't plan to take along, give to charitable organizations, get signed receipt for tax purposes.

7 Days Before Your Move

- Dispose of all flammables.
- Pack suitcases ahead of time.
- Set things aside to pack in car. Include travel games for children.
- If you haven't made arrangements with your mover to do so, take down curtains, rods, shelves, TV antenna if agreement with new owner authorizes this.
- Start packing suitcases you can live out of for first day in your new home.
- In a special carton place items you will need in the first few hours in your new home: soap, towels, coffee, cooking pot etc. Mark this carton with sticker "Load Last — Unload First!"
- Make up special cartons with "Do Not Move" for articles to be taken in car.

Day Before Moving

- Empty and defrost your refrigerator and freezer and let them air at least 24 hours. Also clean and air your range.
- Line up a simple breakfast for next morning that won't require refrigeration or much cooking. Use paper plates.
- Finish packing personal belongings but leave out the alarm clock!
- Get a good night's rest.

Moving Day

- Be on hand when movers arrive, or have someone there authorized to answer questions.
- Accompany van operator while he inventories your possessions to be moved.
- Make last minute check on your appliances to see that they have been serviced.
- Sign (and save your copy) of bills of lading and make sure delivery address and place to locate you enroute are correct.
- Advise driver exactly how to get to new residence.
- Also delivery date or dates.
- Ask that you be advised of final cost. (This will be determined after van is weighed.) If your company is not paying for your move, make sure you'll have the needed cash, money order or certified check to pay before van is unloaded at destination.
- Strip your beds, but leave fitted bottom sheets on your mattresses.
- Before leaving house, check each room and closet, make sure windows are down and lights out.

Stay in home only as long as it meets your needs

Bernard Meltzer

On real estate

Many homeowners wonder if there is a right or wrong time to sell. It is common practice to make this judgment based on financial considerations, when actually the family circumstances should be the determining factor. The following letter is a good example.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: There seems to be much controversy as to when is the best time to sell your first house. Most people buy a starter home with every intention of making a profit in order to be able to afford their dream house.

Is it wiser to stay in your present house for five years or more to build up the equity, or to sell two or three years after purchase for fear that houses will get even more expensive in the oncoming year? —Stay or sell?

People buy houses to accommodate their needs at various stages in their lives. A young married couple generally looks for a small house that is inexpensive to maintain, and will accommodate a small family.

The second home is generally larger and must meet the needs of a growing family in terms of size and privacy. The third home is very often an apartment or a more expensive home for the "empty nest" family. This meets the needs of the family with grown children.

The mistake many people make is to stay in a house too long and try to adapt it in order to meet their changing needs. This very often means that a couple will take their initial house and add rooms to it, either in the garage or basement, in order to accommodate the needs of the growing family.

The answer to your question is that you stay in the house only as long as the house meets your needs. Don't worry about inflation because your house is inflating also. The equity buildup is meaningless for most houses sold within the first five year because of the large interest expense. However, by buying prudently and not overimproving, you will find that the house you buy is a good hedge against inflation.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My wife and I have just purchased an old house. The property has been owned by approximately five different families over a 60-year period. Some improvements have been made; others have not.

We were able to get the house for what I consider to be a good price. We have about $10,000 left to make improvements. We estimate that the house could use more than twice that.

I work for a large company that has a tendency to move executives around periodically. Therefore, I may be in this house for three years, or I may be there for 10 years. I don't really know.

Can you advise me how to decide which renovations to do now? —Can't decide.

It has been my experience that you should put your money where it shows. I am assuming that the heating, wiring and plumbing are in working condition, even if old-fashioned.

Naturally, anything that is not working should be repaired immediately. However, your best investment will be to spend your money for a new kitchen, bathroom improvement and decorating. In this way, if you are transferered in several years, you will not only get our money out of such improvements, but in many cases much more than you spent. This is because most people are interested in a livable house, and are willing to correct the unseen problems over a long period of time.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Last week we received a notice in the mail saying our assessment has been increased. We have lived in this house for several years and have had assessment increases periodically.

However, this one was a whopper. How can we go about appealing it? —Whew!

Find yourself a reputable lawyer. Make sure he is an attorney familiar with this type of work. Determine in the beginning what type of fee arrangement there will be. Some lawyers work on a contingency basis, and will charge you a percentage of the taxes you save in the first year. Others will insist on a fixed fee.

Also, you should be sure to find out who will pay for any expert witnesses that may be required. Under the fixed fee arrangement, this will probably be your expense. Under the contingent arrangement, the lawyer may pick up the bill for the real estate appraiser.

Be cautious of anyone who solicits door to door, promising to have your assessment lowered. This type of person often works in an area where there has been a mass reassessment program. Such individuals usually represent either law firms or real estate companies. It has been my experience that such solicitors usually are unable to deliver on their promises.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I had a dinner party the other night, and it was a huge success. The food, if I must say so myself, was fabulous. And my table looked sensational.

However, when my guests had gone and I was cleaning up, I noted with horror that my candles had melted onto my beautiful mahogany table. I tried to carefully lift it off, but it's stuck.

Must I call in a furniture refinisher, which I'm afraid would be very expensive, or is there any way I can rectify this myself? —Ruined my party.

Scrape off as much of the wax as you can with a stiff card or something like it. It is usually not advisable to use a knife, as it may dig into the surface of the wood.

If it does not all come up, wash the remainder with a cloth wrung out in mild soapsuds. Then polish.

Stay in home only as long as it meets your needs

Bernard Meltzer

On real estate

Many homeowners wonder if there is a right or wrong time to sell. It is common practice to make this judgment based on financial considerations, when actually the family circumstances should be the determining factor. The following letter is a good example.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: There seems to be much controversy as to when is the best time to sell your first house. Most people buy a starter home with every intention of making a profit in order to be able to afford their dream house.

Is it wiser to stay in your present house for five years or more to build up the equity, or to sell two or three years after purchase for fear that houses will get even more expensive in the oncoming year? —Stay or sell?

People buy houses to accommodate their needs at various stages in their lives. A young married couple generally looks for a small house that is inexpensive to maintain, and will accommodate a small family.

The second home is generally larger and must meet the needs of a growing family in terms of size and privacy. The third home is very often an apartment or a more expensive home for the "empty nest" family. This meets the needs of the family with grown children.

The mistake many people make is to stay in a house too long and try to adapt it in order to meet their changing needs. This very often means that a couple will take their initial house and add rooms to it, either in the garage or basement, in order to accommodate the needs of the growing family.

The answer to your question is that you stay in the house only as long as the house meets your needs. Don't worry about inflation because your house is inflating also. The equity buildup is meaningless for most houses sold within the first five year because of the large interest expense. However, by buying prudently and not overimproving, you will find that the house you buy is a good hedge against inflation.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My wife and I have just purchased an old house. The property has been owned by approximately five different families over a 60-year period. Some improvements have been made; others have not.

We were able to get the house for what I consider to be a good price. We have about $10,000 left to make improvements. We estimate that the house could use more than twice that.

I work for a large company that has a tendency to move executives around periodically. Therefore, I may be in this house for three years, or I may be there for 10 years. I don't really know.

Can you advise me how to decide which renovations to do now? —Can't decide.

It has been my experience that you should put your money where it shows. I am assuming that the heating, wiring and plumbing are in working condition, even if old-fashioned.

Naturally, anything that is not working should be repaired immediately. However, your best investment will be to spend your money for a new kitchen, bathroom improvement and decorating. In this way, if you are transferered in several years, you will not only get our money out of such improvements, but in many cases much more than you spent. This is because most people are interested in a livable house, and are willing to correct the unseen problems over a long period of time.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Last week we received a notice in the mail saying our assessment has been increased. We have lived in this house for several years and have had assessment increases periodically.

However, this one was a whopper. How can we go about appealing it? —Whew!

Find yourself a reputable lawyer. Make sure he is an attorney familiar with this type of work. Determine in the beginning what type of fee arrangement there will be. Some lawyers work on a contingency basis, and will charge you a percentage of the taxes you save in the first year. Others will insist on a fixed fee.

Also, you should be sure to find out who will pay for any expert witnesses that may be required. Under the fixed fee arrangement, this will probably be your expense. Under the contingent arrangement, the lawyer may pick up the bill for the real estate appraiser.

Be cautious of anyone who solicits door to door, promising to have your assessment lowered. This type of person often works in an area where there has been a mass reassessment program. Such individuals usually represent either law firms or real estate companies. It has been my experience that such solicitors usually are unable to deliver on their promises.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I had a dinner party the other night, and it was a huge success. The food, if I must say so myself, was fabulous. And my table looked sensational.

However, when my guests had gone and I was cleaning up, I noted with horror that my candles had melted onto my beautiful mahogany table. I tried to carefully lift it off, but it's stuck.

Must I call in a furniture refinisher, which I'm afraid would be very expensive, or is there any way I can rectify this myself? —Ruined my party.

Scrape off as much of the wax as you can with a stiff card or something like it. It is usually not advisable to use a knife, as it may dig into the surface of the wood.

If it does not all come up, wash the remainder with a cloth wrung out in mild soapsuds. Then polish.

Solar energy collector built for just $100

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — A Drake University professor and a graduate student have built a solar energy collector for about $100 that an average homeowner can install to heat a 10-foot-square room.

Dr. Harry L. Downing and student Dan Mortensen devised the collector from recycled aluminum cans, plastic and plywood. They are now testing the efficiency of the model.

"Solar heating is just now starting to be used," Downing said. "The technology is very simple. It's just a matter of educating people that it is there and it will work.

"COMMERCIAL COLLECTORS are very expensive, but if you can do the work yourself, it's very inexpensive and very simple to construct. That's what we're trying to show."

The heating system consists of a 4-by-8-foot plywood box covered with plastic sheeting and filled with recycled aluminum cans painted black. The collector is connected to an inside storage tank by large tubes that circulate air.

Downing said sunlight shines on the clear plastic, strikes the cans and is converted into heat. He said air blown across the cans sends the heat into the storage tank. The storage tank consists of 350 aluminum cans filled with water. The hot air transfers its heat to the cans.

"Water is an excellent heat storage because it has a high heat capacity. Aluminum is an excellent heat conductor," Downing said. "In this way, the storage tank could be heated during the day and then cold air from the room could be forced through it to heat the house."

Solar energy collector built for just $100

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — A Drake University professor and a graduate student have built a solar energy collector for about $100 that an average homeowner can install to heat a 10-foot-square room.

Dr. Harry L. Downing and student Dan Mortensen devised the collector from recycled aluminum cans, plastic and plywood. They are now testing the efficiency of the model.

"Solar heating is just now starting to be used," Downing said. "The technology is very simple. It's just a matter of educating people that it is there and it will work.

"COMMERCIAL COLLECTORS are very expensive, but if you can do the work yourself, it's very inexpensive and very simple to construct. That's what we're trying to show."

The heating system consists of a 4-by-8-foot plywood box covered with plastic sheeting and filled with recycled aluminum cans painted black. The collector is connected to an inside storage tank by large tubes that circulate air.

Downing said sunlight shines on the clear plastic, strikes the cans and is converted into heat. He said air blown across the cans sends the heat into the storage tank. The storage tank consists of 350 aluminum cans filled with water. The hot air transfers its heat to the cans.

"Water is an excellent heat storage because it has a high heat capacity. Aluminum is an excellent heat conductor," Downing said. "In this way, the storage tank could be heated during the day and then cold air from the room could be forced through it to heat the house."

OUR REAL ESTATE SERVICES HAVE MADE THE TONIGHT SHOW!

It all begins Monday night, May 16. Just after the opening monolog you'll learn how we can help you buy or sell a home to your complete satisfaction.

In fact, every week for the next several months, Ed McMahon or Doc Severinsen will read one of the hundreds of comments sent in from people who've taken advantage of the complete real estate services available through the 1100 Gallery of Homes offices across the country.

And if one of us has slipped up somewhere, you'll hear about that, too. Because Ed or Doc will draw those comments from a huge drum — and all comments that have been sent in, favorable or not, are in that drum.

So be sure to tune in. We think you'll enjoy the commercials. And you'll learn a lot about the country's finest real estate services.

Get an income on your house? Plan weighed

The home is the largest single investment in the life of the average American family, but, after paying into this investment for 20 to 25 years, what do you actually have to show for it?

Dear. Mr. Campbell: My husband and I are both 64 and, in a few months, he will face involuntary retirement.

We will have Social Security, a company pension and a small nest-egg of about $12,000.

We own our home and it would easily bring about $70,000 if we were to put it on the market. It's about the only "investment" we have, except that it doesn't bring us in any money.

It seems the choice we have is to sell the house, pay off Uncle Sam, buy a cheaper place and live off the remaining profit. The trouble with this is, we don't want to move.

Don G. Campbell

About real estate

I heard recently that there is some kind of arrangement where we could use the house to produce a monthly income, but I can't find out anymore about it. Do you know what I mean? — Mr. S.D. (Philadelphia, Pa.)

I know of the arrangement, but as far as I know it is only a proposal that the savings and loan industry is trying to get clearance on.

It's known as the reverse annuity," and it would make it possible for you to "pledge" your home to a local savings and loan. In return, the savings and loan would pay you a lifetime annuity, based on your ages.

At your death (or if you decide to sell the home and buy a smaller place), the house would become the property of the savings and loan, which would then resell it.

You would, of course, sacrifice any appreciation in its value after the deal was made. However, you would have an additional monthly check for as long as you life without giving up your home.

There are still a lot of legal questions to be ironed out and the measure will require congressional action.

Dear Mr. Campbell: A friend of mine lives with her older brother in a house that was fully paid up on the death of their parents and appraised at $40,000.

So that she and her brother can remain friends, my friend wants to take an apartment and withdraw her financial interest in the house.

It has been suggested that her brother could pay her half the value of the house in installments, or refinance it some way. What do you suggest? — Mr. J.K. (hartford, Conn.)

Your friend has a legal question here that she will want to discuss with a lawyer. Fortunately, it's an amicable arrangement, so there should be no real problems in solving it.

The cheapest and simplest solution might indeed be a private financial arrangement between brother and sister involving an installment payoff.

Legally, however, it might be neater to take out a new mortgage on the home with the brother paying off the sister in a lump sum and then assuming the new mortgage indebtedness.

Dear Mr. Campbell: I have twin sons who will be starting college this fall and the costs are going to be tremendous.

Since they will be attending the same college, I'm thinking about buying a small house for them to share near the campus.

I think that in the long run this arrangement would pay for itself, but I'd like your thoughts on it. — Mr. P.L.K. (Phoenix, Ariz.)

This type of arrangement is becoming more and more common, and with two sons hitting college at the same time, it seems extremely practical in your case.

Don't just buy any house, however. Shop around with just as keen an eye as if you were buying it for your own occupancy. Be wary, though, as near-campus housing frequently tends to be outrageously overpriced.

Also, there's one other point that only you and your sons can answer — do the boys have the maturity to maintain the property in a way to protect your equity in it?

Dear Mr. Campbell: My husband passed away a year ago. I am 64 and trying to get by on Social Security.

I have a small, two-bedroom home that is paid for. I also have two pieces of property that are simply laying there. My daughter is making the payments on one piece and the other is paid for.

I would like to know what you think about me taking a mortgage on my house so I could have a little extra money to do some traveling while I

Get an income on your house? Plan weighed

The home is the largest single investment in the life of the average American family, but, after paying into this investment for 20 to 25 years, what do you actually have to show for it?

Dear. Mr. Campbell: My husband and I are both 64 and, in a few months, he will face involuntary retirement.

We will have Social Security, a company pension and a small nest-egg of about $12,000.

We own our home and it would easily bring about $70,000 if we were to put it on the market. It's about the only "investment" we have, except that it doesn't bring us in any money.

It seems the choice we have is to sell the house, pay off Uncle Sam, buy a cheaper place and live off the remaining profit. The trouble with this is, we don't want to move.

Don G. Campbell

About real estate

I heard recently that there is some kind of arrangement where we could use the house to produce a monthly income, but I can't find out anymore about it. Do you know what I mean? — Mr. S.D. (Philadelphia, Pa.)

I know of the arrangement, but as far as I know it is only a proposal that the savings and loan industry is trying to get clearance on.

It's known as the reverse annuity," and it would make it possible for you to "pledge" your home to a local savings and loan. In return, the savings and loan would pay you a lifetime annuity, based on your ages.

At your death (or if you decide to sell the home and buy a smaller place), the house would become the property of the savings and loan, which would then resell it.

You would, of course, sacrifice any appreciation in its value after the deal was made. However, you would have an additional monthly check for as long as you life without giving up your home.

There are still a lot of legal questions to be ironed out and the measure will require congressional action.

Dear Mr. Campbell: A friend of mine lives with her older brother in a house that was fully paid up on the death of their parents and appraised at $40,000.

So that she and her brother can remain friends, my friend wants to take an apartment and withdraw her financial interest in the house.

It has been suggested that her brother could pay her half the value of the house in installments, or refinance it some way. What do you suggest? — Mr. J.K. (hartford, Conn.)

Your friend has a legal question here that she will want to discuss with a lawyer. Fortunately, it's an amicable arrangement, so there should be no real problems in solving it.

The cheapest and simplest solution might indeed be a private financial arrangement between brother and sister involving an installment payoff.

Legally, however, it might be neater to take out a new mortgage on the home with the brother paying off the sister in a lump sum and then assuming the new mortgage indebtedness.

Dear Mr. Campbell: I have twin sons who will be starting college this fall and the costs are going to be tremendous.

Since they will be attending the same college, I'm thinking about buying a small house for them to share near the campus.

I think that in the long run this arrangement would pay for itself, but I'd like your thoughts on it. — Mr. P.L.K. (Phoenix, Ariz.)

This type of arrangement is becoming more and more common, and with two sons hitting college at the same time, it seems extremely practical in your case.

Don't just buy any house, however. Shop around with just as keen an eye as if you were buying it for your own occupancy. Be wary, though, as near-campus housing frequently tends to be outrageously overpriced.

Also, there's one other point that only you and your sons can answer — do the boys have the maturity to maintain the property in a way to protect your equity in it?

Dear Mr. Campbell: My husband passed away a year ago. I am 64 and trying to get by on Social Security.

I have a small, two-bedroom home that is paid for. I also have two pieces of property that are simply laying there. My daughter is making the payments on one piece and the other is paid for.

I would like to know what you think about me taking a mortgage on my house so I could have a little extra money to do some traveling while I

Mineral spirits gets brushes clean

Herman Baum

The house doctor

Dear House Doctor: Some time ago you said you used an oil base enamel paint on the wood trim in your home. A paint store salesman agreed this is the best product, but said a high-grade brush is required and cleaning it is a real job, as this must be done with turpentine which is expensive. S. K.

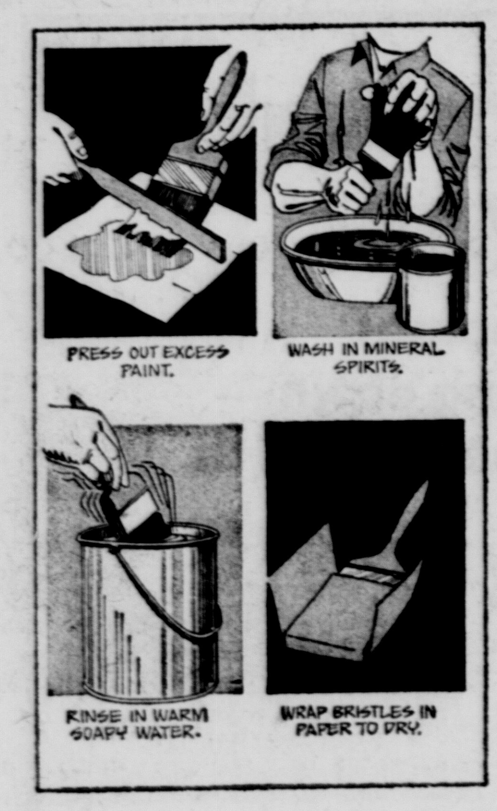
I am glad the salesman agrees with me about the use of enamel, but he is mistaken about having to use turpentine to clean the brush. Mineral spirits does an equally good job.

Three or four years ago, I bought this for 30 cents a gallon, but you must now pay three times that price. It is still cheaper than turpentine, though.

For cleaning brushes, you will need a gallon of mineral spirits and two cans with tight-fitting covers. I save empty gallon paint cans for this purpose.

Place the brush flat on a paper and use a paint paddle to squeeze out as much paint as possible. Pour some of the mineral spirits into a large can or basin and wash the brush thoroughly in it.

Fill the brush with the spirits, then hold it, bristle end up, and work the spirits well down into the heel of the brush, as this is where the damage is done if the paint is not completely removed.



PRESS OUT EXCESS PAINT.
WASH IN MINERAL SPIRITS.
RINSE IN WARM SOAPY WATER.
WRAP BRISTLES IN PAPER TO DRY.

Do this several times, then pour the mineral spirits into the empty container and repeat the cleaning operation three times or until the liquid remains relatively clear. The best way to remove the spirits from the brush is to twirl the brush between the palms of your hands.

The brush is then washed in lukewarm soapy water. Shake the brush dry and wrap the bristles in heavy brown paper to hold them straight. Place on a flat surface.

The pigment in the mineral spirits will settle in a week and then it can be reused to clean a dozen brushes before being discarded. Mineral spirits is highly flammable, so when it has outlived its usefulness for cleaning brushes, you can still use it to start the fire in your charcoal grill.

Outpatients' clinic

J. P. W. — I suggest you remove the tin roof before applying the new asphalt shingle roof. Place 15-pound roofing felt over the wood sheathing before attaching the shingles.

J. H. R. — Particle board does not have the required strength for the sub-floor in your basement which will be covered with resilient tile. A special, less-expensive grade of plywood is preferred for this purpose.

L. S. — Epoxy enamel will bond to the asphalt tiles in your kitchen, but this type floor covering is outmoded and you should consider replacing it with a material that is easier to clean.

Dear House Doctor: Our attic is well insulated, but there is only 1½ inches of insulation in the walls of our house. Two bedrooms are very chilly in winter, and we were wondering if there is any type of paneling we can add to these rooms that will help? Mrs. J. D.

The only method that would have any real value would be to cement one-inch thick polystyrene foam panels to the bedroom walls and then cover this with plywood, gypsumboard or plaster. This will necessitate remodeling the trim around windows and doors and will reduce the size of the room slightly.

Dear House Doctor: Is there anything I can apply to the top of a walnut dining room table that is not susceptible to scratches and damage caused by hot dishes and water, so I do not have to use silence pads and tablecloths? Mrs. J. C.

The genius capable of perfecting such a finish has not yet appeared. You can have walnut grained, plastic laminate applied to the table top and this does have these qualities.

Dear House Doctor: I added a patio to the rear of my home and provided entrance to it by replacing a double window with sliding glass doors. The door can be lifted from the tracks by anyone bent on gaining entrance. Is there any way to make them more secure? C. G.

There are several types of locks intended for this purpose.

The best is key operated and has a bolt that goes into a notch cut in the side of the top track.

A simple device is a steel pin that is inserted into a hole drilled into the metal trim at the overlap at the center. Care must be taken not to drill completely through the outer trim. Check with your hardware store.

Dear House Doctor: I recently purchased a cast-iron fry pan, and the salesman told me to oil it before using. I did this, but after washing, it rusted. Perhaps it is not really cast iron. M. P. K.

Before you use a cast-iron-cooking utensil, coat it liberally with lard or beef fat and place it in the oven at 250 degrees for at least four hours. Wash it with soap but never use a scouring powder or scouring pad. Vegetable shortening has no value for this purpose.

Dear House Doctor: The caulking around the shower door in our bathroom needs to be replaced. We have putty on hand and wondered if we could use this. Mrs. D. G.

Putty should not be used for this purpose. You can buy a special grade of caulking for use in bathrooms. It comes in a tube with a nozzle for easy application. Pay a little more for a good grade and it will not change color.

I would rather see you make every effort to unload the unproductive pieces of property first, rather than take out a mortgage on the house.

I don't know what your Social Security nets you monthly, nor how much travel money you want to raise. But I'm a little uneasy about you taking on such an indebtedness, simply for the purpose of taking a few trips. The equity in your home should be regarded as your last-ditch emergency fund.

Mineral spirits gets brushes clean

Herman Baum

The house doctor

Dear House Doctor: Some time ago you said you used an oil base enamel paint on the wood trim in your home. A paint store salesman agreed this is the best product, but said a high-grade brush is required and cleaning it is a real job, as this must be done with turpentine which is expensive. S. K.

More energy-saving loans seen

High energy costs will lead to a "steadily increasing volume" of energy-related home improvement loans, said an official of the US League of Savings Associations.

"Once homeowners take a hard look at their utility bills and realize that the days of so-called cheap energy are gone, many families will begin to make energy-conserving home improvements," said John A. Hardin, president of the association.

Hardin made the remarks at the annual convention of the New Jersey Savings League.The U.S. League is the largest trade organization serving the $400 billion savings and loan business.

"MANY OF US got a taste of what's ahead last January and February, when heating bills soared to previously unheard of highs. "We think that a lot of families will be adding insulation, putting on storm windows and the like — and turning to savings associations for the necessary financing," he said.

The Carter administration's proposed tax credits for homeowners who make energy-related home improvements will provide an additional spur, Hardin added.

The proposals only recently have been introduced in Congress, but Hardin noted that the housing portion of the President's plan "is among the least controversial and probably will pass intact."

Hardin said the home improvement business has grown substantially in recent years. Savings associations, for instance, had some $3 billion in home improvement loans outstanding at the beginning of 1977, a 50 per cent increase over figures in 1976.

That dramatic increase, Hardin said, apparently reflected the fact that during the recent economic recession many families chose to expand or remodel their homes rather than purchase newer, larger houses.

"Now we expect that many families will be spending home improvement funds to increase their home energy efficiency levels," he said.

Hot water heaters often set too high

You can beat the heat of high utility costs by turning down the control of your hot water heater, says the National Assn. of Realtors.

Nearly every hot water heater has a control which permits the owner to select such settings as warm, very warm, and hot. Too many people keep the setting on hot when they don't need to, wasting valuable energy heating water to a temperature higher than necessary. Keep the temperature down to 110-120 degrees.

Such a waste of energy results in a higher utility bill for the owner, as well as unnecessary waste of electricity or natural gas.

Local real estate brokers are offering a folder, "The Energy Crisis Hits Home," which contains tips on saving money and energy.

More energy-saving loans seen

High energy costs will lead to a "steadily increasing volume" of energy-related home improvement loans, said an official of the US League of Savings Associations.

"Once homeowners take a hard look at their utility bills and realize that the days of so-called cheap energy are gone, many families will begin to make energy-conserving home improvements," said John A. Hardin, president of the association.

Hardin made the remarks at the annual convention of the New Jersey Savings League.The U.S. League is the largest trade organization serving the $400 billion savings and loan business.

"MANY OF US got a taste of what's ahead last January and February, when heating bills soared to previously unheard of highs. "We think that a lot of families will be adding insulation, putting on storm windows and the like — and turning to savings associations for the necessary financing," he said.

The Carter administration's proposed tax credits for homeowners who make energy-related home improvements will provide an additional spur, Hardin added.

The proposals only recently have been introduced in Congress, but Hardin noted that the housing portion of the President's plan "is among the least controversial and probably will pass intact."

Hardin said the home improvement business has grown substantially in recent years. Savings associations, for instance, had some $3 billion in home improvement loans outstanding at the beginning of 1977, a 50 per cent increase over figures in 1976.

That dramatic increase, Hardin said, apparently reflected the fact that during the recent economic recession many families chose to expand or remodel their homes rather than purchase newer, larger houses.

"Now we expect that many families will be spending home improvement funds to increase their home energy efficiency levels," he said.

Hot water heaters often set too high

You can beat the heat of high utility costs by turning down the control of your hot water heater, says the National Assn. of Realtors.

Nearly every hot water heater has a control which permits the owner to select such settings as warm, very warm, and hot. Too many people keep the setting on hot when they don't need to, wasting valuable energy heating water to a temperature higher than necessary. Keep the temperature down to 110-120 degrees.

Such a waste of energy results in a higher utility bill for the owner, as well as unnecessary waste of electricity or natural gas.

Local real estate brokers are offering a folder, "The Energy Crisis Hits Home," which contains tips on saving money and energy.

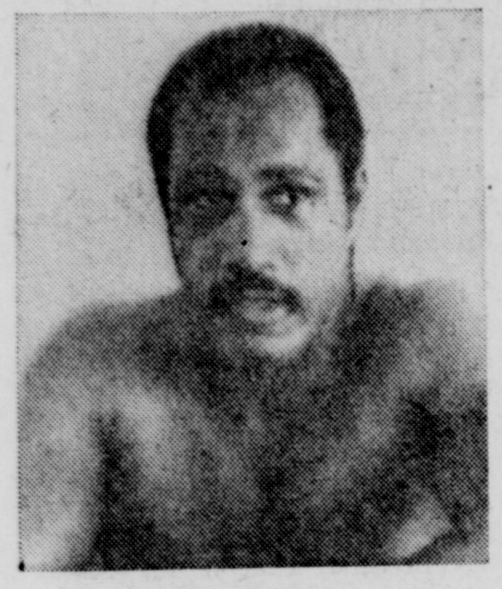
Norton flattens Bobick in opening round



Ken Norton

Duane Bobick

NEW YORK (UPI) — Top ranked heavyweight contender Ken Norton's $500,000 gamble paid off spectacularly Wednesday night when he dealt Duane Bobick his first loss in 39 fights with a barrage of rights that flattened the young redhead and ended the fight at 58 seconds of the first round.

Norton, screaeming for a rematch with Muhammad Ali, stood to lose several million dollars if he had been beaten by the fourth-ranked Bobick but came out furiously and staggered the 26-year-old with three rights only seconds into the fight.

Bobick seemed ready to go down but held his balance momentarily, only to be swept away by three more wild right hand shots to the head.

Bobick managed to get to his feet at the count of 10 with a bewildered look on his face, and referee Petey Della initially signalled the fight to continue, but as Norton came on again Della stopped the fight.

"I got hit in the throat," Bobick said with a raspy voice. "I couldn't do anything. I got hit with an overhand right. "I'm a slow starter and he came out trying to get me. There will be another day. I want him again."

The official timekeeper marked the end of the fight in 58 seconds but the clock used by NBC erroneously had the fight ending after 1:12.

"I expected him to come out and try to get me," Bobick repeated, "but I didn't expect a jab in the throat."

Norton, nearly 32, was introduced as the "uncrowned champion" because of the controversial decision he lost to Ali last September and he fought like a man possessed to gain what he believed was rightfully his. "I am the champion and I want to beat Ali again to prove it," Norton said in the ring.

Bobick earned $300,000 for the 58 seconds he spent in the ring before an estimated viewing audience of 40 million. NBC T. V., which charged about $65,000 per commercial minute for the scheduled 12-rounder, must have been sorely disappointed by the outcome. The Garden was nearly half-empty with just about 10,000 in the stands for a gate of $250,000.

Mike Rossman (30-3-3), stopped Mike Quarry (58-9-4) on cuts in the sixth round of their 11-round light-heavyweight battle prior to the main event, and Quarry immediately retired at the insistence of his older brother, Jerry. In another prelim, Olympic light-weight Gold Medalist Howard Davis Jr., 3-0, scored a unanimous decision over Carlos Gonzalez.

Norton, now 38-4 with 31 KO's, weighed 222¾, four more than he weighed for Ali last fall. Norton's mental attitude had been questioned going into the fight but he showed only a single-mindedness to end the bout quickly. It was the shortest fight of Norton's career and only his second first-round knockout.

Knapp goes distance for 4-3 Sox win

ARLINGTON, Tex. — Chris Knapp and the White Sox both reached milestones here Wednesday night in a 4-3, 10-inning win over the Rangers.

Knapp, who hadn't gone past six innings yet this season, went all the way for his fourth win in five decisions and was near perfect after giving up three Texas runs in the second inning.

The Sox, meanwhile, finished a murderous stretch on the road — 18 of the club's last 21 games were played outside Comiskey Park — with a win that gave them 11 wins in their last 18 road contests.

THE SOX EMBARKED on the grueling drive away from home on April 18, 1½ games in first place. Since then, they are 13-8 and are in second place, just a half game back of the division leading Minnesota Twins.

Chet Lemon, the Sox centerfielder who is rapidly blossoming into a major league star, was the hero here Wednesday with a bases-loaded single in the top of the 10th that drove in Richie Zisk with the go-ahead run.

Lemon, who was 3-for-5, also homered in the fourth.

The other star of the night as far as the Sox were concerned was young Mr. Knapp, who gave up but three hits over the last eight innings.

THE LANKY right hander gave up a total of six hits, three of which came in the second inning when the Rangers nearly KOd Knapp as they scored all three of their runs.

The Sox had scored in the very first inning on Zisk's sacrifice fly that brought Alan Bannister home.

But Texas came back with the three runs in a rally that started after one out when Knapp hit Ken Henderson with a pitch. Henderson moved to second on a fielder's choice and was hurt when he tripped over the base.

Dave May came in to run and promptly scored on Bump Wills' triple to right center. Jim Sundberg doubled to score Wills and then Juan Beniquez singled Sundberg across.

LEMON'S FIFTH homer of the season narrowed the score to 3-2 in the fourth. The Sox tied the game in the fifth when Ralph Garr and Bannister opened the inning with singles. Jorge Orta drove home Garr with a sacrifice fly.

Zisk started the winning rally, by singling to right with one out in the 10th, then went all the way to third on some hustling baserunning when Jim Spencer followed with a single to left.

An intentional walk to LaMar Johnson, who was batting for Oscar Gamble, loaded the bases and brought on Adrian Devine in relief of losing pitcher Paul Lindblad, who'd started the 10th inning.

Pele's farewell draws 21,108 to Soldier Field

Fluke goal propels Cosmos over Sting, 2-1

by KEITH REINHARD

The 2-1 final score in favor of the New York Cosmos was correct.

But in terms of players, the Chicago Sting outscored the opposition by a two-to-one count even as they dropped their fifth straight NASL contest of the young season Wednesday night at Soldier Field.

The contest was billed as a farewell night for Pele, the great Brazilian star making his last playing appearance in the Windy City before 21,108 curious fans.

BUT THE RETIRING Cosmos star had to at least share the limelight with mid-fielder Vitomir Dimitrijevic who drilled home the winning (and only) New York goal along with striker Giogio Chinaglia, an aggressive former Italian National standout who sparked many of the Cosmos attacks.

New York went up 1-0 at 28:01 of the first half. Sting center back Clive Griffiths made an out-of-bounds save down in the crner and attempted to pass the ball back to goalie Mervyn Cawston. Griffiths made the mistake of looking down at the ball and didn't see Cawston coming up to get the pass.

Curses!

The slow grounder drifted right past Cawston and into his own net.

Chicago took some of the sting out of the errant goal with a three-man attack later in the first half. Led by Bobby Tynan, the thrust was capped by a 20-yarder with Ron Moore and Jimmy Kelly assisting at the 41:32 mark.

THE TWO TEAMS went out at midgame tied at 1-1. New York was quick to retaliate after the intermission. With more than 30 minutes of playing time remaining, reserve forward Jadranko Topic penetrated the Chicago defenses and passed to Dimitrijevic, who slammed home a hard 15-yarder.

Action after that was mixed. The visitors generally were in control and kept Cawston busy fielding a variety of artillery from corner kicks to headers to penalty kicks.

The Sting was still able to mount several strong attacks. Kelly instigated a couple of them from the side in the late going but saw no one in the middle to follow his one good feed. On the other, his teammates in the middle passed off enough times to have the ball taken away from them.

In the final analysis, fouls hurt Chicago as much as New York's aggressive play. The hosts were cited for 17 infractions compared to two for the Cosmos.

COCMOS COACH Gordon Bradley admitted that penalties were a factor in the game, but tried to view the situation objectively.

"I wasn't particularly enthusiastic about the officiating but felt it sort of evened out over the long run."

Explained Bradley, "There's no question that it helped us in the second half, but I think it went in Chicago's way in the first half. Don't forget we had a goal called back during the opening period."

Turner will manage his woebegone team

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Atlanta Braves' quixotic owner, Ted Turner, a successful businessman and yachtsman who has never played baseball, Wednesday night took over temporarily as manager of his club and sent previous manager Dave Bristol on "special assignment" to the farm club circuit.

The arrangement will last for 10 days, Turner said in a dugout interview.

"The plan's for him (Bristol) to be back Monday a week," the prematurely-gray Turner said in his Southern drawl.

BRISTOL IS TO spend the week and a half looking at prospects in the Braves' minor league system and talking to clubs who might be willing to make a deal that would help strengthen the crumbling Atlanta ballclub, losers of 16 straight prior to Wednesday night's game here with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Turner signed a contract as a coach in order to be able to take over as acting manager. He chose uniform number 27.

Turner, who says he's tired of saying injuries are the cause of Atlanta's problems, considers his 10-day stint as manager and coach a learning experience.

"This change is mainly for me to learn what goes on here because I was asked some pretty embarrassing questions this week," Turner said. 'They were logical questions like why are they losing and I couldn't answer them . . I want to be able to answer those questions intelligently."

TURNER, NOTING he has no baseball experience, said he will not involve himself with strategy.

Houston's early fireworks snap Cub win streak at 6

HOUSTON — It was the Cubs' turn Wednesday night to be the punching bag, as Houston's Astros pounded the visitors for seven runs in the first three innings to coast to an 8-2 victory, ending the Cubs' six-game winning streak.

After suffering through one-sided losses in the first two games of the series Monday and Tuesday, the Astros used the four-hit pitching of James Rodney Richard and a 12-hit attack of their own to turn the table on the Cubs.

Cubs' starter Ray Burris (4-4), who beat Richard last week in Chicago, could not finish the third inning after yielding two runs in the first and five more in the third. He was shelled for seven hits in his brief stint, while walking four.

BURRIS WAS FOLLOWED by Paul Reuschel and Jim Todd, who was tagged with Houston's one-spot in the eighth inning. Cubs' pitchers walked seven batters and threw a wild pitch. Catcher George Mitterwald was charged with a passed ball, and Ivan DeJesus committed an error.

Richard (2-3) had little trouble with the Cubs until the sixth inning when he walked Gene Clines and DeJesus before advancing them a base with a wild pitch. Greg Gross followed with a two-run single.

Cesar Cedeno led Houston's counterattack at the plate by starting off the five-run third inning with a solo home run and finishing the night with two hits, three runs and two stolen bases. Catcher Joe Ferguson was the recipient of four walks before he finally earned his way to first base with a run-producing single in the eighth.

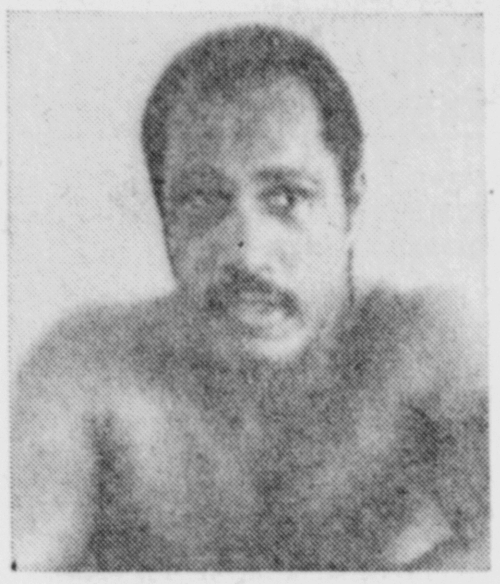
DeJesus' nine-game hitting streak came to an end, when the best the shortstop could muster was a sixth-inning walk, later scoring on Gross' single. Mick Kelleher collected his first single of the season, subbing for second baseman Manny Trillo, whose sore heel kept him out of the line-up.

RICHARD, WHO had an eight-inning no-hitter against Chicago last season, was tagged for eight hits and five runs in just 3-1/3 innings last week at Chicago. The Astros went on to lose that game 9-0. Wednesday, he fanned five Cubs and walked three.

Despite the loss, the Cubs won the three-game series and managed to win one more game in the Astrodome than they did all last season. The Cubs return to Houston July 29-31 for their final three games of the season there.

The Cubs, now 15-11, will take on their farm club Wichita Aeros today in an exhibition game before starting a three-game weekend series at Montreal.

Norton flattens Bobick in opening round



Ken Norton

NEW YORK (UPI) — Top ranked heavyweight contender Ken Norton's $500,000 gamble paid off spectacularly Wednesday night when he dealt Duane Bobick his first loss in 39 fights with a barrage of rights that flattened the young redhead and ended the fight at 58 seconds of the first round.

Norton, screaeming for a rematch with Muhammad Ali, stood to lose several million dollars if he had been beaten by the fourth-ranked Bobick but came out furiously and staggered the 26-year-old with three rights only seconds into the fight.

Bobick seemed ready to go down but held his balance momentarily, only to be swept away by three more wild right hand shots to the head.

Bobick managed to get to his feet at the count of 10 with a bewildered look on his face, and referee Petey Della initially signalled the fight to continue, but as Norton came on again Della stopped the fight.

"I got hit in the throat," Bobick said with a raspy voice. "I couldn't do anything. I got hit with an overhand right. "I'm a slow starter and he came out trying to get me. There will be another day. I want him again."

The official timekeeper marked the end of the fight in 58 seconds but the clock used by NBC erroneously had the fight ending after 1:12.

"I expected him to come out and try to get me," Bobick repeated, "but I didn't expect a jab in the throat."

Norton, nearly 32, was introduced as the "uncrowned champion" because of the controversial decision he lost to Ali last September and he fought like a man possessed to gain what he believed was rightfully his. "I am the champion and I want to beat Ali again to prove it," Norton said in the ring.

Bobick earned $300,000 for the 58 seconds he spent in the ring before an estimated viewing audience of 40 million. NBC T. V., which charged about $65,000 per commercial minute for the scheduled 12-rounder, must have been sorely disappointed by the outcome. The Garden was nearly half-empty with just about 10,000 in the stands for a gate of $250,000.

Mike Rossman (30-3-3), stopped Mike Quarry (58-9-4) on cuts in the sixth round of their 11-round light-heavyweight battle prior to the main event, and Quarry immediately retired at the insistence of his older brother, Jerry. In another prelim, Olympic light-weight Gold Medalist Howard Davis Jr., 3-0, scored a unanimous decision over Carlos Gonzalez.

Norton, now 38-4 with 31 KO's, weighed 222¾, four more than he weighed for Ali last fall. Norton's mental attitude had been questioned going into the fight but he showed only a single-mindedness to end the bout quickly. It was the shortest fight of Norton's career and only his second first-round knockout.

Knapp goes distance for 4-3 Sox win

ARLINGTON, Tex. — Chris Knapp and the White Sox both reached milestones here Wednesday night in a 4-3, 10-inning win over the Rangers.

Knapp, who hadn't gone past six innings yet this season, went all the way for his fourth win in five decisions and was near perfect after giving up three Texas runs in the second inning.

The Sox, meanwhile, finished a murderous stretch on the road — 18 of the club's last 21 games were played outside Comiskey Park — with a win that gave them 11 wins in their last 18 road contests.

THE SOX EMBARKED on the grueling drive away from home on April 18, 1½ games in first place. Since then, they are 13-8 and are in second place, just a half game back of the division leading Minnesota Twins.

Chet Lemon, the Sox centerfielder who is rapidly blossoming into a major league star, was the hero here Wednesday with a bases-loaded single in the top of the 10th that drove in Richie Zisk with the go-ahead run.

Lemon, who was 3-for-5, also homered in the fourth.

The other star of the night as far as the Sox were concerned was young Mr. Knapp, who gave up but three hits over the last eight innings.

THE LANKY right hander gave up a total of six hits, three of which came in the second inning when the Rangers nearly KOd Knapp as they scored all three of their runs.

The Sox had scored in the very first inning on Zisk's sacrifice fly that brought Alan Bannister home.

But Texas came back with the three runs in a rally that started after one out when Knapp hit Ken Henderson with a pitch. Henderson moved to second on a fielder's choice and was hurt when he tripped over the base.

Dave May came in to run and promptly scored on Bump Wills' triple to right center. Jim Sundberg doubled to score Wills and then Juan Beniquez singled Sundberg across.

LEMON'S FIFTH homer of the season narrowed the score to 3-2 in the fourth. The Sox tied the game in the fifth when Ralph Garr and Bannister opened the inning with singles. Jorge Orta drove home Garr with a sacrifice fly.

Zisk started the winning rally, by singling to right with one out in the 10th, then went all the way to third on some hustling baserunning when Jim Spencer followed with a single to left.

An intentional walk to LaMar Johnson, who was batting for Oscar Gamble, loaded the bases and brought on Adrian Devine in relief of losing pitcher Paul Lindblad, who'd started the 10th inning.

Pele's farewell draws 21,108 to Soldier Field

Fluke goal propels Cosmos over Sting, 2-1

by KEITH REINHARD

The 2-1 final score in favor of the New York Cosmos was correct.

But in terms of players, the Chicago Sting outscored the opposition by a two-to-one count even as they dropped their fifth straight NASL contest of the young season Wednesday night at Soldier Field.

The contest was billed as a farewell night for Pele, the great Brazilian star making his last playing appearance in the Windy City before 21,108 curious fans.

BUT THE RETIRING Cosmos star had to at least share the limelight with mid-fielder Vitomir Dimitrijevic who drilled home the winning (and only) New York goal along with striker Giogio Chinaglia, an aggressive former Italian National standout who sparked many of the Cosmos attacks.

New York went up 1-0 at 28:01 of the first half. Sting center back Clive Griffiths made an out-of-bounds save down in the crner and attempted to pass the ball back to goalie Mervyn Cawston. Griffiths made the mistake of looking down at the ball and didn't see Cawston coming up to get the pass.

Curses!

The slow grounder drifted right past Cawston and into his own net.

Chicago took some of the sting out of the errant goal with a three-man attack later in the first half. Led by Bobby Tynan, the thrust was capped by a 20-yarder with Ron Moore and Jimmy Kelly assisting at the 41:32 mark.

THE TWO TEAMS went out at midgame tied at 1-1. New York was quick to retaliate after the intermission. With more than 30 minutes of playing time remaining, reserve forward Jadranko Topic penetrated the Chicago defenses and passed to Dimitrijevic, who slammed home a hard 15-yarder.

HAPPINESS IS. Maine West's Debbie Carlstrom (No. 11) is engulfed by happy teammates after hitting a home run Wednesday against Prospect. But the joy was short lived as the Knights came up with a run in the bottom of the 10th inning to win the Maine West sub-regional, 7-6.

Parker's sizzling bat paces Pirates

From Herald Wire Services

Batting, winning and losing streaks characterized action in the major leagues Wednesday night. Among the most notable were Dave Parker's 22-game hitting streak for Pittsburgh, Atlanta's 17-game losing streak and Pittsburgh's 11-game win skein.

In National League action, Pittsburgh topped Atlanta, 2-1, Los Angeles beat Montreal, 5-1, San Diego swept the Mets, 4-3 and 6-3, San Francisco tipped Philadelphia, 4-2 and Cincinnati beat St. Louis, 5-1.

American League verdicts included Detroit's 8-3 win over Minnesota, Oakland's 3-1 triumph over Boston and Cleveland's 4-3 decison over Milwaukee.

IN THE NATIONAL circuit, blazing Parker stretching his batting streak to 22 games with a solo homer in the third inning and John Candelaria won his fourth straight game to pace Pittsburgh to the triumph.

Dan Spiller pitched 4-2/3 innings of one-hit relief and Dave Winfield knocked in three runs with a homer and a single to lead the Padres over the Mets in the first game.

San Diego gained a sweep in the twilight doubleheader with a 6-3 nightcap triumph. Again it was the unsigned Winfield supplying the punch as his single in the fifth led to the eventual winning run.

Major league baseball

Former Cub Bill Madlock stroked a two-run homer to carry the Giants and hurler Lynn McGlothen to the triumph over Philadelphia.

IN MONTREAL, Bill Russell's two-run single highlighted a five-run rally in the seventh inning which propolled the Dodgers to victory. The win was the Dodgers' 23rd of the season against six losses.

Joe Morgan singled across Ken Griffey with the go-ahead run in the third to give Jack Billingham and the Reds the nod.

Here's how action unfolded in the American League.

HOME RUNS BY Mitchell Page, Wayne Gross and Earl Williams provided Doc Medich with all he needed to pitch his first complete game this season for the Oakland 'A's over the Red Sox. It was Page's eighth homer of the season.

Paul Dade's sacrifice fly scored Frank Duffy with the winner in the eighth inning to give Wayne Garland, Cleveland's $2.3 million pitcher his first win of the season for the Indians.

Phil Mankowski and Mark Wagner, who came into the game with three career home runs between them, connected on back-to-back pokes to lead the Tigers.

Baltimore was at California and the New York Yankees were at Seattle in West Coast play.

Rockets, Malone race past 76ers

HOUSTON (UPI) — Moses Malone dominated the backboards and helped the Houston Rockets tighten up their NBA playoff series against the Philadelphia 76ers with a physical 118-94 victory Wednesday night.

Houston outmuscled the stronger 76ers to a 20-point lead in the first half and was threatened only once in cutting the 76ers' series lead to 2-1. The fourth game in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference championship series is Friday night in Houston.

Malone led all scorers with 30 points and grabbed a game-high 24 rebounds. Rudy Tomjanovich added 24 points and rookie guard John Lucas, who was held to eight points in the two previous games, chipped in 20.

THE 76ERS, who were led by the 26 points of Julius Erving, closed a big Houston lead to six points early in the third quarter by running off 15 points to the Rockets' three in a four-minute span.

Philadelphia was hurt by an injury to substitute guard Lloyd Free in the second period. Free, who suffered, a severe bruise of the ribs in a collision with Mike Newlin, was carried off the court and taken to a hospital.

As the 76ers pulled back in the game, their top rebounding forward, Darryl Dawkins, was getting his fourth and fifth fouls. Dawkins and the man he replaced in the starting lineup, Caldwell Jones, both fouled out in the first five minutes of the fourth quarter.

The hot-shooting Rockets refused to allow the 76ers to move closer than six points in the second half and Philadelphia's early third quarter drive was defused when Calvin Murphy led the Rockets back to a 74-60 lead.

Houston fired a .611 percentage in the third quarter. For the game, Houston shot 47.9 per cent compared to the 76ers' 43.6.

Philadelphia showed none of the devastating run-and-gun offense which it had used in the first two games. In the first half alone, the 76ers missed 26 field shots and committed 12 turnovers to fall behind by 18 points.

Prospect wins in softball thriller

A dramatic two-out base hit in the bottom of the 10th inning gave Prospect a 7-6 win over Maine West and a sub-regional championship Wedneday.

In other sub-regional title matches, Fremd edged Rolling Meadows 8-6, Hersey slipped by Palatine 7-6, and Buffalo Grove topped Stevenson 10-3.

With Maine West apparently in control with a 6-1 lead going into the bottom of the 7th, Prospect came up with five runs to tie the score and send the contest into extra innings.

THE WINNING RUN scored with two out as Jeannine Hahn singled in Peg McEneely, who'd singled and moved up on a fielder's choice.

Debbie Meinke and Debbie Carlstrom were both 3-for-5 in a losing effort for the Warriors. Carlstrom homered for Maine West.

In other sub-regional action, Fremd likewise came up with five runs in the final inning, then held Rolling Meadows in the bottom half of the frame to win 8-6. Robin Calvert was 3-for-4 for the winning Vikings.

Hersey came up with five runs in the fifth inning to erase a 6-2 deficit, then hung on to win their own sub-regional over Palatine, 7-6. Janice Labellarte was the winning pitcher and contributed to her own cause with a two run double. Kim Cashmore also doubled in a run for the Huskies.

IN NON-CONFERENCE action Wednesday, Hoffman Estates clubbed Sacred Hear 20-13. Sandy Berg walloped a grand slam home run and drove in seven runs for Hoffman Estates.

So the survivors now move on to regional competition next week. Fremd, Hersey, Conant and Schaumburg will battle it out for the Palatine Regional title at Fremd. Buffalo Grove moves on to the Lake Forest Regional. Prospect advances to the Elk Grove Regional.

Regional semi finals will be played Monday while championship games will be played Tuesday.

Prospect batters Arlington

Prospect clustered six runs in the top of the third inning to highlight its 8-4 win over Arlington in Mid-Suburban League play Wednesday afternoon. The Knights connected for seven of their 14 hits in the big outbreak.

In other MSL action Wednesday, Elk Grove defeated Conant 4-1 and Forest View beat Schaumburg 8-5. Maine West edged Niles West 4-3 in the Central Suburban League, while Buffalo Grove won by the same score over Libertyville in a nonconference match.

CATCHER Pat Higgins paced Prospect at the plate with three hits, including a run-producing triple. Tom Peterson threw the first five innings for the Knights to collect the win. Danny Frase led Arlington with two singles and four RBIs.

Tom Curran of Elk Grove went the distance, striking out seven and walking none to post a 4-1 victory over Conant. Kevin McCloughan doubled in one run in the winners' two-run first inning, and was responsible for driving in two more runs in the fifth when his bunt single was thrown into right field for an error.

Bob Koch of Forest View settled down after giving up a first-inning grand slam homer to Schaumburg's Steve Atamian and went on to beat the Saxons, 8-5. Koch struck out 10 in the victory.

Atamian's blast tied the score, 4-4, after Forest View had tallied four unearned runs off losing pitcher Tom McCue. But a three-run homer by Larry Dahl gave the Falcons a 7-4 lead in the second inning that they never surrendered.

BOB ANDERSON'S two-run triple with two outs in the bottom of the seventh inning lifted Maine West to a 4-3 victory over Niles West. The win gave the Warriors an 8-3 Central Suburban League record and a 15-4 over-all mark.

Phil Edwards picked up the win for Maine West in relief of starter Ron Rausch, who lasted five innings. Rausch was tagged for two of the Niles' runs, while the losers took a brief lead in the top of the seventh by scoring once off Edwards.

Carl Hank drove in one of the two runs in Maine's two-run second inning, and he finished the night with a pair of safeties.

BOB RAYMO'S fifth-inning single with the bases loaded drove in the tying and eventual winning runs to give Buffalo Grove a 4-3 victory over visiting Libertyville. Raymo's hit drove in Bill Lilly and Bill Forster.

Mark Reusche started for Buffalo Grove and threw five strikeouts before Bill Cobe came on in the top of the fifth after Libertyville took a short-lived 3-2 lead.

Hawks drop twinbill to Rock Valley

by DAVE HESS

The Harper Hawks, bound this weekend for the state championships in Kankakee, found themselves looking past Rock Valley Wednesday, and dropped a doubleheader at home 5-4 and 11-8. It was Harper's fourth loss in a row.

Dave Rochelle started the first game for the Hawks and pitched strong baseball for the first five innings before tiring, and left the score tied at three.

The Hawks took the lead in the fifth on a single by Pete Pavich who was sacrificed to second, and an RBI single by Bob Ray.

BUDDY HUGHES came on for the Hawks and Rock Valley loaded the bases on an infield hit, a walk, and an error. Harper was able to get out of the inning with only two runs being scored, but couldn't make up the runs they had given away.

'This team is as good as anybody," said Harper coach John Elisak. "It's the mental errors that are beating us, we've been beating ourselves. In the tournament we'll have to get back to the good pitching and defense that got us to the playoffs."

Harper cut down on the mistakes in the second game, but wound up dropping a slugfest 11-8, despite a grand slam homerun by Bob Ray that came in the first inning and gave the Hawks an early 4-0 lead. Harper found themselves looking up again at Rock Valley after the second when the visitors scored seven runs to knock starter Dennis Drinan out of the box.

Harper came back in the second as Marty Luquete singled in the tying runs, but Rock Valley was able to score two runs in the fourth and sixth to win going away.

Lions close with split

A dropped third strike helped St. Viator to two insurance runs in the Lions 3-0 win in the nightcap of a doubleheader with Marist Wednesday afternoon. Marist took the first game 4-1, and the two decisions concluded St. Viator's season.

The Lions final record was 5-6 in the Suburban Catholic Conference and 7-13 over-all.

Leading 1-0 in the nightcap, the Lions' Mike Cusack struck out in the sixth inning, but reached first when the pitch was dropped. Doubles by Chris Bobowski and Don Shubeck, plus a single by Rich Sanders, followed to produce two runs.

LOU CITRO picked up the win for St. Viator, striking out one and walking none.

In the first game, Jeff Pirkle of Marist put St. Viator down on four hits, fanning 11 hitters and walking one. Marist scored all the runs it needed in the first inning when a two-out walk and two errors sent home two runs.

Cusack picked up two of the Lions' hits, and teammates John Josten and Jeff Sparacino had one apiece.

That, he said, will be handled by Coaches Vern Benson and Chris Cannizzaro, although Turner helped the two coaches make up Wednesday night's lineup.

Turner said Bristol, who learned of the owner's decision this morning and left here on his special assignment, accepted the decision gracefully.

"It's not a bad idea to send anybody on sabbatical," Turner said. "Baseball's a funny game; you play almost every day of the week. There's no time to get any perspective on what's going on."

It's official— Grams to lead Elk Grove cage

Ken Grams, interim head basketball coach at Elk Grove High School, has been named to that position on a permanent basis, it was announced Wednesday.

Grams was assistant basketball coach at the school prior to last season and was named interim coach when head coach Bill Parmentier resigned late last summer.

"Things worked out well this year. I'm glad to have a chance to continue," said Grams.

Grams led a small Grenadier club to a 13-14 overall record, second place in the Mid-Suburban League South Division and challenged for first place throughout the season.

Elk Grove went on to win their own regional before falling in sectional play to Arlington.

Batting, winning and losing streaks characterized action in the major leagues Wednesday night. Among the most notable were Dave Parker's 22-game hitting streak for Pittsburgh, Atlanta's 17-game losing streak and Pittsburgh's 11-game win skein.

In National League action, Pittsburgh topped Atlanta, 2-1, Los Angeles beat Montreal, 5-1, San Diego swept the Mets, 4-3 and 6-3, San Francisco tipped Philadelphia, 4-2 and Cincinnati beat St. Louis, 5-1.

American League verdicts included Detroit's 8-3 win over Minnesota, Oakland's 3-1 triumph over Boston and Cleveland's 4-3 decison over Milwaukee.

IN THE NATIONAL circuit, blazing Parker stretching his batting streak to 22 games with a solo homer in the third inning and John Candelaria won his fourth straight game to pace Pittsburgh to the triumph.

Dan Spiller pitched 4-2/3 innings of one-hit relief and Dave Winfield knocked in three runs with a homer and a single to lead the Padres over the Mets in the first game.

San Diego gained a sweep in the twilight doubleheader with a 6-3 nightcap triumph. Again it was the unsigned Winfield supplying the punch as his single in the fifth led to the eventual winning run.

Former Cub Bill Madlock stroked a two-run homer to carry the Giants and hurler Lynn McGlothen to the triumph over Philadelphia.

IN MONTREAL, Bill Russell's two-run single highlighted a five-run rally in the seventh inning which propolled the Dodgers to victory. The win was the Dodgers' 23rd of the season against six losses.

Joe Morgan singled across Ken Griffey with the go-ahead run in the third to give Jack Billingham and the Reds the nod.

Here's how action unfolded in the American League.

HOME RUNS BY Mitchell Page, Wayne Gross and Earl Williams provided Doc Medich with all he needed to pitch his first complete game this season for the Oakland 'A's over the Red Sox. It was Page's eighth homer of the season.

Paul Dade's sacrifice fly scored Frank Duffy with the winner in the eighth inning to give Wayne Garland, Cleveland's $2.3 million pitcher his first win of the season for the Indians.

Phil Mankowski and Mark Wagner, who came into the game with three career home runs between them, connected on back-to-back pokes to lead the Tigers.

Baltimore was at California and the New York Yankees were at Seattle in West Coast play.

Rockets, Malone race past 76ers

HOUSTON (UPI) — Moses Malone dominated the backboards and helped the Houston Rockets tighten up their NBA playoff series against the Philadelphia 76ers with a physical 118-94 victory Wednesday night.

Houston outmuscled the stronger 76ers to a 20-point lead in the first half and was threatened only once in cutting the 76ers' series lead to 2-1. The fourth game in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference championship series is Friday night in Houston.

Malone led all scorers with 30 points and grabbed a game-high 24 rebounds. Rudy Tomjanovich added 24 points and rookie guard John Lucas, who was held to eight points in the two previous games, chipped in 20.

THE 76ERS, who were led by the 26 points of Julius Erving, closed a big Houston lead to six points early in the third quarter by running off 15 points to the Rockets' three in a four-minute span.

Philadelphia was hurt by an injury to substitute guard Lloyd Free in the second period. Free, who suffered, a severe bruise of the ribs in a collision with Mike Newlin, was carried off the court and taken to a hospital.

As the 76ers pulled back in the game, their top rebounding forward, Darryl Dawkins, was getting his fourth and fifth fouls. Dawkins and the man he replaced in the starting lineup, Caldwell Jones, both fouled out in the first five minutes of the fourth quarter.

The hot-shooting Rockets refused to allow the 76ers to move closer than six points in the second half and Philadelphia's early third quarter drive was defused when Calvin Murphy led the Rockets back to a 74-60 lead.

Houston fired a .611 percentage in the third quarter. For the game, Houston shot 47.9 per cent compared to the 76ers' 43.6.

Philadelphia showed none of the devastating run-and-gun offense which it had used in the first two games. In the first half alone, the 76ers missed 26 field shots and committed 12 turnovers to fall behind by 18 points.

Prospect wins in softball thriller

A dramatic two-out base hit in the bottom of the 10th inning gave Prospect a 7-6 win over Maine West and a sub-regional championship Wednesday.

In other sub-regional title matches, Fremd edged Rolling Meadows 8-6, Hersey slipped by Palatine 7-6, and Buffalo Grove topped Stevenson 10-3.

With Maine West apparently in control with a 6-1 lead going into the bottom of the 7th, Prospect came up with five runs to tie the score and send the contest into extra innings.

THE WINNING RUN scored with two out as Jeannine Hahn singled in Peg McEneely, who'd singled and moved up on a fielder's choice.

Debbie Meinke and Debbie Carlstrom were both 3-for-5 in a losing effort for the Warriors. Carlstrom homered for Maine West.

In other sub-regional action, Fremd likewise came up with five runs in the final inning, then held Rolling Meadows in the bottom half of the frame to win 8-6. Robin Calvert was 3-for-4 for the winning Vikings.

Hersey came up with five runs in the fifth inning to erase a 6-2 deficit, then hung on to win their own sub-regional over Palatine, 7-6. Janice Labellarte was the winning pitcher and contributed to her own cause with a two run double. Kim Cashmore also doubled in a run for the Huskies.

IN NON-CONFERENCE action Wednesday, Hoffman Estates clubbed Sacred Hear 20-13. Sandy Berg walloped a grand slam home run and drove in seven runs for Hoffman Estates.

So the survivors now move on to regional competition next week. Fremd, Hersey, Conant and Schaumburg will battle it out for the Palatine Regional title at Fremd. Buffalo Grove moves on to the Lake Forest Regional. Prospect advances to the Elk Grove Regional.

Regional semi finals will be played Monday while championship games will be played Tuesday.

Prospect batters Arlington

Prospect clustered six runs in the top of the third inning to highlight its 8-4 win over Arlington in Mid-Suburban League play Wednesday afternoon. The Knights connected for seven of their 14 hits in the big outbreak.

In other MSL action Wednesday, Elk Grove defeated Conant 4-1 and Forest View beat Schaumburg 8-5. Maine West edged Niles West 4-3 in the Central Suburban League, while Buffalo Grove won by the same score over Libertyville in a nonconference match.

CATCHER Pat Higgins paced Prospect at the plate with three hits, including a run-producing triple. Tom Peterson threw the first five innings for the Knights to collect the win. Danny Frase led Arlington with two singles and four RBIs.

Tom Curran of Elk Grove went the distance, striking out seven and walking none to post a 4-1 victory over Conant. Kevin McCloughan doubled in one run in the winners' two-run first inning, and was responsible for driving in two more runs in the fifth when his bunt single was thrown into right field for an error.

Bob Koch of Forest View settled down after giving up a first-inning grand slam homer to Schaumburg's Steve Atamian and went on to beat the Saxons, 8-5. Koch struck out 10 in the victory.

Atamian's blast tied the score, 4-4, after Forest View had tallied four unearned runs off losing pitcher Tom McCue. But a three-run homer by Larry Dahl gave the Falcons a 7-4 lead in the second inning that they never surrendered.

BOB ANDERSON'S two-run triple with two outs in the bottom of the seventh inning lifted Maine West to a 4-3 victory over Niles West. The win gave the Warriors an 8-3 Central Suburban League record and a 15-4 over-all mark.

Phil Edwards picked up the win for Maine West in relief of starter Ron Rausch, who lasted five innings. Rausch was tagged for two of the Niles' runs, while the losers took a brief lead in the top of the seventh by scoring once off Edwards.

Carl Hank drove in one of the two runs in Maine's two-run second inning, and he finished the night with a pair of safeties.

BOB RAYMO'S fifth-inning single with the bases loaded drove in the tying and eventual winning runs to give Buffalo Grove a 4-3 victory over visiting Libertyville. Raymo's hit drove in Bill Lilly and Bill Forster.

Mark Reusche started for Buffalo Grove and threw five strikeouts before Bill Cobe came on in the top of the fifth after Libertyville took a short-lived 3-2 lead.

Lions close with split

A dropped third strike helped St. Viator to two insurance runs in the Lions 3-0 win in the nightcap of a doubleheader with Marist Wednesday afternoon. Marist took the first game 4-1, and the two decisions concluded St. Viator's season.

The Lions final record was 5-6 in the Suburban Catholic Conference and 7-13 over-all.

Leading 1-0 in the nightcap, the Lions' Mike Cusack struck out in the sixth inning, but reached first when the pitch was dropped. Doubles by Chris Bobowski and Don Shubeck, plus a single by Rich Sanders, followed to produce two runs.

LOU CITRO picked up the win for St. Viator, striking out one and walking none.

In the first game, Jeff Pirkle of Marist put St. Viator down on four hits, fanning 11 hitters and walking one. Marist scored all the runs it needed in the first inning when a two-out walk and two errors sent home two runs.

Cusack picked up two of the Lions' hits, and teammates John Josten and Jeff Sparacino had one apiece.

That, he said, will be handled by Coaches Vern Benson and Chris Cannizzaro, although Turner helped the two coaches make up Wednesday night's lineup.

Turner said Bristol, who learned of the owner's decision this morning and left here on his special assignment, accepted the decision gracefully.

"It's not a bad idea to send anybody on sabbatical," Turner said. "Baseball's a funny game; you play almost every day of the week. There's no time to get any perspective on what's going on."

It's official— Grams to lead Elk Grove cage

Ken Grams, interim head basketball coach at Elk Grove High School, has been named to that position on a permanent basis, it was announced Wednesday.

Grams was assistant basketball coach at the school prior to last season and was named interim coach when head coach Bill Parmentier resigned late last summer.

"Things worked out well this year. I'm glad to have a chance to continue," said Grams.

Grams led a small Grenadier club to a 13-14 overall record, second place in the Mid-Suburban League South Division and challenged for first place throughout the season.

Elk Grove went on to win their own regional before falling in sectional play to Arlington.

by DAVE HESS

The Harper Hawks, bound this weekend for the state championships in Kankakee, found themselves looking past Rock Valley Wednesday, and dropped a doubleheader at home 5-4 and 11-8. It was Harper's fourth loss in a row.

Dave Rochelle started the first game for the Hawks and pitched strong baseball for the first five innings before tiring, and left the score tied at three.

The Hawks took the lead in the fifth on a single by Pete Pavich who was sacrificed to second, and an RBI single by Bob Ray.

BUDDY HUGHES came on for the Hawks and Rock Valley loaded the bases on an infield hit, a walk, and an error. Harper was able to get out of the inning with only two runs being scored, but couldn't make up the runs they had given away.

'This team is as good as anybody," said Harper coach John Elisak. "It's the mental errors that are beating us, we've been beating ourselves. In the tournament we'll have to get back to the good pitching and defense that got us to the playoffs."

Harper cut down on the mistakes in the second game, but wound up dropping a slugfest 11-8, despite a grand slam homerun by Bob Ray that came in the first inning and gave the Hawks an early 4-0 lead. Harper found themselves looking up again at Rock Valley after the second when the visitors scored seven runs to knock starter Dennis Drinan out of the box.

Harper came back in the second as Marty Luquete singled in the tying runs, but Rock Valley was able to score two runs in the fourth and sixth to win going away.

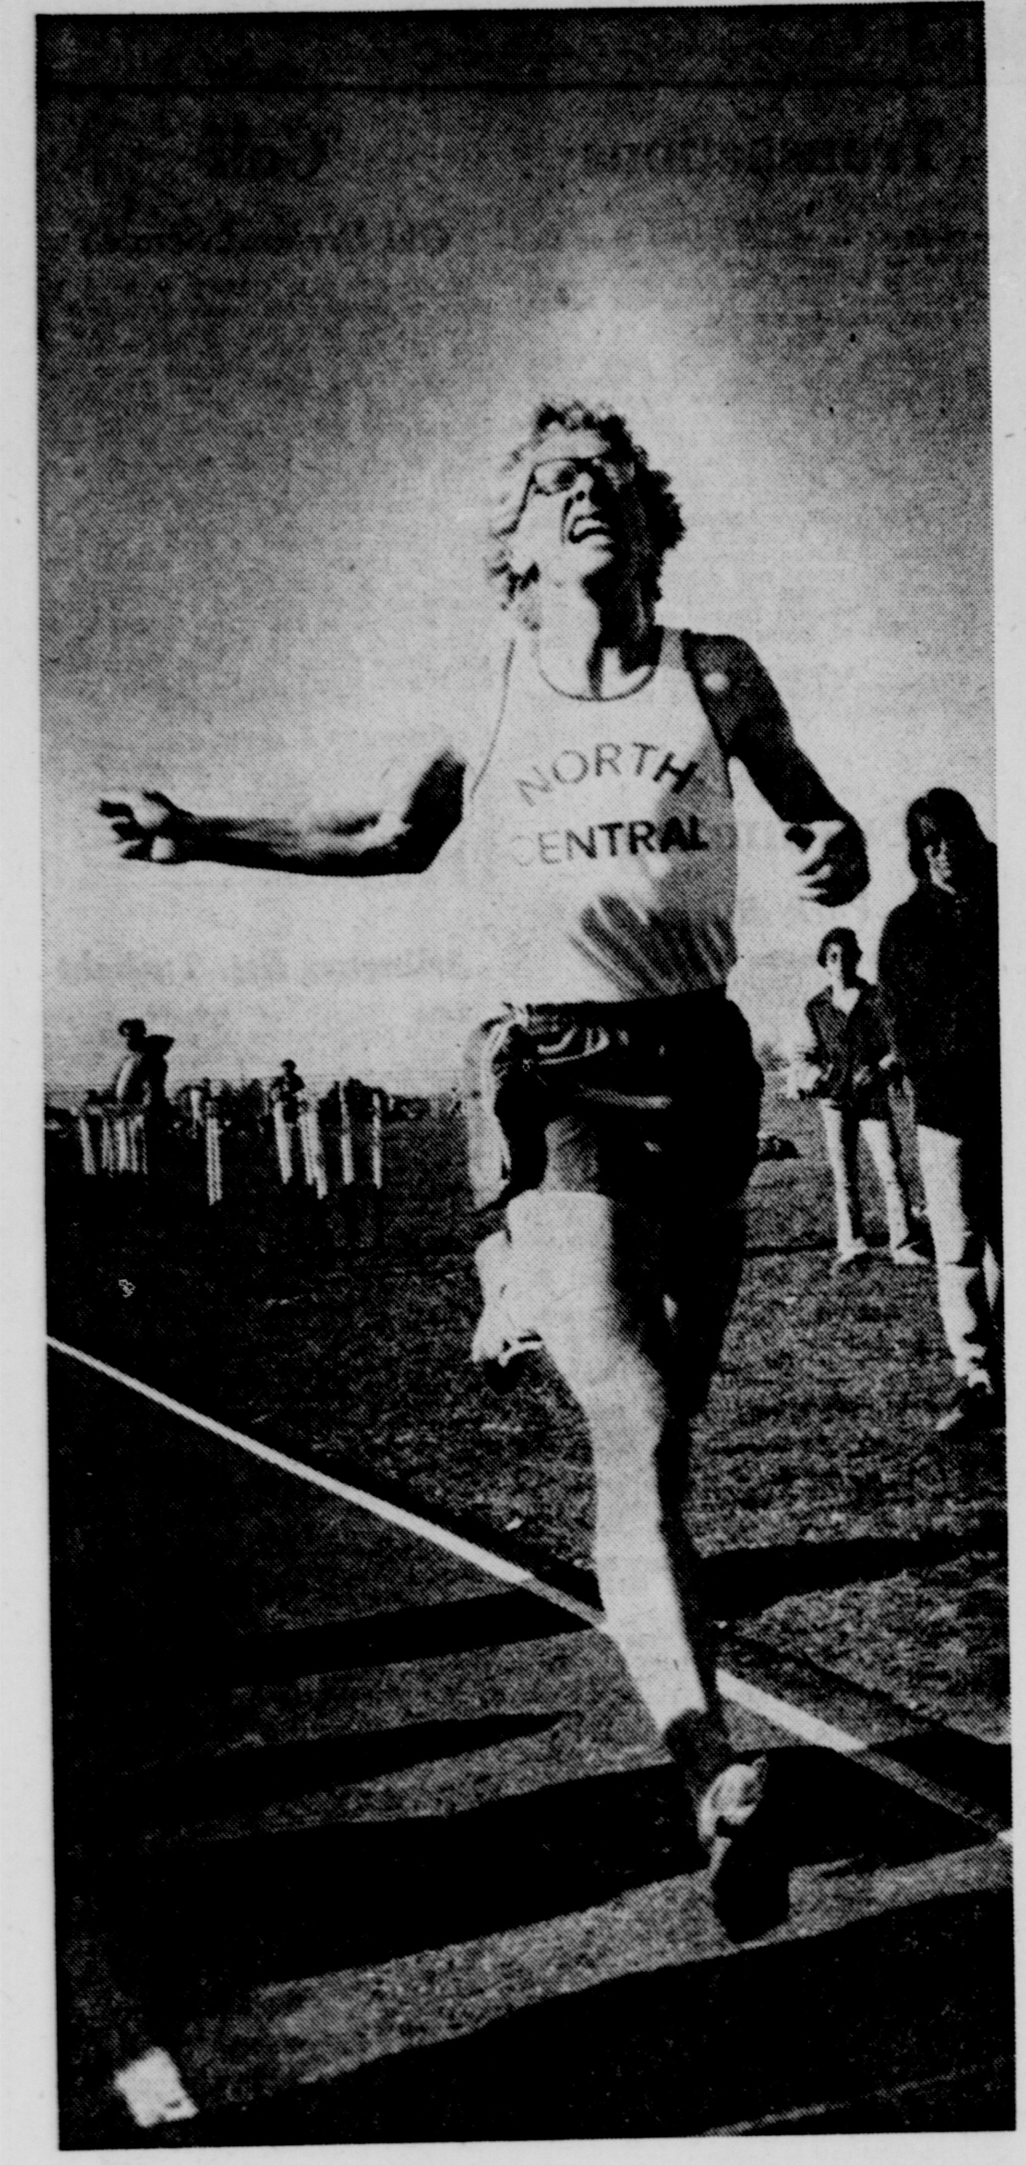
Saxon coach is running to keep pace with goals



JIM MACNIDER, track and cross-country coach at Schaumburg High School, breaks an imaginary tape in snappy 9:11 for two-mile run Monday at Hoffman High. Macnider had hoped to break 9:00, but cold and wind conspired against him.

by ART MUGALIAN

In the middle of a deathly cold 10-mile run last winter, Jim Macnider spoke of his goals and ambitions.

He spoke only because he was asked, and it is only recently that people have begun to ask Macnider: why? Why does he run 10 to 25 miles a day or more? In preparation for what?

"Everybody keeps telling me I should think about the 1980 Olympics," the Schaumburg coach said in the freezing December afternoon air. "Well, if I continue running and improving, who knows? But that's a long way away."

IT IS, INDEED, in terms of months and years — and hours and miles and sweat and pain. It is a far-off vision that has yet to form clearly in his conscious mind.

Moscow in 1980 is an unborn dream for Macnider.

But for every runner — for every athlete, even — who competes not only against others but against himself, there comes a time when the question of motivation must be faced. It has to be wrestled with, taken by the horns, dissected.

That time came for Macnider last year, perhaps on that cold winter day. Protected from the physical ravages of the weather but with his soul bared, he looked ahead over the road-hardened miles of his future.

MACNIDER SAW what every runner sees: A colossal, multi-leveled stadium, thousands of screaming fans waving flags of every color. Maybe it's Moscow. Or just Eugene, Ore. Or Champaign, Ill. Then a runner, a solitary, white-shorted runner enters the stadium. Someone hands him a flag and he triumphantly waves it overhead. The crowd cheers wildly.

"You can't set your expectations too high," said Macnider then, "or you'll be disappointed."

Dreams and hard work are not compatible and Macnider knows it. He has probably always known it.

"When you have a goal and if you don't achieve it, you can start to lose interest," he said Tuesday. "That's what turns a lot of high school kids off running. You have to have intermediate goals — something that can satisfy you along the way."

THAT'S WHY Macnider ran a 9:11 two-mile "workout" at Hoffman High School on Monday during the Dist. 211 track meet. That's also why the 26-year-old North Central College graduate has started running for Ted Hayden's Chicago Track Club.

"Right now my only goals are to keep improving my times," he said. "And I'm going to try to make the cross-country team at the Chicago Track Club next fall. That's as far ahead as I'm looking."

Macnider, who attended Niles West High School and Harper College before going on to North Central, almost gave up running completely three years ago. He quickly became a 5-foot-7, barrel-chested 163 pounds.

He never stopped running altogether but the racer's edge was gone.

"It was about 16 months ago that I started working out seriously again," he said.

NOW CLOSE TO his "racing weight" of 130, Macnider has run a 9:05 two-mile indoors and a 14:39 for 5,000 meters. Sometime last year he realized he could be more than a Sunday runner.

"I like road races best of all," said the man who ran a 4:13 in college, never having broken 4:40 as a prep. "I like those long 10-mile races."

His long-distance prime is still ahead, he feels.

"I was reading an article recently that said that in Europe the 27-28-year-old runners are just reaching their peak. That's because they don't start pushing them as early as they do here. Not that they aren't training — they just don't push them.

"If you start out too intense, you're going to peter out in college," Macnider continued. "You're mentally tired of running. Running should be fun. You have to enjoy it."

MACNIDER, WHOSE NEXT competitive races will probably be the Chicago Lakefront 10-miler and the First National Bank road run later this month, feels he is about a year away from top condition, a year away from Big AAU meets, maybe the Drake Relays marathon.

"The Olympic Trials are too far away to even think about," he said. "Ask me in two years and we'll see.

"Right now I'm enjoying what I'm doing."

Fremd depth key in boys track

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

If Fremd wins the Mid-Suburban League boys track title, it will be a classic nuts-and-bolts victory.

The defending MSL indoor champion Vikings will take their chances tonight and tomorrow at Prospect in the state's biggest, and usually best-run, conference meet. Prelims in all running events, plus finals in the long jump and the shot put, will begin tonight at 4:30.

ONE THING is for sure: three-time defending champ Forest View will be nowhere near the top. All five Falcons who accounted for seven firsts last year have graduated.

"Each team this year has a quality kid and then a lot of depth behind him," said Fremd assistant coach Joe Samojedny. "This is going to be a close meet — I think it'll come down to the people you don't read about in the newspapers."

Samojedny's big star, senior Brian Schones, will be eligible for the meet after all. Reports earlier in the week cast a doubt on his availability. He is entered in both hurdles races the high jump and the long jump.

"Everybody's going to have to chip in," said Samojedny. "It'll have to be a total team effort."

FREMD, WITH the capability to score in as many as 14 or 15 of the 17 events, could be more of a favorite than Samojedny or head coach Pat Brogan figure.

The main challenge could come from Rolling Meadows, led by sprinters Rick Sutton and Dave Boursaw. Hard-charging Prospect also could battle for the first-place trophy, especially if triple-threat jumper Brad Millar and distance runner Mark Smith peak for the meet. And Elk Grove, a surprising third indoors, is as strong as ever.

Finals will begin Friday at 6 p.m.

TWO-MILE RELAY — Even without Smith, Prospect should put together the best foursome here, although Palatine, Forest View and Hersey should be competitive in an event that few coaches can afford to take seriously.

440-RELAY — Execution and discipline are key, as well as a lot of good sprinters, so count on Fremd, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg to be strong here. Also watch Conant and Hersey.

TWO-MILE RUN — Who is better or stronger than Palatine's Tom Johnson? No one in the MSL, it seems. He's already handled Fremd's Dan Inbody twice this year and nobody else has come close to his 9:14 career best.

HIGH HURDLES — Elk Grove's Pat O'Brien, by virtue of his recent All-American selection and his 14.1, is the favorite here. Only teammate John McCloughan and Fremd's duo of Schones and Gary Gunderson can challenge.

100-DASH — A dog-fight shapes up in this sprint. Defending champ Sutton of Rolling Meadows will have to take on four others who have cracked 10.0 — Fremd's Randy Polomsky, Schaumburg's Steve Knudson and Jeff Ways, and teammate Dave Boursaw.

800-RUN — Wide-open field in an event that has become the orphan of MSL. Nobody wants to run it. Top-seeded and perhaps the favorite is Darryl Robinson, Forest View's defending two-mile champ. Buffalo Grove's Joe Schmidt is in slow heat, but could pull off a big surprise.

440-DASH — Shaping up as glamour event of the meet, the quartermile could go under :49 with Palatine's Dave Kennedy joining Sutton, Ways and Polomsky in the finals.

LOW HURDLES — Chris Hilvert of Buffalo Grove has the fastest time and may be the best of the bunch but Elk Grote's McCloughan bears watching as do Conant's Sam Assil and Meadows' Fred Kocian, who both placed last year.

MILE RUN — If Johnson doubles (and there's no reason why he won't) he should be unbeatable, considering his 9:17/4:18 double last Friday. Half-a-dozen MSL milers are capable of mid-4:20s or better so watch Schmidt, Smith, Robinson, Forest View's Bob Haas, Meadows' Tom Choice, and two Fremd runners, Bob Ratcliffe and Tom Ross.

220-DASH — Polomsky has fastest time and longest stride, so he might have the edge. Then keep an eye on defending champ Sutton and speed merchants Kennedy, Boursaw, Knudson, and soph Pat Youngs of Schaumburg. Elk Grove's O'Brien could be a factor too.

SHOT PUT — Arlington's Jay Lenahan is a proven big-meet performer but so is Rolling Meadows' Rich Huber who has been tough lately. Should be a good battle with Conant's Bob Holzkamp figuring in it too.

DISCUS — Buffalo Grover Dave Kellogg beat Lonnie Reitz of Forest View head-to-head last week and he could do it again. Watch for strong efforts from Huber and Fremd's Tom Merritt.

LONG JUMP — Millar of Prospect is the best here and he performs well in the clinches. Boursaw of Meadows could challenge as could Elk Grove's Ron Hartman. Fremd's Schones, who has competed in the event only a few times, is second-seeded.

TRIPLE JUMP — Millar and Fremd's Dave Smedley are in a class by themselves in this event. Give Millar the edge since it's his board.

HIGH JUMP — With Schones consistently at 6-6 or 6-8, he has to get the nod. But watch Millar. The three-event indoor champ is a pressure jumper. Only Conant's Dave Janzow and Palatine's Tom Digan, among the rest, have gone 6-4.

POLE VAULT — Hoffman's Paul Major could go 14-6 or he could fail to make opening height in this unpredictable event. If he's on, he should win. Otherwise, keep an eye on Fremd's Greg Stipe, wh' has literally come out of nowhere to vault 13-9.

MILE RELAY — Final event could decide the title so expect Fremd and Rolling Meadows to be right in there. Conant, Palatine and Schaumburg can put together good teams, too, so it should be an exciting wind-up.

"When you have a goal and if you don't achieve it, you can start to lose interest," he said Tuesday. "That's what turns a lot of high school kids off running. You have to have intermediate goals — something that can satisfy you along the way."

THAT'S WHY Macnider ran a 9:11 two-mile "workout" at Hoffman High School on Monday during the Dist. 211 track meet. That's also why the 26-year-old North Central College graduate has started running for Ted Hayden's Chicago Track Club.

"Right now my only goals are to keep improving my times," he said. "And I'm going to try to make the cross-country team at the Chicago Track Club next fall. That's as far ahead as I'm looking."

Macnider, who attended Niles West High School and Harper College before going on to North Central, almost gave up running completely three years ago. He quickly became a 5-foot-7, barrel-chested 163 pounds.

He never stopped running altogether but the racer's edge was gone.

"It was about 16 months ago that I started working out seriously again," he said.

NOW CLOSE TO his "racing weight" of 130, Macnider has run a 9:05 two-mile indoors and a 14:39 for 5,000 meters. Sometime last year he realized he could be more than a Sunday runner.

"I like road races best of all," said the man who ran a 4:13 in college, never having broken 4:40 as a prep. "I like those long 10-mile races."

His long-distance prime is still ahead, he feels.

"I was reading an article recently that said that in Europe the 27-28-year-old runners are just reaching their peak. That's because they don't start pushing them as early as they do here. Not that they aren't training — they just don't push them.

"If you start out too intense, you're going to peter out in college," Macnider continued. "You're mentally tired of running. Running should be fun. You have to enjoy it."

MACNIDER, WHOSE NEXT competitive races will probably be the Chicago Lakefront 10-miler and the First National Bank road run later this month, feels he is about a year away from top condition, a year away from Big AAU meets, maybe the Drake Relays marathon.

"The Olympic Trials are too far away to even think about," he said. "Ask me in two years and we'll see.

"Right now I'm enjoying what I'm doing."

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

If Fremd wins the Mid-Suburban League boys track title, it will be a classic nuts-and-bolts victory.

The defending MSL indoor champion Vikings will take their chances tonight and tomorrow at Prospect in the state's biggest, and usually best-run, conference meet. Prelims in all running events, plus finals in the long jump and the shot put, will begin tonight at 4:30.

ONE THING is for sure: three-time defending champ Forest View will be nowhere near the top. All five Falcons who accounted for seven firsts last year have graduated.

"Each team this year has a quality kid and then a lot of depth behind him," said Fremd assistant coach Joe Samojedny. "This is going to be a close meet — I think it'll come down to the people you don't read about in the newspapers."

Samojedny's big star, senior Brian Schones, will be eligible for the meet after all. Reports earlier in the week cast a doubt on his availability. He is entered in both hurdles races the high jump and the long jump.

"Everybody's going to have to chip in," said Samojedny. "It'll have to be a total team effort."

FREMD, WITH the capability to score in as many as 14 or 15 of the 17 events, could be more of a favorite than Samojedny or head coach Pat Brogan figure.

The main challenge could come from Rolling Meadows, led by sprinters Rick Sutton and Dave Boursaw. Hard-charging Prospect also could battle for the first-place trophy, especially if triple-threat jumper Brad Millar and distance runner Mark Smith peak for the meet. And Elk Grove, a surprising third indoors, is as strong as ever.

Finals will begin Friday at 6 p.m.

TWO-MILE RELAY — Even without Smith, Prospect should put together the best foursome here, although Palatine, Forest View and Hersey should be competitive in an event that few coaches can afford to take seriously.

440-RELAY — Execution and discipline are key, as well as a lot of good sprinters, so count on Fremd, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg to be strong here. Also watch Conant and Hersey.

TWO-MILE RUN — Who is better or stronger than Palatine's Tom Johnson? No one in the MSL, it seems. He's already handled Fremd's Dan Inbody twice this year and nobody else has come close to his 9:14 career best.

HIGH HURDLES — Elk Grove's Pat O'Brien, by virtue of his recent All-American selection and his 14.1, is the favorite here. Only teammate John McCloughan and Fremd's duo of Schones and Gary Gunderson can challenge.

100-DASH — A dog-fight shapes up in this sprint. Defending champ Sutton of Rolling Meadows will have to take on four others who have cracked 10.0 — Fremd's Randy Polomsky, Schaumburg's Steve Knudson and Jeff Ways, and teammate Dave Boursaw.

800-RUN — Wide-open field in an event that has become the orphan of MSL. Nobody wants to run it. Top-seeded and perhaps the favorite is Darryl Robinson, Forest View's defending two-mile champ. Buffalo Grove's Joe Schmidt is in slow heat, but could pull off a big surprise.

440-DASH — Shaping up as glamour event of the meet, the quartermile could go under :49 with Palatine's Dave Kennedy joining Sutton, Ways and Polomsky in the finals.

LOW HURDLES — Chris Hilvert of Buffalo Grove has the fastest time and may be the best of the bunch but Elk Grote's McCloughan bears watching as do Conant's Sam Assil and Meadows' Fred Kocian, who both placed last year.

MILE RUN — If Johnson doubles (and there's no reason why he won't) he should be unbeatable, considering his 9:17/4:18 double last Friday. Half-a-dozen MSL milers are capable of mid-4:20s or better so watch Schmidt, Smith, Robinson, Forest View's Bob Haas, Meadows' Tom Choice, and two Fremd runners, Bob Ratcliffe and Tom Ross.

220-DASH — Polomsky has fastest time and longest stride, so he might have the edge. Then keep an eye on defending champ Sutton and speed merchants Kennedy, Boursaw, Knudson, and soph Pat Youngs of Schaumburg. Elk Grove's O'Brien could be a factor too.

SHOT PUT — Arlington's Jay Lenahan is a proven big-meet performer but so is Rolling Meadows' Rich Huber who has been tough lately. Should be a good battle with Conant's Bob Holzkamp figuring in it too.

DISCUS — Buffalo Grover Dave Kellogg beat Lonnie Reitz of Forest View head-to-head last week and he could do it again. Watch for strong efforts from Huber and Fremd's Tom Merritt.

LONG JUMP — Millar of Prospect is the best here and he performs well in the clinches. Boursaw of Meadows could challenge as could Elk Grove's Ron Hartman. Fremd's Schones, who has competed in the event only a few times, is second-seeded.

TRIPLE JUMP — Millar and Fremd's Dave Smedley are in a class by themselves in this event. Give Millar the edge since it's his board.

HIGH JUMP — With Schones consistently at 6-6 or 6-8, he has to get the nod. But watch Millar. The three-event indoor champ is a pressure jumper. Only Conant's Dave Janzow and Palatine's Tom Digan, among the rest, have gone 6-4.

POLE VAULT — Hoffman's Paul Major could go 14-6 or he could fail to make opening height in this unpredictable event. If he's on, he should win. Otherwise, keep an eye on Fremd's Greg Stipe, wh' has literally come out of nowhere to vault 13-9.

MILE RELAY — Final event could decide the title so expect Fremd and Rolling Meadows to be right in there. Conant, Palatine and Schaumburg can put together good teams, too, so it should be an exciting wind-up.

Andretti, Foyt top magic 200 mph mark

INDIANAPOLIS — Former Speedway champions Mario Andretti and A. J. Foyt broke the 200 miles per hour barrier unofficially late Wednesday in practice runs for this weekend's 500-mile auto race time trials. Andretti, the 1969 race winner who also captured the last two international Grand Prix events at Long Beach, Calif. and Madrid, was clocked at a speed of 200.311 m.p.h. just 16 minutes before practice closed for the day.

Three-time race winner Foyt was timed at 200.177 just as the 2½-mile course closed down. Their speeds will not go into the records because official times are logged only in qualifications of the race itself. However, it marked the first time that any driver was clocked at speeds of 200 mp.h. in "500" practice history.

Swiss Grand Prix veteran Clay Regazzoni, meanwhile, escaped injury when he lost control of his machine in the fourth turn, spun and hit the wall. The right rear wheel snapped off, but Regazzoni was able to drive into the pits.

Brawling baseball players fined

NEW YORK — Eight members of the Texas Rangers and two Kansas City Royals' players were fined by the American League Wednesday for taking part in last Saturday night's free-for-all in a game played in Arlington, Texas.

Texas Manager Frank Lucchesi, Coach Pat Corrales and players Willie Horton, Claudell Washington, Bump Wills, Jim Fregosi, Juan Beniquez and John Ellis were fined, along with John Mayberry and Darrell Porter of Kansas City. The amounts were not disclosed.

Trouble had been brwing between these two clubs ever since Texas pitcher Bert Blyleven admitted he had purposely hit Porter, Kansas City's catcher, in a game played a week earlier. Blyleven claimed it was a retaliatory act for a pitch thrown by Marty Pattin at the head of Beniquez.

Angels bolster staff with IaRoche

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Indians traded ace relieve Dave LaRoche, playing out his option after failing to agree to contract terms, to the California Angels Wednesday. In exchange for LaRoche, who had a club record 21 saves last season, and minor league pitcher Dave Schuler, the Tribe received first baseman-outfielder Bruce Bochte, left-handed pitcher Sid Monge, and cash estimated at about $250,000.

General Manager Phil Seghi and LaRoche were unable to agree on a new contract for LaRoche, who has a 2-2 record with four saves this season, and had reportedly held out for a multi-year, million-dollar pact. Seghi obtained him from the Chicago Cubs in exchange for Milt Wilcox in February, 1975.

Matlack demands to be traded again

NEW YORK — Pitcher Jon Matlack reaffirmed his desire to be traded from the New York Mets Wednesday, one day after telling Mets General Manager Joe McDonald he could no longer tolerate playing for the team in its present condition. Matlack said Mets Chairman of the Board M. Donald Grant called him Wednesday morning to ask the left-hander if his request to be traded was an ultimatum.

"I said it wasn't," Matlack said. "If the situation is cured I would prefer to stay here. I want to help make this a winning operation. But I don't want to stay under the present conditions. No way." Matlack's dissatisfaction stems from promises about improving the team he said McDonald made to him last November during negotiations on Matlack's current three-year contract.

Jets must play home games at Shea

NEW YORK — The New York Jets must play all 1977 season home games at Shea Stadium and schedule them around home games of the New York Mets baseball team, a Manhattan Supreme Court Justice ruled Wednesday. The ruling was issued by Justice Harold Baer, who also declared the National Football League's fall schedule for the Jets "null and void."

Baer's ruling came in a suit by New York City to keep the football team from playing its first two home games at the Meadowlands Sports Complex in East Rutherford, N. J. Mayor Abraham D. Beame, who filed the suit to keep the Jets at Shea, termed the decision "a victory for the people." Justice Baer noted there were no scheduling problems in the nine years the two teams have shared Shea Stadium.

Andretti, Foyt top magic 200 mph mark

INDIANAPOLIS — Former Speedway champions Mario Andretti and A. J. Foyt broke the 200 miles per hour barrier unofficially late Wednesday in practice runs for this weekend's 500-mile auto race time trials. Andretti, the 1969 race winner who also captured the last two international Grand Prix events at Long Beach, Calif. and Madrid, was clocked at a speed of 200.311 m.p.h. just 16 minutes before practice closed for the day.

Three-time race winner Foyt was timed at 200.177 just as the 2½-mile course closed down. Their speeds will not go into the records because official times are logged only in qualifications of the race itself. However, it marked the first time that any driver was clocked at speeds of 200 mp.h. in "500" practice history.

Swiss Grand Prix veteran Clay Regazzoni, meanwhile, escaped injury when he lost control of his machine in the fourth turn, spun and hit the wall. The right rear wheel snapped off, but Regazzoni was able to drive into the pits.

Brawling baseball players fined

NEW YORK — Eight members of the Texas Rangers and two Kansas City Royals' players were fined by the American League Wednesday for taking part in last Saturday night's free-for-all in a game played in Arlington, Texas.

Texas Manager Frank Lucchesi, Coach Pat Corrales and players Willie Horton, Claudell Washington, Bump Wills, Jim Fregosi, Juan Beniquez and John Ellis were fined, along with John Mayberry and Darrell Porter of Kansas City. The amounts were not disclosed.

Trouble had been brwing between these two clubs ever since Texas pitcher Bert Blyleven admitted he had purposely hit Porter, Kansas City's catcher, in a game played a week earlier. Blyleven claimed it was a retaliatory act for a pitch thrown by Marty Pattin at the head of Beniquez.

Angels bolster staff with IaRoche

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Indians traded ace relieve Dave LaRoche, playing out his option after failing to agree to contract terms, to the California Angels Wednesday. In exchange for LaRoche, who had a club record 21 saves last season, and minor league pitcher Dave Schuler, the Tribe received first baseman-outfielder Bruce Bochte, left-handed pitcher Sid Monge, and cash estimated at about $250,000.

General Manager Phil Seghi and LaRoche were unable to agree on a new contract for LaRoche, who has a 2-2 record with four saves this season, and had reportedly held out for a multi-year, million-dollar pact. Seghi obtained him from the Chicago Cubs in exchange for Milt Wilcox in February, 1975.

Matlack demands to be traded again

NEW YORK — Pitcher Jon Matlack reaffirmed his desire to be traded from the New York Mets Wednesday, one day after telling Mets General Manager Joe McDonald he could no longer tolerate playing for the team in its present condition. Matlack said Mets Chairman of the Board M. Donald Grant called him Wednesday morning to ask the left-hander if his request to be traded was an ultimatum.

"I said it wasn't," Matlack said. "If the situation is cured I would prefer to stay here. I want to help make this a winning operation. But I don't want to stay under the present conditions. No way." Matlack's dissatisfaction stems from promises about improving the team he said McDonald made to him last November during negotiations on Matlack's current three-year contract.

Jets must play home games at Shea

NEW YORK — The New York Jets must play all 1977 season home games at Shea Stadium and schedule them around home games of the New York Mets baseball team, a Manhattan Supreme Court Justice ruled Wednesday. The ruling was issued by Justice Harold Baer, who also declared the National Football League's fall schedule for the Jets "null and void."

Baer's ruling came in a suit by New York City to keep the football team from playing its first two home games at the Meadowlands Sports Complex in East Rutherford, N. J. Mayor Abraham D. Beame, who filed the suit to keep the Jets at Shea, termed the decision "a victory for the people." Justice Baer noted there were no scheduling problems in the nine years the two teams have shared Shea Stadium.

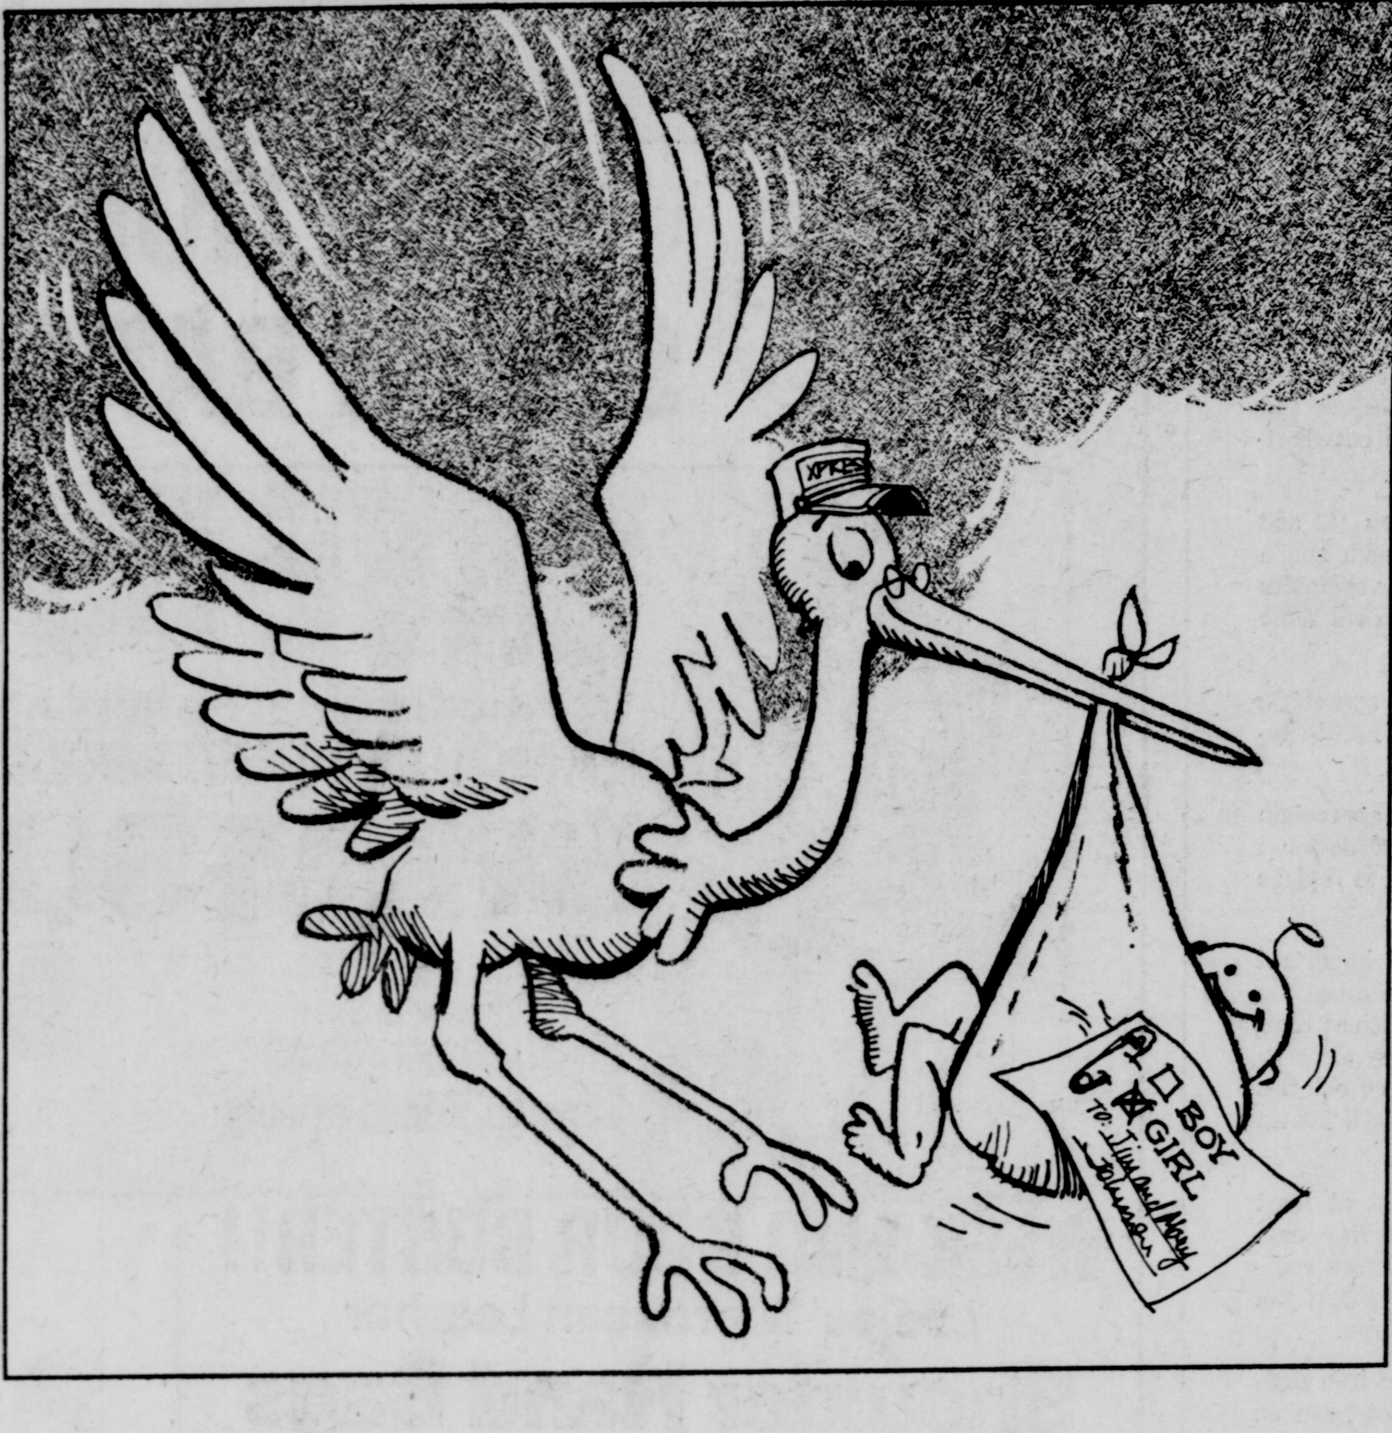
Can you really choose your child's sex?

by LAURA SCHMALBACH



XPRESS
TO: Jim and Mary Johnson

The methods have ranged from drinking lion's blood and wine (a Middle Ages prescription) to wearing tight underwear and douching with baking soda before every effort. Aristotle believed the outcome depended on the more "vigorous" partner, and in the backwoods of Pennsylvania some men still swear it depends on which side of the bed they hang their pants.

Whatever the technique, everyone from kings in need of heirs to mothers with four sons and a yearning for curls and tea parties has expressed interest in sex selection. The current emphasis on zero population growth and balanced families has initiated a new wave of curiosity, but for the most part medical response has been a case of "sorry — come back later."

One major exception is Dr. Landrum B. Shettles, an obstetrician convinced that choosing a child's sex need not be a 50-50 proposition. Based on his research dating from the mid-1950s, Dr. Shettles espouses techniques which he says can result in up to an 85 per cent success rate. (His book "Your Baby's Sex: Now You Can Choose," is available at local libraries.)

A former member of the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center staff in New York, Dr. Shettles believes a child's sex can be determined in advance of conception by taking advantage of differences between male and female-producing sperm and then creating conditions that favor one or the other.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Shettles, the Y (male-producing) sperm are lighter and faster (but also more fragile and shorter-lived) than the X (female-producing) sperm. The Y sperm usually die within 24 hours, he contends, while the X sperm last between two and three days. The unfertilized egg lives between 12 and 24 hours, so intercourse at the exact time of ovulation would favor the faster, shorter-lived sperm while intercourse up to two days before ovulation favors the hardier X sperm.

Dr. Shettles also studied the way his two types of sperm reacted in vaginal secretions, which tend to be acidic, and in cervical mucus, which tends to be alkaline. He concluded that the Y sperm were more likely to be killed in an acid solution, while they were favored by the thinner, more easily-penetrated alkaline solutions. Thus if intercourse occurs at the time of ovulation when the secretions are more alkaline, the Y sperm are more likely to negotiate the thinner fluid. Before ovulation, however, the more hostile acidic environment favors the X sperm.

Dr. Shettles' theories have won the support of several colleagues, including Elizabeth Whelan, a research associate at Harvard's School of Public Health and author of a new book, "Boy or Girl?: the Sex Selection Technique That Makes All Others Obsolete."

But a recent article in the Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology notes most researchers are pessimistic about the success of all available sex selection techniques. And many physicians take issue with Dr. Shettles' sperm theories and his assumption that the exact time of ovulation can be reliably determined.

"SHETTLES' IDEAS are interesting, and they've been around for a long time," said Dr. Joe Simpson, a geneticist at Northwestern Memorial Hospital. "But that's as far as it goes — they just haven't been based on sound medical fact."

Dr. Joel Greenman, a Northwest suburban area gynecologist, does provide his patients with mimeographed instructions based on Dr. Shettles' techniques. But he warns that even when couples follow the instructions to the letter, their chance of success increases only about 20 per cent.

Dr. Greenman, like most of the Chicago-area physicians contacted, said he'd had "a few" patients who were more than willing to put up with homemade douches and special positions in an attempt to assure the correct sex. While he hasn't kept tabs on the results, he does recall a friend who tried the suggestions twice. They worked both times — for a boy and a girl.

But by and large "the vast majority of parents accept whatever they get," he added with a laugh. "Most of them accept the fact that they can't take it back, and a healthy baby is just fine with them."

Dr. Caroline Aegler, a gynecologist with offices in Skokie and Schaumburg, agrees that with the exception of "a few people with three girls or boys in a row," most of her patients have been satisfied with taking their chances.

LIKE SEVERAL other authorities, Dr. Aegler mentioned sperm separation and artificial insemination as possibilities for foolproof sex selection in the future — but emphasized that "nothing has been documented so far . . . we're pretty far off from a solution."

If sex selection becomes a realistic option in the future, some social observers worry about an historical preference for boys. In a 1970 National Fertility Study, a survey of married women showed that while the sex ratio itself would probably not change, there would be a significant number of male first-borns. Consequently, some psychologists fear that the known qualities of first-born children — aggressiveness, intelligence, greater likelihood to succeed — may become concentrated in the male sector.

But that same study indicated almost half the women surveyed would snub a sex selection technique even if available, and would use it only for second or subsequent pregnancies.

"To be honest, I don't know anyone in Chicago who's really spending a lot of time on this," said Dr. Simpson. "It may be fun, but there are many more important things to work on."

So, for the time being at least, it looks as if "It's a boy!" will be a cry of genuine surprise.

Ban extended to chemical Tris

by BARBARA LADD

The April 8 ban of the sale of children's clothing containing tris (2, 3 dibromopropyl) phosphate, commonly known as Tris, has alerted parents to the flame-retardancy issue. It has also caused some confusion.

Last month's ban includes any Tris-treated fabric or garment intended to be worn by children. It also covers any unwashed garments sold to consumers before April 8, entitling them to full manufacturers' refunds upon return of the merchandise.

Tris has been used since 1953 on some children's sleepwear to meet the government's Flammable Fabrics Acts.

THE U.S. CONSUMER Product Safety Commission (CPSC) action resulted after a two-year study by the National Cancer Institute revealed that Tris caused cancer in test animals. Through other scientific information, the CPSC found that the chemical could be absorbed by children through their skin or by chewing and sucking on Tris-treated clothing.

So far, however, the Commission has not detected any human cancer caused by Tris.

Last week, the CPSC ban of Tris-treated fabrics and clothing was expanded to include the chemical Tris. This was in response to a law suit brought by American Apparel Manufacturers Association, Rosslyn, Va.

IN HIS ORDER to the Commission Judge George L. Hart Jr., U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, stated that the economic burden of repurchase would be more evenly distributed through the chain of production.

Before last week's order by Judge Hart, consumers were returning unwashed Tris-treated fabrics and garments to manufacturers, threatening many companies with bankruptcy or huge financial losses.

Consumers may still return unwashed Tris-treated clothing and fabrics to manufacturers for the full purchase price.

CPSC tests show that washing a garment three or more times removes much of the chemical so there is no health risk to the children who wear the garments.

University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service in Rolling Meadows has a list of various flame-retardant treatments used in children's sleepwear sizes 0 through 14. Consumers may compare the following information with labels on their child's pajamas to determine whether or not Tris was applied:

Acetate, acetate-blends, triacetate and triacetate blends are Tris-treated.

NYLON AND 100 per cent cotton require a flame-retardant chemical other than Tris. And 100 per cent polyester may or may not be Tris-treated —there is no certain way to distinguish between the two types.

ABOUT HALF of all flame-resistant garments are made of fabrics containing fibers with inherent or built-in fire retardancy. These include Modacrylic (Verel, SEF and Kanecaron) Modacrylic blends, Matrix (Cordelan), matrix blends, Vinyon (leavil) and Vinyon blends.

"That type of flame resistance can't be washed out," said Mrs. Bredemeyer, Extension home economist.

Neither has this type sleepwear been shown to cause cancer, says the CPSC.

If consumers have any other questions regarding Tris or flame-retardant clothing, they may telephone the Consumer Product Safety Commission hot line toll free, 800/638-2666.

Support group forms for single mothers

Confronting the emotional and economic difficulties of single motherhood will be the focus of a new discussion and support group in the Northwest suburbs. The first meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, May 24, at 7 p.m. at the Hoffman Estates Village Hall, 1200 Gannon Dr.

Penny Altman, a Hoffman Estates resident and single mother for five years, said she organized the group to "provide some kind of unity" for single mothers in the Northwest suburban area. A questionnaire will be distributed at the first meeting to determine future programs, but tentative topics include seminars on money management, available social services, career alternatives and babysitting cooperatives.

"I'm approaching this from a personal perspective," said Ms. Altman. "I think there's a need for an organization that will disseminate information and provide emotional support . . . no matter what your age, the transition to single mother is very hard, particularly in this family-oriented area."

Ms. Altman emphasized the group is not designed as a socially-oriented organization such as Parents Without Partners or Young Single Parents. "Whether you've been a single mother for six months or six years, we're aiming at making it a positive experience," she said.

The first speaker will be Cathy Enos, a psychiatric specialist at Lutheran General Hospital. She will present a program on the emotional realities of single motherhood. For more information on the group, readers may call Ms. Altman at 884-1239.

Old bricks could be reusable or even collectible

Grace Carolyn

Collecting

If you see an old used brick priced at several dollars in an antique shop, don't think the dealer has gone bananas. He just may have some of the few remaining bricks of a certain type and knows the collector value.

Take the Lincoln brick illustrated (no, don't take one — you can get in trouble, and many persons have!), which is mortared into the wall of a building in southern Illinois. It was made, along with several hundreds, perhaps thousands, of others, by a Lincoln buff, one Thaddeus McIntyre of Equality, Ill. But after making the bricks for a time, McIntyre found they did not stack properly, and he destroyed the molds, thereby ending the manufacture.

What he considered to be a failure turned out to be a much sought after collectible, as people started appreciating the old bricks and buying them. Today one of these, very hard to find, commands as much as $100 each. An Equality resident who had a sidewalk paved with them had to have them removed, for thieves were quietly doing the same thing with them.

THERE IS A mystery somewhere in southern Illinois, an old well said to be paved with Lincoln bricks! But no one has ever found it. And don't go to Equality expecting to find one of these bricks lying about carelessly. All are in the hands of collectors who know the value.

There are other old bricks, possibly not so valuable as the one described above, but nonetheless collectible, or at least usable. Nearer home, at Wasco, near St. Charles, Ill., there is an antiques-refinishing shop which also deals in used brick for remodeling old homes, for patios, sidewalks and the like. They salvage the bricks from old buildings and sell them almost as reasonably as the new ones from a brick yard, and they really have "character."

You may buy any of several sizes to fit your needs and the nice proprietors will show you different ways to set them in various patterns or designs. Most of the bricks are impressed with the makers' names, which make them even more interesting. We bought a few of differing lengths to set on end to hold fat candles, and they are most attractive in a grouping. (These are thicker bricks than the usual house brick, almost square.)

THERE IS A particular and peculiar color of pinkish bricks called "Chicago" which are very popular with decorators, and they are becoming more and more scarce.

A large brewery was torn down in Evansville, Ind., a few years back and people flocked to buy the used bricks, for the factory covered more than a square block. These were painted white, and some people used the painted side, some the unpainted, and some mixed and matched them. I wonder if those houses have a certain "air" about them.

Before using old brick for patios or for walks, it is best to find out if it is durable enough for such use. Sometimes common building brick is too fragile, but it can be put into walls, planters, etc. We paved our patio in Palatine a few years back with used brick and built a short brick wall around it, a bit home-made looking but surprisingly attractive for our limited masonry skills. We left openings in the walls for interesting lights and shadows and found the birds used them for nests. We built up the corners of our wall with higher posts and set in old railroad lanterns for patio lights, which were electrified and with colored glasses of red and green.

So next time you see a building being razed, think about a brick patio, and the best part is, you never have to clean it — the brick doesn't show the crumbs or leaves, as cement does. And moss often grows between the bricks, for a really old weathered effect. Weeds do, too, but that's just one of life's little complications.

Eighty leagues, representing a membership of 8,500, submitted entries for the award. Sue chaired the Des Plaines Bicentennial town meeting in 1976 and was a regular observer at city council meetings. Tris has been used since 1953 on some children's sleepwear to meet the government's Flammable Fabrics Acts.

THE U.S. CONSUMER Product Safety Commission (CPSC) action resulted after a two-year study by the National Cancer Institute revealed that Tris caused cancer in test animals. Through other scientific information, the CPSC found that the chemical could be absorbed by children through their skin or by chewing and sucking on Tris-treated clothing.

So far, however, the Commission has not detected any human cancer caused by Tris.

Last week, the CPSC ban of Tris-treated fabrics and clothing was expanded to include the chemical Tris. This was in response to a law suit brought by American Apparel Manufacturers Association, Rosslyn, Va.

IN HIS ORDER to the Commission Judge George L. Hart Jr., U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, stated that the economic burden of repurchase would be more evenly distributed through the chain of production.

Before last week's order by Judge Hart, consumers were returning unwashed Tris-treated fabrics and garments to manufacturers, threatening many companies with bankruptcy or huge financial losses.

Consumers may still return unwashed Tris-treated clothing and fabrics to manufacturers for the full purchase price.

CPSC tests show that washing a garment three or more times removes much of the chemical so there is no health risk to the children who wear the garments.

University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service in Rolling Meadows has a list of various flame-retardant treatments used in children's sleepwear sizes 0 through 14. Consumers may compare the following information with labels on their child's pajamas to determine whether or not Tris was applied:

Acetate, acetate-blends, triacetate and triacetate blends are Tris-treated.

NYLON AND 100 per cent cotton require a flame-retardant chemical other than Tris. And 100 per cent polyester may or may not be Tris-treated —there is no certain way to distinguish between the two types.

ABOUT HALF of all flame-resistant garments are made of fabrics containing fibers with inherent or built-in fire retardancy. These include Modacrylic (Verel, SEF and Kanecaron) Modacrylic blends, Matrix (Cordelan), matrix blends, Vinyon (leavil) and Vinyon blends.

"That type of flame resistance can't be washed out," said Mrs. Bredemeyer, Extension home economist.

Neither has this type sleepwear been shown to cause cancer, says the CPSC.

If consumers have any other questions regarding Tris or flame-retardant clothing, they may telephone the Consumer Product Safety Commission hot line toll free, 800/638-2666.

Support group forms for single mothers

Confronting the emotional and economic difficulties of single motherhood will be the focus of a new discussion and support group in the Northwest suburbs. The first meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, May 24, at 7 p.m. at the Hoffman Estates Village Hall, 1200 Gannon Dr.

Penny Altman, a Hoffman Estates resident and single mother for five years, said she organized the group to "provide some kind of unity" for single mothers in the Northwest suburban area. A questionnaire will be distributed at the first meeting to determine future programs, but tentative topics include seminars on money management, available social services, career alternatives and babysitting cooperatives.

"I'm approaching this from a personal perspective," said Ms. Altman. "I think there's a need for an organization that will disseminate information and provide emotional support . . . no matter what your age, the transition to single mother is very hard, particularly in this family-oriented area."

Ms. Altman emphasized the group is not designed as a socially-oriented organization such as Parents Without Partners or Young Single Parents. "Whether you've been a single mother for six months or six years, we're aiming at making it a positive experience," she said.

The first speaker will be Cathy Enos, a psychiatric specialist at Lutheran General Hospital. She will present a program on the emotional realities of single motherhood. For more information on the group, readers may call Ms. Altman at 884-1239.

Old bricks could be reusable or even collectible

Grace Carolyn

Collecting

If you see an old used brick priced at several dollars in an antique shop, don't think the dealer has gone bananas. He just may have some of the few remaining bricks of a certain type and knows the collector value.

Take the Lincoln brick illustrated (no, don't take one — you can get in trouble, and many persons have!), which is mortared into the wall of a building in southern Illinois. It was made, along with several hundreds, perhaps thousands, of others, by a Lincoln buff, one Thaddeus McIntyre of Equality, Ill. But after making the bricks for a time, McIntyre found they did not stack properly, and he destroyed the molds, thereby ending the manufacture.

What he considered to be a failure turned out to be a much sought after collectible, as people started appreciating the old bricks and buying them. Today one of these, very hard to find, commands as much as $100 each. An Equality resident who had a sidewalk paved with them had to have them removed, for thieves were quietly doing the same thing with them.

THERE IS A mystery somewhere in southern Illinois, an old well said to be paved with Lincoln bricks! But no one has ever found it. And don't go to Equality expecting to find one of these bricks lying about carelessly. All are in the hands of collectors who know the value.

There are other old bricks, possibly not so valuable as the one described above, but nonetheless collectible, or at least usable. Nearer home, at Wasco, near St. Charles, Ill., there is an antiques-refinishing shop which also deals in used brick for remodeling old homes, for patios, sidewalks and the like. They salvage the bricks from old buildings and sell them almost as reasonably as the new ones from a brick yard, and they really have "character."

You may buy any of several sizes to fit your needs and the nice proprietors will show you different ways to set them in various patterns or designs. Most of the bricks are impressed with the makers' names, which make them even more interesting. We bought a few of differing lengths to set on end to hold fat candles, and they are most attractive in a grouping. (These are thicker bricks than the usual house brick, almost square.)

THERE IS A particular and peculiar color of pinkish bricks called "Chicago" which are very popular with decorators, and they are becoming more and more scarce.

A large brewery was torn down in Evansville, Ind., a few years back and people flocked to buy the used bricks, for the factory covered more than a square block. These were painted white, and some people used the painted side, some the unpainted, and some mixed and matched them. I wonder if those houses have a certain "air" about them.

Before using old brick for patios or for walks, it is best to find out if it is durable enough for such use. Sometimes common building brick is too fragile, but it can be put into walls, planters, etc. We paved our patio in Palatine a few years back with used brick and built a short brick wall around it, a bit home-made looking but surprisingly attractive for our limited masonry skills. We left openings in the walls for interesting lights and shadows and found the birds used them for nests. We built up the corners of our wall with higher posts and set in old railroad lanterns for patio lights, which were electrified and with colored glasses of red and green.

So next time you see a building being razed, think about a brick patio, and the best part is, you never have to clean it — the brick doesn't show the crumbs or leaves, as cement does. And moss often grows between the bricks, for a really old weathered effect. Weeds do, too, but that's just one of life's little complications.

Marge La Vine in state LWV post

Marge LaVine of the League of Women Voters of Des Plaines was appointed state election laws chairman during the state convention held last week in Champaign.

Sue d'Hondt, past president of the Des Plaines League, was one of seven in the state cited for service to the community in the first public service awards given by the league. Eighty leagues, representing a membership of 8,500, submitted entries for the award. Sue chaired the Des Plaines Bicentennial town meeting in 1976 and was a regular observer at city council meetings. She also aided in founding the Children's Dental Service Clinic.

School finance, land use, election laws, child welfare, juvenile justice, state fiscal policies, corrections and handgun control were named as league targets for 1977-79.

The doctor says

Protein lack in diet causes loss of hair

I am an 18-year-old girl with hair that just about reaches my waist. In the last three weeks large amounts of it comes out whenever I brush it or wash it. It has never done this before and has always been beautifully thick and it has never been cut shorter than mid-back length.

I'm 5 feet 5 and I try to maintain my weight between 112 and 115. I eat toast for breakfast, some type of fruit for lunch and a large green salad with cheese and several kinds of raw vegetables for dinner. I also drink a couple of cups of coffee a day. I eat some type of meat usually once a week.

I am very upset about what's happening and I would appreciate type of vitamin or mineral that I'm lacking? I take a multi-vitamin tablet.

I am very upset about what's happening and U would appreciate it if you could tell me what is wrong or what type of doctor I should see. Can you suggest a low calorie food I can use to replace whatever I am lacking?

This may be a temporary problem for you. The most important feature of your story is your terrible diet. If you have given the true facts, you have a protein deficiency. Protein deficient diets will lead to loss of hair, as will semi-starvation crash diets or prolonged illnesses associated with inadequate intake of calories and particularly protein. Dieting and hair loss have a well known cause and effect relationship.

What low calorie food can you eat? I would suggest at least seven ounces and preferably 14 ounces of lean meat every day. Actually 14 ounces of lean beef with the fat removed before cooking contains less than 600 calories and will provide the protein you need. You need calcium which you should get from milk.

There are two other possibilities — you may have an iron deficiency which will cause loss of hair even if you do not have an anemia or if you are overdoing hi-potency vitamins, you may be getting too much vitamin A which can cause a loss of hair.

About 85 per cent of the hair follicles have normal hair growth while the remaining follicles rest. The resting follicles are not dead, just sleeping. Since the scalp hair has a life cycle between two and six years, this usually doesn't affect the abundance of scalp hair.

During the last part of pregnancy more than 90 per cent of the hair follicles are active. Because of the natural life cycle for hair about two or three months after delivery a larger than normal amount of follicles enter the resting stage. The older hair drops out and is not immediately replaced with a new growth of hair. The woman is frantic if she doesn't know about this. She is not losing her hair or going bald but is simply readjusting to the normal ratio of resting and active hair follicles. In a few months time her normal hair growth pattern will be reestablished.

Many diseases can cause a loss of hair. If a person has unexplained loss of hair, it is a good idea to see a dermatologist. In your case I am sure he will suggest that a better diet will help your hair growth regardless of what other factors may be involved.

Bleach solution will clean bathroom grout

Dear Dorothy: Turned on TV and caught the tail end of someone discussing cleaning bathroom grout. I caught the word "chlorine" in the cleaning formula but no more. Would you know of such a recipe?—Agnes Rowe

A well-known formula for cleaning bathroom grout is to use a solution of three tablespoons bleach to a quart of warm water, letting it stand for a few minutes before rinsing. An engineer friend made a strong solution of water and washing soda for this purpose. Some just use the popular cleaning sprays. All use brushes, and toothbrushes are the perfect size. Then rinse. Some people prefer making a paste of baking soda, sodium perborate and water. They let it sit for a bit, then scrub and rinse. With all this scrubbing, it's a good idea to use rubber gloves and to be especially careful not to have any of these solutions splash in the eyes.

Dear Dorothy: The letter from the reader trying to get rid of the morning glories in her garden brought back memories. Years ago, our 12-year-old planted a whole package of the seed. In later years my husband let the younger children earn their swimming money by giving them 10 cents for every hundred plants they pulled up. In the end we had no more morning glories, but I still think they were beautiful. — Mrs. C. Kroeger

So do I — not having the problem of fighting to remove them.

Dear Dorothy: Even with several of the young ones wearing blue jeans I don't always have a washer full. Is there anything that can be washed with them that won't pick up the dye?—Georgia Enders

Not very much. Dye from the jeans will color lighter things, so about all you can add are dark socks, dark sweat shirts or dark robes.

Short on time? Try needlework

Judy Harper

Traditional crafts

Some of you may have the problem of starting too many crafts projects and finishing few. But with needlework, a surprising and very satisfactory amount of work can be accomplished in a short time by allotting just a brief period each day for a pleasant crafts session.

I make use of this schedule myself, and besides giving me a relaxing break that I look forward to each day, I've actually finished, in a brief period of time, two crocheted rugs, four pieces of needlepoint and a mohair afghan.

In your needlework sessions, you might try the crocheted popcorn and cluster stitches shown in the illustrated pillow top.

MANY WOMEN shy away from these stitches because they think they're too difficult or find the instructions too confusing. But they are really quite elementary, and can make the simplest pattern look elaborate.

The piece shown is made entirely of a filet lace of shells, filled in for the pattern with popcorn stitches.

Once you've passed the center and after you've comprehended the star construction, you don't even need to follow a printed pattern.

Now, so you won't pass by some of the loveliest patterns in American crocheted lace because of the "puff" stitches in the design, here are the instructions for popcorn and cluster stitches:

Beginning row instructions are not given, since neither stitch will appear at the beginning of a row.

POPCORN STITCH: To practice, make a foundation chain. In the fourth chain from the hook make 5 DC (double crochet).

Now, remove hook from loop remaining on hook. Inserting the hook from the front of the work to the back in the top of the first DC, catch the dropped loop and pull it through. Pull tightly. Chain 1 to fasten. One popcorn stitch is now completed.

Skip the next chain and make popcorn stitch in the next to practice.

CLUSTER STITCH: Clusters may be made up of any number of stitches. I prefer to use four.

On a foundation chain, thread over and insert hook in fourth chain from hook. Begin to make a DC, but when you have drawn the thread through two loops once, hold the remaining two loops on the hook and begin another DC in the same chain stitch.

Again, draw the thread through two loops only once and begin another double crochet. When you have done this a total of four times, thread over and draw through all loops at once. Chain 1 to fasten.

It is actually that simple.

The illustrated pillow top is made from a pattern for a five-inch square. It was blown up to approximately 12 inches by using two strands of bedspread cotton and a No. 1 steel crochet hook.

CANCER DETECTION
HEART ATTACK PREVENTION

A resting electrocardiogram is taken at the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. to detect any heart abnormalities.

Of every six people who get cancer today, two will be saved and four will die. Of the four who would otherwise die, one might be saved with earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment. (According to American Cancer Society publication '76 Cancer Facts and Figures.)

The health examination services available at the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection include all cancer detection procedures recommended by the American Cancer Society, Illinois Division.

Heart Disease accounts for nearly half of all deaths each year. Unlike most Cancer, Heart Attack can be postponed through reducing one's risk factors such as diet, exercise, blood presure, smoking, etc. Dr. Morris Collen, a well-known specialist in preventive medicine, was quoted in the January, 1977 Issue of FORTUNE "if one has a checkup every year or two at age thirty-five and thereafter, directed at postponable diseases, the mortality rate from those diseases after seven years is approximately 50 percent of what it would have been without exams."

The Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. offers a preventive health screening examination designed for three purposes:

1. To establish a health profile for each individual to be used as a baseline for future care.
2. To analyze an individual's risk factors for heart disease and cancer and statistically forecast probable life expectancy and suggest ways it might actually be increased by reducing the risk factors found.
3. Screen for treatable disease. Early detection and prompt treatment increase the probability of a favorable outcome.

This meticulous 3 hour, low cost examination includes a computerized medical history, health risk analysis, physical examination, proctosigmoidoscopy, chest x-ray, electrocardiogram, blood pressure, over 30 chemical determinations on blood and urine, vision, audiometry, spirometry, glaucoma test, body measurements. Women also receive a pap smear and instruction in breast self-examination. Exercise stress test, 24 hour holter monitor, and echocardiography are available as options.

Give yourself the best protection available today against cancer and heart disease by calling your physician or the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. located at 1000 Grand Canyon Parkway, Hoffman Estates, Illinois (Near Woodfield Mall.) Short on time? Try needlework

Traditional crafts

Some of you may have the problem of starting too many crafts projects and finishing few. But with needlework, a surprising and very satisfactory amount of work can be accomplished in a short time by allotting just a brief period each day for a pleasant crafts session.

I make use of this schedule myself, and besides giving me a relaxing break that I look forward to each day, I've actually finished, in a brief period of time, two crocheted rugs, four pieces of needlepoint and a mohair afghan.

In your needlework sessions, you might try the crocheted popcorn and cluster stitches shown in the illustrated pillow top.

MANY WOMEN shy away from these stitches because they think they're too difficult or find the instructions too confusing. But they are really quite elementary, and can make the simplest pattern look elaborate.

The piece shown is made entirely of a filet lace of shells, filled in for the pattern with popcorn stitches.

Once you've passed the center and after you've comprehended the star construction, you don't even need to follow a printed pattern.

Now, so you won't pass by some of the loveliest patterns in American crocheted lace because of the "puff" stitches in the design, here are the instructions for popcorn and cluster stitches:

Beginning row instructions are not given, since neither stitch will appear at the beginning of a row.

POPCORN STITCH: To practice, make a foundation chain. In the fourth chain from the hook make 5 DC (double crochet).

Now, remove hook from loop remaining on hook. Inserting the hook from the front of the work to the back in the top of the first DC, catch the dropped loop and pull it through. Pull tightly. Chain 1 to fasten. One popcorn stitch is now completed.

Skip the next chain and make popcorn stitch in the next to practice.

CLUSTER STITCH: Clusters may be made up of any number of stitches. I prefer to use four.

On a foundation chain, thread over and insert hook in fourth chain from hook. Begin to make a DC, but when you have drawn the thread through two loops once, hold the remaining two loops on the hook and begin another DC in the same chain stitch.

Again, draw the thread through two loops only once and begin another double crochet. When you have done this a total of four times, thread over and draw through all loops at once. Chain 1 to fasten.

It is actually that simple.

The illustrated pillow top is made from a pattern for a five-inch square. It was blown up to approximately 12 inches by using two strands of bedspread cotton and a No. 1 steel crochet hook.

CANCER DETECTION
HEART ATTACK PREVENTION

A resting electrocardiogram is taken at the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. to detect any heart abnormalities.

Of every six people who get cancer today, two will be saved and four will die. Of the four who would otherwise die, one might be saved with earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment. (According to American Cancer Society publication '76 Cancer Facts and Figures.)

The health examination services available at the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection include all cancer detection procedures recommended by the American Cancer Society, Illinois Division.

Heart Disease accounts for nearly half of all deaths each year. Unlike most Cancer, Heart Attack can be postponed through reducing one's risk factors such as diet, exercise, blood presure, smoking, etc. Dr. Morris Collen, a well-known specialist in preventive medicine, was quoted in the January, 1977 Issue of FORTUNE "if one has a checkup every year or two at age thirty-five and thereafter, directed at postponable diseases, the mortality rate from those diseases after seven years is approximately 50 percent of what it would have been without exams."

The Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. offers a preventive health screening examination designed for three purposes:

1. To establish a health profile for each individual to be used as a baseline for future care.
2. To analyze an individual's risk factors for heart disease and cancer and statistically forecast probable life expectancy and suggest ways it might actually be increased by reducing the risk factors found.
3. Screen for treatable disease. Early detection and prompt treatment increase the probability of a favorable outcome.

This meticulous 3 hour, low cost examination includes a computerized medical history, health risk analysis, physical examination, proctosigmoidoscopy, chest x-ray, electrocardiogram, blood pressure, over 30 chemical determinations on blood and urine, vision, audiometry, spirometry, glaucoma test, body measurements. Women also receive a pap smear and instruction in breast self-examination. Exercise stress test, 24 hour holter monitor, and echocardiography are available as options.

Give yourself the best protection available today against cancer and heart disease by calling your physician or the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. located at 1000 Grand Canyon Parkway, Hoffman Estates, Illinois (Near Woodfield Mall.) Master Charge accepted. Telephone (312) 885-1360.

Today on TV

Diane Mermigas

TV continues to ignore the deaf

There are a lot of people who don't know what the Fonz's "Ayyye" sounds like or how shrill the cry of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" can be. There are more than 300,000 hard of hearing or deaf people in the Chicago Metropolitan area and about 14 million in the country.

Unfortunately, television for the most part has ignored them and overlooked their specialized needs.

Aside from the entertainment and educational values it offers, television is important in providing news, weather and other bulletins to people in far-reaching corners of the country.

Yet there is a growing segment of our population that cannot rely on the television set for those functions.

The obvious solution to the problem is captioned television, so those who cannot hear what is being said could at least read the dialogue in lines flashed across the bottom of their screen.

Those captions would no doubt be very irritating to the average viewer but, a decoder device has been perfected to take care of the problem.

The decoders, which are small machines attached to the home television set, pick up a special transmission setn out over a universal "line 21" (airwive) from the networks or any television station using coded captions. The mechanism relays the transmission sent out over a universal "line 21" (airwave) tions. Only persons with decoders attached to their sets can receive the captioned pictures.

The Federal Communications Commission allowed the Public Broadcasting System to begin experimenting with this "closed" caption system early in 1973. The project, underwritten with a $301,000 Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare grant involved 12 public broadcasting stations including Chicago programming that provided "closed" captions to deaf audiences with decoders in their area for 14 weeks out of the year.

The experiment was renewed in March, 1975 with a $322,000 federal grant that allowed the "closed caption project to continue along with attempts to develop low-cost "closed" captioning devices.

Public broadcasting has continued the project and is trying to develop a computerized, self-contained device that can be used to transcribe any television program into captioned dialogue.

The Public Broadcasting System has certainly helped launch what may promise to be the widespread use of decoders for the deaf.

Public Broadcasting stations, including WTTW, Channel 11 in Chicago, currently provide captioned segments of "Upstairs, Downstairs," "Getting On," "Once Upon a Classic," "Nova," "The Adams Chronicles" and a delayed version of the day's "ABC Evening News" each week that are seen by the general viewing public.

Manufacturers have been perfecting the devices and are soon expected to begin mass marketing home decoders that will cost from $100 to $300.

The mechanisms will be beneficial only if there is a wide variety of captioned programming available on television. At the moment Channel 11 and other public broadcasting stations are the only sources for captioned programming, whether transmitted generally for the entire viewing public or in a "closed" system to be picked up only by viewers with decoders.

A recent request by President Jimmy Carter, asking broadcasters to jointly develop television services for the hearing-impaired may lend impetus to the on-going effort.

Jean Marie Hon and Cliff Potts star in "Danger in Paradise"

To ease the pain while this campaign continues, WTTW has decided to go beyond what it's already doing and present a day of special programs Saturday for the hearing impaired.

The day begins at 10:30 a.m. with a captioned episode of "Zoom," followed at 11 a.m. with a captioned episode of "Nova" which will feature a figure skating exhibition for the deaf.

"Rock Gospel," which features the performance of traditional old folk and gospel tunes with a rock beat, will air at 12:40 p.m. with four teachers of the deaf interpreting the words and rhythms in sign language. The show will be followed at 1:45 p.m. by "Sea Creatues," a special that examines the inhabitants of the underwater world.

The special programming will be followed by an on-air pledge conducted by members of the Chicago area hearing-impaired community to solicit contributions for similar future efforts.

The estimated cost of captioning an average one-hour program is under $1,000. With all of the millions of dollars pouring in and out of the television industry on a daily basis, it seems hard to believe that the money and concern for more captioned programming can't be mustered by anyone other than the Public Broadcasting System which, itself, is dependent on contributions for its operations.

TV HIGHLIGHTS:

- The Daytime Emmy Awards show will be telecast live from New York City beginning at 2 p.m. on Channel 5.
- Part Two of the Nixon-Frost interviews, dealing with foreign affairs, airs at 7 p.m. on Channel 9.
- NBC gives a preview of one of its new fall shows, "Big Hawaii," with a made-for-television movie titled "Danger in Paradise" at 8 p.m. on Channel 5.
- "Playboy's Playmate Party" is a 90-minute late-night special on Channel 7 at 10:30 p.m. hosted by comedian Dick Martin, featuring the 1977 Playmate of the Year and other beauties.
- "Soundstage" offers the Down Beat '76 Readers Poll Awards at 9 p.m. on Channel 11.

CARPET PROTECTOR
How ZEPEL Carpet Protector Works. DuPont ZEPEL forms an invisible shield on the carpet which keeps dirt from lodging itself within the carpet fibers. Even mud doesn't seep in, and dries on the surface. Since dirt tends to settle on the top of the carpet, it can be easily vacuumed away. Less soil clings to the ZEPEL treated carpet, so your carpet won't need its first shampoo until much later than unprotected carpet.

Diane Mermigas

TV continues to ignore the deaf

There are a lot of people who don't know what the Fonz's "Ayyye" sounds like or how shrill the cry of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" can be. There are more than 300,000 hard of hearing or deaf people in the Chicago Metropolitan area and about 14 million in the country.

Unfortunately, television for the most part has ignored them and overlooked their specialized needs.

Aside from the entertainment and educational values it offers, television is important in providing news, weather and other bulletins to people in far-reaching corners of the country.

Yet there is a growing segment of our population that cannot rely on the television set for those functions.

The obvious solution to the problem is captioned television, so those who cannot hear what is being said could at least read the dialogue in lines flashed across the bottom of their screen.

Those captions would no doubt be very irritating to the average viewer but, a decoder device has been perfected to take care of the problem.

The decoders, which are small machines attached to the home television set, pick up a special transmission setn out over a universal "line 21" (airwive) from the networks or any television station using coded captions. The mechanism relays the transmission sent out over a universal "line 21" (airwave) tions. Only persons with decoders attached to their sets can receive the captioned pictures.

The Federal Communications Commission allowed the Public Broadcasting System to begin experimenting with this "closed" caption system early in 1973. The project, underwritten with a $301,000 Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare grant involved 12 public broadcasting stations including Chicago programming that provided "closed" captions to deaf audiences with decoders in their area for 14 weeks out of the year.

The experiment was renewed in March, 1975 with a $322,000 federal grant that allowed the "closed caption project to continue along with attempts to develop low-cost "closed" captioning devices.

Public broadcasting has continued the project and is trying to develop a computerized, self-contained device that can be used to transcribe any television program into captioned dialogue.

The Public Broadcasting System has certainly helped launch what may promise to be the widespread use of decoders for the deaf.

Public Broadcasting stations, including WTTW, Channel 11 in Chicago, currently provide captioned segments of "Upstairs, Downstairs," "Getting On," "Once Upon a Classic," "Nova," "The Adams Chronicles" and a delayed version of the day's "ABC Evening News" each week that are seen by the general viewing public.

Manufacturers have been perfecting the devices and are soon expected to begin mass marketing home decoders that will cost from $100 to $300.

The mechanisms will be beneficial only if there is a wide variety of captioned programming available on television. At the moment Channel 11 and other public broadcasting stations are the only sources for captioned programming, whether transmitted generally for the entire viewing public or in a "closed" system to be picked up only by viewers with decoders.

A recent request by President Jimmy Carter, asking broadcasters to jointly develop television services for the hearing-impaired may lend impetus to the on-going effort.

Jean Marie Hon and Cliff Potts star in "Danger in Paradise"

To ease the pain while this campaign continues, WTTW has decided to go beyond what it's already doing and present a day of special programs Saturday for the hearing impaired.

The day begins at 10:30 a.m. with a captioned episode of "Zoom," followed at 11 a.m. with a captioned episode of "Nova" which will feature a figure skating exhibition for the deaf.

"Rock Gospel," which features the performance of traditional old folk and gospel tunes with a rock beat, will air at 12:40 p.m. with four teachers of the deaf interpreting the words and rhythms in sign language. The show will be followed at 1:45 p.m. by "Sea Creatues," a special that examines the inhabitants of the underwater world.

The special programming will be followed by an on-air pledge conducted by members of the Chicago area hearing-impaired community to solicit contributions for similar future efforts.

The estimated cost of captioning an average one-hour program is under $1,000. With all of the millions of dollars pouring in and out of the television industry on a daily basis, it seems hard to believe that the money and concern for more captioned programming can't be mustered by anyone other than the Public Broadcasting System which, itself, is dependent on contributions for its operations.

TV HIGHLIGHTS:

- The Daytime Emmy Awards show will be telecast live from New York City beginning at 2 p.m. on Channel 5.
- Part Two of the Nixon-Frost interviews, dealing with foreign affairs, airs at 7 p.m. on Channel 9.
- NBC gives a preview of one of its new fall shows, "Big Hawaii," with a made-for-television movie titled "Danger in Paradise" at 8 p.m. on Channel 5.
- "Playboy's Playmate Party" is a 90-minute late-night special on Channel 7 at 10:30 p.m. hosted by comedian Dick Martin, featuring the 1977 Playmate of the Year and other beauties.
- "Soundstage" offers the Down Beat '76 Readers Poll Awards at 9 p.m. on Channel 11.

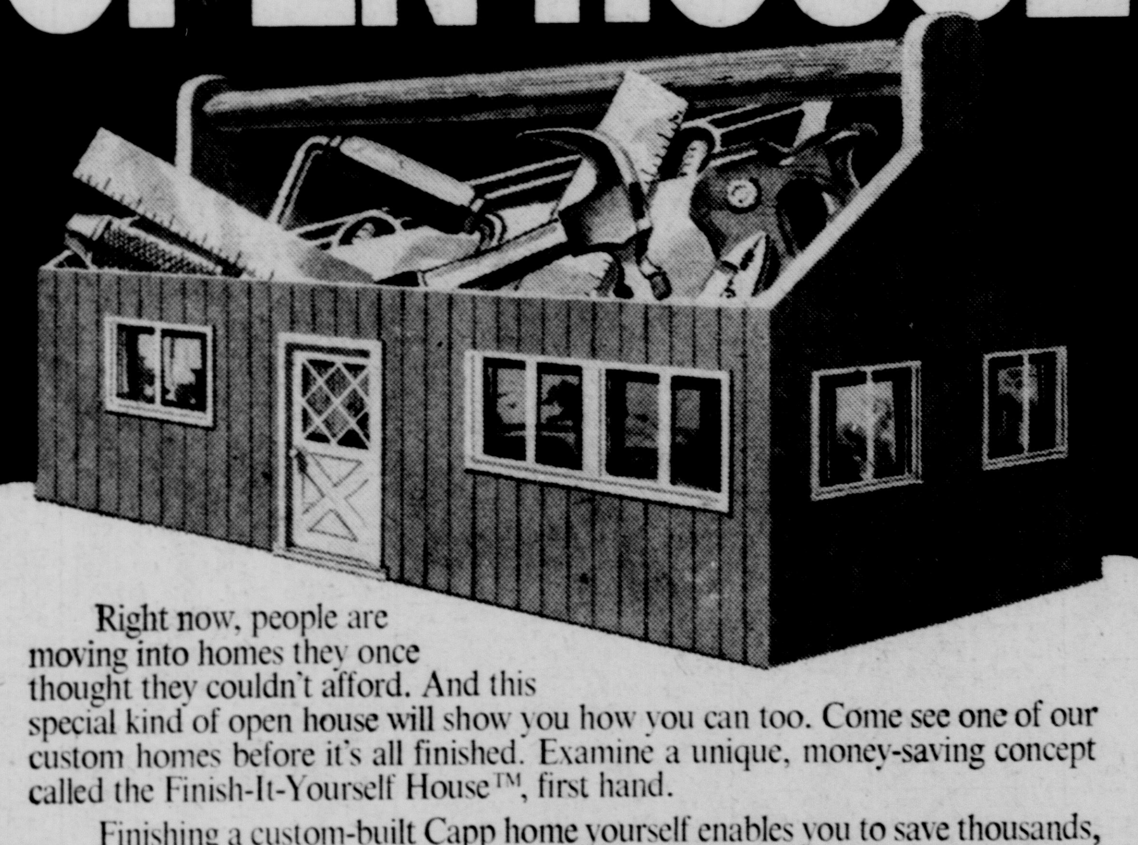
Capp Homes invites you to a very different
OPEN HOUSE



Right now, people are moving into homes they once thought they couldn't afford. And this special kind of open house will show you how you can too. Come see one of our custom homes before it's all finished. Examine a unique, money-saving concept called the Finish-It-Yourself House™, first hand.

Finishing a custom-built Capp home yourself enables you to save thousands, compared to the cost of having a general contractor build the same house on your lot. You'll see how a homebuyer can custom design his dream home . . . and work step-by-step with Capp in making his dream come true.

Because the house you'll see is unfinished and ready for its owner to complete, you'll get a chance to see Capp custom-built quality close up. At this open house, nothing is hidden. And you'll learn how you can finish your home with materials and instructions we provide.

Yes, it will be a different experience — an eye opener, for sure. And you'll probably walk away saying, "This is how I'll make my dream come true."

Please come. You owe it to yourself.

HERE'S HOW TO GET TO THE OPEN HOUSE.

Where: Cary, Il.
When: Sunday, May 15, 1977
Time: 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.
Directions: Take N.W. Hwy. to Main St. West on Main to Wulff — South on Wulff. Watch for Capp open house signs.

Your Capp Representative is: Ken Farrell Phone: (312) 279-2585

If you can't make it, write for our new Home Planning Guide of custom home designs: CAPP HOMES,

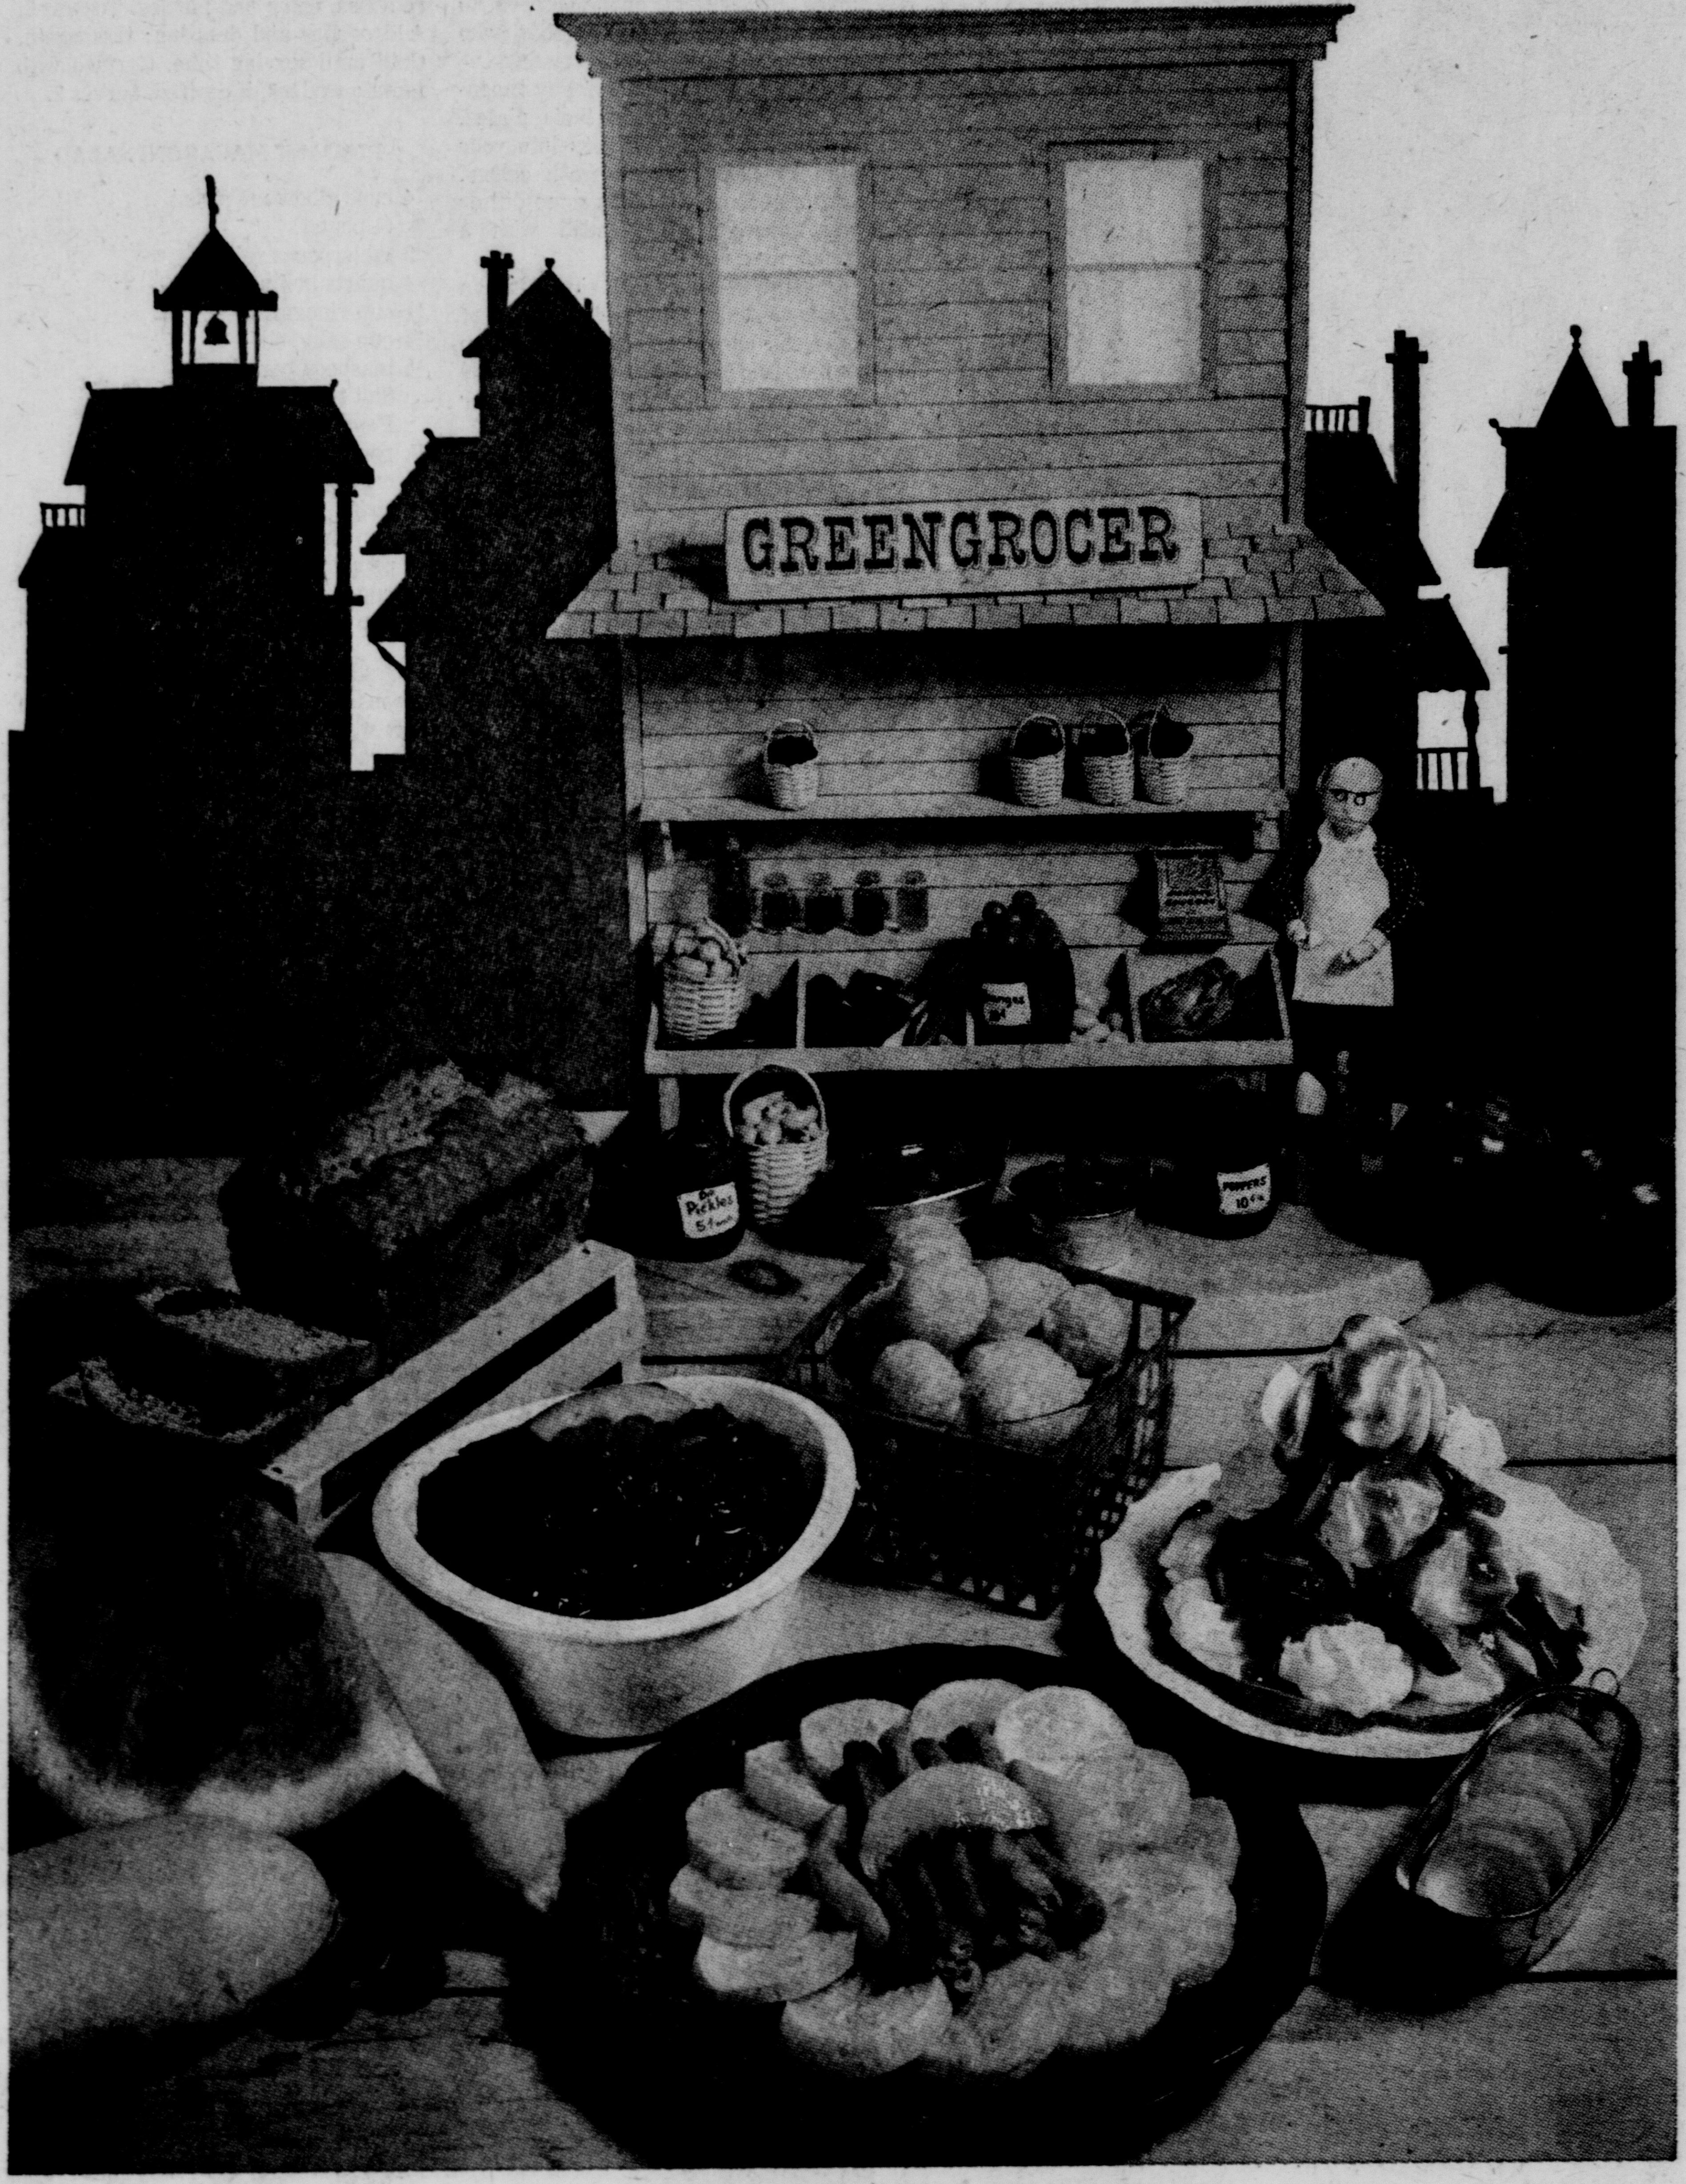
The greengrocer sprouts fresh food ideas



Peter Piper may pick peppers as his favorite, but the greengrocer uses a variety of fruits and vegetables in his fresh crop of recipes. With a rainbow of colorful produce from which they can choose, even the most creative cooks welcome the greengrocer's suggestions for preparing this season's harvest.

Careful selection of ingredients is the beginning of any good dish. Pick only fresh-looking, medium-sized fruits and vegetables. (In the case of watermelons, however, there usually is more juicy eating in the larger melon.) Peaches are one of the fruits that won't ripen if picked green, so choose ones that are yelowish in color with a red blush. On the other hand, beans should be green and should break with a snap. Ripe plums vary in color, with Italian prune plums having a deep purplish tone while other types are rosy red or yellowish-green.

Pears, plums and melons should be kept at room temperature until ripe. For peak flavor enjoyment, the fruits should then be eaten or refrigerated only a few days. After eating the first arrivals out of hand, show off the colors and flavors of this season's crop in the following recipes..

Watermelon Ice

2 cups diced seeded watermelon
1 cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons lime juice

In medium bowl mash watermelon until almost smooth. Add corn syrup and lime juice, stirring until well mixed. Pour into 1-quart container. Cover and freeze 2 to 3 hours or until almost firm. Beat with wooden spoon until smooth. Return to freezer until firm. Makes about 3 cups.

Blueberry Oatmeal Bread

2 cups unsifted flour
1 cup quick oats
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
6 tablespoons margarine
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
¼ cup light corn syrup
1 cup blueberrries

Grease 3(5¾ x 3¼ x 2-inch) loaf pans. In large bowl stir together flour, oats, sugar, baking powder, baking soda, salt and cinnamon. With pastry blender or 2 knives cut in margarine until mixture forms fine crumbs. In small bowl stir together eggs, milk and corn syrup. Add to flour mixture stirring with a fork just until moistened. Gently fold in blueberries. Turn into prepared pans. Bake in 350-degree oven 45 to 50 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Makes 3 loaves.

Note: Bread may be baked in 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan in 350-degree oven 1 hour and 10 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean.

Plum Sauced Meringues

1½ pounds ripe red plums, sliced
½ cup light corn syrup
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon water
1 recipe Meringues
(recipe follows)

In blender container place 1½ cups of the plums and corn syrup. Blend at high speed 2 minutes or until smooth. In small saucepan stir together cornstarch and water. Add plum mixture. Stirring constantly bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Cool to room temperature. Using about 15 meringues per serving, build individual pyramids, dipping each meringue bottom lightly into fruit sauce to secure to next meringue. Continue mounding until all meringues are used. Just before serving garnish with remaining plum slices. Spoon sauce over meringues. Serves 12.

Peachy Marinated Vegetables

1 cup beef bouillon
¾ cup light corn syrup
½ cup white vinegar
⅓ cup lemon juice
¼ cup corn oil
4 sprigs parsley
½ teaspoon peppercorns
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cloves garlic, crushed
½ teaspoon dried thyme leaves
1 pound green beans, ends removed
2 medium yellow squash, sliced
2 cups peeled, sliced peaches

In large saucepan stir together bouillon, corn syrup, vinegar, lemon juice, corn oil, parlsey, peppercorns, salt, garlic and thyme. Bring to boil; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Strain, returning liquid to saucepan. Add green beans. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Add squash and peaches and continue cooking 10 minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp. Turn vegetable-peach mixture into shallow dish or pan. Pour hot marinade over mixture. Cover and chill 4 hours or overnight. Serves 6.

Meringues

½ cup light corn syrup
4 egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Line 3 cookie sheets with brown paper. In small saucepan, stirring constantly, bring sugar and corn syrup to boil; boil 1 minute. In large bowl with mixer at high speed beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Add cream of tartar and salt. Continue beating until stiff peaks form. Stir in vanilla. Beating constantly, pour hot syrup into egg whites in a thin, steady stream. Continue beating until mixture becomes stiff and glossy. Drop mixture by teaspoonfuls onto brown paper-lined cookie sheet, or force mixture through rosette-tipped pastry bag forming mounds ¾-inch wide. Bake in 250-degree oven 40 minutes. Turn oven off, open door and leave meringues in oven 30 minutes to dry. Makes about 15 dozen meringues.

Note: Meringues may be prepared ahead, cooled and stored in tightly covered container.

Saucy Orange Cabbage

1 small head red cabbage
(about 1¼ pound), thinly sliced
¼ cup thawed orange juice concentrate
¼ cup dark corn syrup
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon water

In large saucepan cook cabbage in boiling water 3 minutes; drain. Stir together orange juice, corn syrup, salt and pepper. Add cabbage; cover and simmer 20 minutes. Stir together cornstarch and water until smooth. Add to cabbage mixture. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Serves 6 to 8.

GINNY MASCARELLA of Arlington Heights likes to serve a light tortoni dessert along with her hearty Italian fare.

Feast on Italian fare

Cook of the week

Having been raised on a farm, Ginny Mascarella of Arlington Heights was used to having her chicken served with mashed potatoes and a cream gravy. To please her husband, Jim, who is of Italian descent, she learned to make some Italian dishes, among them Chicken Tetrazzini and Cacciatore, and discovered the appealing qualities of Italian cuisine. Now these dishes are among her specialities and very popular with family and friends.

"My daughters will eat anything with spaghetti," Ginny chuckled. Spaghetti is really dressed up in Tetrazzini, as it is combined with cooked chicken, green pepper and onion and baked in a rich sauce made of mushroom soup, evaporated milk, chicken broth and cheese. This rich and hearty dish is served with a tossed salad and garlic bread.

Ginny has become so adept at Italian cooking that she even devised her own salad dressing. "A vinegar and oil dressing was too tart and runny for my taste," Ginny explained. She tasted a dressing at a restaurant, then tried to duplicate it at home. After several experiments, it finally suited her taste. The dressing is emulsified in a blender and has a creamy texture and a sweet-sour flavor with an Italian tang.

Easy macaroni salads put spring into meals

It's time to think of quick-to-make salads for buffets and to serve to scads of relatives and friends who come to visit during summery days.

Few pass by the old standby macaroni salad when filling their plates. However, put some variety into your salad by using garden fresh celery, carrots and radishes plus some dill or sweet pickles, all blended with a French dressing.

Or, turn a macaroni salad into a pseudo-chef salad by adding strips of American cheese and ham plus green peppers and scallions. This, too, calls for a vinegar and oil dressing rather than a mayonnaise type.

MACARONI SPRING SALAD

4 cups elbow macaroni (1 pound)
2 tablespoons salt
4 quarts boiling water
1 cup chopped celery
1½ cups sliced carrots
1 cup sliced radishes
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 cup thinly sliced dill or sweet pickles
Dash pepper
½ cup bottled French dressing
Tomato wedges, optional

Gradually add macaroni and salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water; drain again. Cool.

Combine macaroni, celery, carrots, radishes, onion and pickles. Toss well. Add pepper and dressing; toss again. Chill until serving time. Garnish with tomato wedges, if desired. Serves 8.

PIQUANT MACARONI SALAD

4 cups elbow macaroni (1 pound)
2 tablespoons salt
4 quarts boiling water
¼ cup vinegar
½ cup salad oil
½ teaspoon paprika
Salt to taste
Pepper to taste
¼ pound American cheese
2 cups julienne ham strips
¾ cup chopped green pepper
¾ cup chopped celery
¼ cup sliced scallions

Gradually add macaroni and 2 tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water; drain.

Combine vinegar, oil, paprika, salt and pepper. Mix well. Add macaroni and mix lightly; cover and chill about an hour. Cut cheese into thin strips. Add ham, cheese, green pepper, celery, and scallions to macaroni mixture. Toss lightly. Chill thoroughly. Serves 8.

¼ cup sliced scallions

Gradually add macaroni and 2 tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water; drain.

Combine vinegar, oil, paprika, salt and pepper. Mix well. Add macaroni and mix lightly; cover and chill about an hour. Cut cheese into thin strips. Add ham, cheese, green pepper, celery, and scallions to macaroni mixture. Toss lightly. Chill thoroughly. Serves 8.

Rich desserts crown Italian fare

gests Biscotti Tortoni. Made with eggs, sugar and whipped cream, it is flavored with crushed macaroons and rum. Frozen in cupcake papers and garnished with cherries, the tortoni looks pretty and is a light and creamy dessert to accompany hearty Italian fare.

Ginny candidly admits that she loves rich, fattening chocolate desserts, and one of her undisputed favorites is Southern Sweet Chocolate Pudding. This sweet, baked pudding has the consistency of a pecan pie with the flavor of a German sweet chocolate cake, only richer. It may be baked in a square pan, without a crust, or used as the filling for an unbaked pie shell.

Although she is not particularly interested in canning, Ginny likes to make a freezer strawberry jam that is easy to prepare and always a success. The method is quick, taking less than an hour from start to finish. When possible, the Mascarellas pick their own berries, making enough jam to last all winter. Because there is no cooking involved, the jam has the elegant flavor of fresh berries.

While Ginny likes making desserts, she burns off the calories bowling and playing golf. She also enjoys sewing and crocheting.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI

1 chicken fryer or 3 to 4 pounds chicken breasts
1 medium onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
Butter
1 package (8 ounces) spaghetti
2 cans (10½ ounces) cream of mushroom soup
1 can (13 ounces) evaporated milk
½ pound process American cheese, cubed or grated
½ pound grated cheddar cheese, divided in half

Place chicken in pot, add just enough water to cover, and cook, covered, until tender. Let stand in broth for several hours or overnight. The next day, remove chicken and reserve broth. Bone and dice meat.

Saute onion and green pepper in butter. Cook spaghetti in 1½ quarts of reserved broth and drain, saving 1½ cups broth.

Combine spaghetti with sauteed vegetables, chicken, 1½ cups reserved broth, mushroom soup, evaporated milk, American cheese and half of the cheddar cheese. Turn into a 4-quart casserole or two 2-quart casseroles. Sprinkle with remaining cheddar cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Let stand about 20 minutes before serving. Serves 10 to 12.

ITALIAN DRESSING

1 cup oil
1 cup plus 3 tablespoons cider or wine vinegar
½ cup sugar
Salt to taste
¼ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon basil

Combine all ingredients in blender and blend. Store in refrigerator and use as needed. Toss with salad greens.

BISCOTTI TORTONI

2 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons rum
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
2 cups heavy cream, whipped
½ cup crushed macaroons
Maraschino cherries

Beat egg yolks and sugar until thick and lemon-colored. Add vanilla and rum. Fold in beaten egg whites. Then fold in whipped cream and macaroon crumbs, saving 3 tablespoons crumbs for topping.

Spoon into cupcake papers. Top with crumbs and a cherry. Freeze. Remove about 10 minutes before serving. Yield: approximately 2 dozen.

SOUTHERN SWEET CHOCOLATE PUDDING

1 package (4 ounces) Bakers German Sweet Chocolate
¼ cup butter
1¾ cup (14½ ounces) evaporated milk
1½ cups granulated sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-1/3 cups (about) flaked coconut
½ cup chopped pecans
Whipped cream, ice cream or prepared whipped topping

Melt chocolate with butter in a saucepan over low heat, stirring until blended. Remove from heat and gradually blend in evaporated milk.

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt thoroughly. Beat in eggs and vanilla and gradually blend in chocolate mixture. Pour into an 8-inch square buttered pan, or an unbaked 9-inch pastry shell, fluted high.

Combine coconut and nuts and sprinkle over pudding. Bake at 375 degrees for about 40 minutes, or until top puffs and cracks slightly. (You may be tampted to overbake, but the pudding should be taken from oven before it setts, when it is almost, but not quite firm when you shake it in the pan.) If ove-proof glass dish is used, reduce baking temperature to 350 degrees.

Cook at least 2 houes before serving. Serve with whipped cream, ice cream or prepared whipped topping.

STRAWBERRY JAM

5 cups fresh strawberries
2 packages Sure Jell
1 cup light corn syrup
4 cups granulated sugar
¼ cup lemon juice

Crush berries and stir in Sure Jell. Let stand for 30 minutes. Add syrup and sugar, ½ cup at a time, and stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice and freeze in jars.

Picking perfect produce

So you want to start savoring the succulence of all those fresh spring and summer fruits and vegetables, but you don't know just what to look for? Here's a guide to make your shopping a little easier:

- Apricots should have a beautiful blush and be firm in texture. If they ar wilted or shriveled, they lack flavor and will decay quickly.
- Asparagus stalks should be tender and firm, with the tips close and compact. Choose stalks with a little white — they are more tender — and use promptly because asparagus toughens rapidly.
- Beans should be tender. Avoid those with large bumps — which indicate large seeds — and dry-looking pods.
- Berries should be plump and solid with good color. Avoid wet or leaky berries. Blackberries and raspberries with clinging caps may be underripe; strawberries without caps may be too ripe, and very large strawberries are often less flavorful than those of medium size.
- Corn of good quality has husks that are fresh and green, and ears well-filled with plump, firm, milky kernels. Immature ears of sweet corn have small, underdeveloped watery kernels; overmature ears have very firm, large, starchy kernels.
- Cucumbers should be firm and slender and should contain a lustrous skin. Avoid cucumbers that are yellowed or those with withered or shriveled ends.
- Grapes should be plump, fully-colored, fresh in appearance and firmly attached to green stems. Most green or white varieties will have a slightly amber tone.
- Melons can be tricky to pick, since there are so many different kinds. Ripe cantaloup has a yellowish surface color and a thick coarse netting, and the stem should be missing, leaving a shallow basin in its place. The more fragrant the odor, the sweeter the cantaloup will be.
- Honeydews should have a creamy color and should feel soft and velvety; crenshaws should have a golden-yellow color mottled with green; casabas should have a golden yellow color and a slight softening at the blossom end; persian melons should have a dull gray-green color. These melons may have stems attached and all but casabas will have a pleasant, fruity odor.
- Papaya, when fully ripened, will have a soft and yellow-green rind and an orange flesh. Use underripe fruits for cooking.
- Peaches should be firm, not hard or bruised, and have a creamy or yellow surface with a red or pinkish blush. If plucked when green, they will not ripen.
- Summer squash should be firm and heavy. Avoid if the rind is tough or the stem black and dry.
- Tomatoes should be plump, firm and uniformly pink or red in color, and should be free from cracks, scars and bruises.
- Watermelsons, when ripe, have a somewhat dull surface and a creamy color underneath. The interior should be fully red and firm, and should have a few immature seeds. If truly ripe, scraping the watermelon's surface with a fingernail will yield a thin green shaving.

gests Biscotti Tortoni. Made with eggs, sugar and whipped cream, it is flavored with crushed macaroons and rum. Frozen in cupcake papers and garnished with cherries, the tortoni looks pretty and is a light and creamy dessert to accompany hearty Italian fare.

Ginny candidly admits that she loves rich, fattening chocolate desserts, and one of her undisputed favorites is Southern Sweet Chocolate Pudding. This sweet, baked pudding has the consistency of a pecan pie with the flavor of a German sweet chocolate cake, only richer. It may be baked in a square pan, without a crust, or used as the filling for an unbaked pie shell.

Although she is not particularly interested in canning, Ginny likes to make a freezer strawberry jam that is easy to prepare and always a success. The method is quick, taking less than an hour from start to finish. When possible, the Mascarellas pick their own berries, making enough jam to last all winter. Because there is no cooking involved, the jam has the elegant flavor of fresh berries.

While Ginny likes making desserts, she burns off the calories bowling and playing golf. She also enjoys sewing and crocheting.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI

1 chicken fryer or 3 to 4 pounds chicken breasts
1 medium onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
Butter
1 package (8 ounces) spaghetti
2 cans (10½ ounces) cream of mushroom soup
1 can (13 ounces) evaporated milk
½ pound process American cheese, cubed or grated
½ pound grated cheddar cheese, divided in half

Place chicken in pot, add just enough water to cover, and cook, covered, until tender. Let stand in broth for several hours or overnight. The next day, remove chicken and reserve broth. Bone and dice meat.

Saute onion and green pepper in butter. Cook spaghetti in 1½ quarts of reserved broth and drain, saving 1½ cups broth.

Combine spaghetti with sauteed vegetables, chicken, 1½ cups reserved broth, mushroom soup, evaporated milk, American cheese and half of the cheddar cheese. Turn into a 4-quart casserole or two 2-quart casseroles. Sprinkle with remaining cheddar cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Let stand about 20 minutes before serving. Serves 10 to 12.

ITALIAN DRESSING

1 cup oil
1 cup plus 3 tablespoons cider or wine vinegar
½ cup sugar
Salt to taste
¼ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon basil

Combine all ingredients in blender and blend. Store in refrigerator and use as needed. Toss with salad greens.

BISCOTTI TORTONI

2 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons rum
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
2 cups heavy cream, whipped
½ cup crushed macaroons
Maraschino cherries

Beat egg yolks and sugar until thick and lemon-colored. Add vanilla and rum. Fold in beaten egg whites. Then fold in whipped cream and macaroon crumbs, saving 3 tablespoons crumbs for topping.

Spoon into cupcake papers. Top with crumbs and a cherry. Freeze. Remove about 10 minutes before serving. Yield: approximately 2 dozen.

SOUTHERN SWEET CHOCOLATE PUDDING

1 package (4 ounces) Bakers German Sweet Chocolate
¼ cup butter
1¾ cup (14½ ounces) evaporated milk
1½ cups granulated sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-1/3 cups (about) flaked coconut
½ cup chopped pecans
Whipped cream, ice cream or prepared whipped topping

Melt chocolate with butter in a saucepan over low heat, stirring until blended. Remove from heat and gradually blend in evaporated milk.

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt thoroughly. Beat in eggs and vanilla and gradually blend in chocolate mixture. Pour into an 8-inch square buttered pan, or an unbaked 9-inch pastry shell, fluted high.

Combine coconut and nuts and sprinkle over pudding. Bake at 375 degrees for about 40 minutes, or until top puffs and cracks slightly. (You may be tampted to overbake, but the pudding should be taken from oven before it setts, when it is almost, but not quite firm when you shake it in the pan.) If ove-proof glass dish is used, reduce baking temperature to 350 degrees.

Cook at least 2 houes before serving. Serve with whipped cream, ice cream or prepared whipped topping.

STRAWBERRY JAM

5 cups fresh strawberries
2 packages Sure Jell
1 cup light corn syrup
4 cups granulated sugar
¼ cup lemon juice

Crush berries and stir in Sure Jell. Let stand for 30 minutes. Add syrup and sugar, ½ cup at a time, and stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice and freeze in jars.

Picking perfect produce

So you want to start savoring the succulence of all those fresh spring and summer fruits and vegetables, but you don't know just what to look for? Here's a guide to make your shopping a little easier:

- Apricots should have a beautiful blush and be firm in texture. If they ar wilted or shriveled, they lack flavor and will decay quickly.
- Asparagus stalks should be tender and firm, with the tips close and compact. Choose stalks with a little white — they are more tender — and use promptly because asparagus toughens rapidly.
- Beans should be tender. Avoid those with large bumps — which indicate large seeds — and dry-looking pods.
- Berries should be plump and solid with good color. Avoid wet or leaky berries. Blackberries and raspberries with clinging caps may be underripe; strawberries without caps may be too ripe, and very large strawberries are often less flavorful than those of medium size.
- Corn of good quality has husks that are fresh and green, and ears well-filled with plump, firm, milky kernels. Immature ears of sweet corn have small, underdeveloped watery kernels; overmature ears have very firm, large, starchy kernels.
- Cucumbers should be firm and slender and should contain a lustrous skin. Avoid cucumbers that are yellowed or those with withered or shriveled ends.
- Grapes should be plump, fully-colored, fresh in appearance and firmly attached to green stems. Most green or white varieties will have a slightly amber tone.
- Melons can be tricky to pick, since there are so many different kinds. Ripe cantaloup has a yellowish surface color and a thick coarse netting, and the stem should be missing, leaving a shallow basin in its place. The more fragrant the odor, the sweeter the cantaloup will be.
- Honeydews should have a creamy color and should feel soft and velvety; crenshaws should have a golden-yellow color mottled with green; casabas should have a golden yellow color and a slight softening at the blossom end; persian melons should have a dull gray-green color. These melons may have stems attached and all but casabas will have a pleasant, fruity odor.
- Papaya, when fully ripened, will have a soft and yellow-green rind and an orange flesh. Use underripe fruits for cooking.
- Peaches should be firm, not hard or bruised, and have a creamy or yellow surface with a red or pinkish blush. If plucked when green, they will not ripen.
- Summer squash should be firm and heavy. Avoid if the rind is tough or the stem black and dry.
- Tomatoes should be plump, firm and uniformly pink or red in color, and should be free from cracks, scars and bruises.
- Watermelsons, when ripe, have a somewhat dull surface and a creamy color underneath. The interior should be fully red and firm, and should have a few immature seeds. If truly ripe, scraping the watermelon's surface with a fingernail will yield a thin green shaving.

Don Klein is one produce seller who hopes to succeed in the Northwest suburbs.

Suburbs hard to crack

Fresh produce is their business

by VALERIE BERG

Remember the days back in the old neighborhood when your mother would take you down to the corner market? You'd take a brown paper bag and search through the bushel baskets of fruits and vegetables until you found that perfect apple or plump tomato. While your mother chatted with the clerk about the weather or the neighbors.

Gone forever? Not quite. Even though the big grocery chains have almost taken over the produce business — with a little competition from the perennial summer farm stands — a few small family-owned produce businesses are trying to survive year 'round in the Northwest suburbs.

Although each business has an atmosphere of its own, all have some things in common. The owners, or their deliverymen, welcome each dawn with a trip to the produce wholesalers in Chicago, most often found on South Water Market Street, who market fresh, untainted produce from farms in the South, the West or Mexico.

AND THOUGH THIS winter threw a chill over their sales prospects, the produce-mart owners, who offer customers generally low prices and a genial manner, hope for better sales in the spring and summer.

The Rogers Park West produce stand at Golf and Mount Prospect roads in Des Plaines is the largest of the three marts in the area. The store, resembling more a glass-enclosed farm stand than a year-round establishment, offers a variety of fresh fixings, from run-of-the-mill apples and oranges to not-so-usual fava beans, banana peppers, dandelion and ginger in bulk.

Co-owner Demetri Poulos says the store, "a family business" owned also by his brother-in-law and father-in-law, was opened last year. The trio also owns another store in the Rogers Park area of Chicago.

"THE STUFF IS fresh, comes in here daily, and in some instances it's from 50 per cent less than at chain stores," Poulos says, adding that he offers at least a 30 per cent savings on most of his items.

So far, word-of-mouth has been responsible for keeping him in business. And though he was forced to close the Des Plaines store for a while this winter, "In the summer there's no place to park your car," he says. It is open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

J & K Fruits and Vegetables, located at Northwest Highway and Central Road in Mount Prospedt, is easy to miss if you don't know it's there. In fact, owner dennis Caldis says, "All the time people come in and say 'I've never seen you before.' "

The small store was opened about a year and a half ago by another owner. Caldis, along with his wife Fay and daughter Lena, took over its operation last July.

WITH THE ADVENT of spring and summer, business should be picking up, they say, but this past winter put the crunch on their sales. They rely on a regular clientele—"Thats how we keep on in the wintertime," Mrs. Caldis says.

They explain that they are able to keep their prices low because with only themselves working, their operating costs are low — as are their profits. Their hours are 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

A & J Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Market, Arlington Heights and Rand roads, the newest produce mart in the area, opend in November. Don Klein, who manages the store for his father, has moved his wares out of the small building and grouped them around his pickup truck for the summer — a move that has had the advantage of attracting a few extra customers from off the streets.

"THIS YEAR WAS a little slower because it was the first," Klein says, "but now business is picking up." The family also owns two stores in Chicago.

As Klein sees it, his market not only offers customers the fun of picking out their own items, "it gives people more feeling of fresh out of the farm."

"(The produce is) probably fresher, and I try to keep my prices lower than the chain stores,' he says. His late afternoon customers often get a few chance bargains when he reduces prices a little more to move the food before closing. His hours are from 8:30 or 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, with extended hours during the summer.

"The chain stores are lowering their prices and putting the little stores out of business, I guess," he says, referrring to the supermarket's ability to sell produce as leaders (products sold below cost to promote sales). But he is optimistic about the future, believing "The times can only get better."

A bit about bagels

Bagels resemble doughnuts in appearance but are made from a low fat, low sugar dough with high gluten flour. They are formed with strips of dough that are rolled and twisted into rings rather than cut as doughnuts are. Bagels are placed in boiling water for a few minutes, then baked.

Snappy dips enhance mushrooms

Snappy snacks for entertaining are easy to prepare. Just serve fresh mushrooms with one or two homemade dips such as garlic or a spicy chili dip. Those who are dieting will enjoy munching the low calorie mushrooms without the dips or you can make a low calorie dip. One hostess serves fresh mushrooms right out of the shipping basket with its blue tissue paper lining, which is an easy way to decorate a table.

MUSHROOM DIPPERS

Rinse, pat dry and trim stems from 1 pound medium-sized fresh mushrooms. Arrange in any desired fashion on a plate or in a bowl. Garnish with cherry tomatoes and green pepper "sticks" if desired. Serve with Garlic and Spicy Dips.

GARLIC DIP

1 cup mayonnaise
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper

Combine all ingredients; mix well. Chill. Spoon into a small serving bowl.

SPICY DIP

1 cup chili sauce
2 teaspoons onion powder
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons horseradish

Combine all ingredients; mix well. Chill. Spoon into a small serving bowl. Makes 1 cup.

While your mother chatted with the clerk about the weather or the neighbors.

Gone forever? Not quite. Even though the big grocery chains have almost taken over the produce business — with a little competition from the perennial summer farm stands — a few small family-owned produce businesses are trying to survive year 'round in the Northwest suburbs.

Although each business has an atmosphere of its own, all have some things in common. The owners, or their deliverymen, welcome each dawn with a trip to the produce wholesalers in Chicago, most often found on South Water Market Street, who market fresh, untainted produce from farms in the South, the West or Mexico.

AND THOUGH THIS winter threw a chill over their sales prospects, the produce-mart owners, who offer customers generally low prices and a genial manner, hope for better sales in the spring and summer.

The Rogers Park West produce stand at Golf and Mount Prospect roads in Des Plaines is the largest of the three marts in the area. The store, resembling more a glass-enclosed farm stand than a year-round establishment, offers a variety of fresh fixings, from run-of-the-mill apples and oranges to not-so-usual fava beans, banana peppers, dandelion and ginger in bulk.

Co-owner Demetri Poulos says the store, "a family business" owned also by his brother-in-law and father-in-law, was opened last year. The trio also owns another store in the Rogers Park area of Chicago.

"THE STUFF IS fresh, comes in here daily, and in some instances it's from 50 per cent less than at chain stores," Poulos says, adding that he offers at least a 30 per cent savings on most of his items.

So far, word-of-mouth has been responsible for keeping him in business. And though he was forced to close the Des Plaines store for a while this winter, "In the summer there's no place to park your car," he says. It is open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

J & K Fruits and Vegetables, located at Northwest Highway and Central Road in Mount Prospedt, is easy to miss if you don't know it's there. In fact, owner dennis Caldis says, "All the time people come in and say 'I've never seen you before.' "

The small store was opened about a year and a half ago by another owner. Caldis, along with his wife Fay and daughter Lena, took over its operation last July.

WITH THE ADVENT of spring and summer, business should be picking up, they say, but this past winter put the crunch on their sales. They rely on a regular clientele—"Thats how we keep on in the wintertime," Mrs. Caldis says.

They explain that they are able to keep their prices low because with only themselves working, their operating costs are low — as are their profits. Their hours are 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

A & J Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Market, Arlington Heights and Rand roads, the newest produce mart in the area, opend in November. Don Klein, who manages the store for his father, has moved his wares out of the small building and grouped them around his pickup truck for the summer — a move that has had the advantage of attracting a few extra customers from off the streets.

"THIS YEAR WAS a little slower because it was the first," Klein says, "but now business is picking up." The family also owns two stores in Chicago.

As Klein sees it, his market not only offers customers the fun of picking out their own items, "it gives people more feeling of fresh out of the farm."

"(The produce is) probably fresher, and I try to keep my prices lower than the chain stores,' he says. His late afternoon customers often get a few chance bargains when he reduces prices a little more to move the food before closing. His hours are from 8:30 or 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, with extended hours during the summer.

"The chain stores are lowering their prices and putting the little stores out of business, I guess," he says, referrring to the supermarket's ability to sell produce as leaders (products sold below cost to promote sales). But he is optimistic about the future, believing "The times can only get better."

A bit about bagels

Bagels resemble doughnuts in appearance but are made from a low fat, low sugar dough with high gluten flour. They are formed with strips of dough that are rolled and twisted into rings rather than cut as doughnuts are. Bagels are placed in boiling water for a few minutes, then baked.

Snappy dips enhance mushrooms

Snappy snacks for entertaining are easy to prepare. Just serve fresh mushrooms with one or two homemade dips such as garlic or a spicy chili dip. Those who are dieting will enjoy munching the low calorie mushrooms without the dips or you can make a low calorie dip. One hostess serves fresh mushrooms right out of the shipping basket with its blue tissue paper lining, which is an easy way to decorate a table.

MUSHROOM DIPPERS

Rinse, pat dry and trim stems from 1 pound medium-sized fresh mushrooms. Arrange in any desired fashion on a plate or in a bowl. Garnish with cherry tomatoes and green pepper "sticks" if desired. Serve with Garlic and Spicy Dips.

GARLIC DIP

1 cup mayonnaise
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper

Combine all ingredients; mix well. Chill. Spoon into a small serving bowl.

SPICY DIP

1 cup chili sauce
2 teaspoons onion powder
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons horseradish

Combine all ingredients; mix well. Chill. Spoon into a small serving bowl. Makes 1 cup.

'Basic bacon' a good beginning

Eileen Kelly

Let's learn to micro-cook

If microwave cooking "doesn't interest" you, frightens you, seems weird, exotic or too expensive, then this column is for you. Microwave ovens should be viewed as simple little boxes that cook your meals in minutes. Microwave ovens help you to spend less time in the kitchen without sacrificing the quality of your meals.

I want you to read this column and ask "why don't we get a microwave oven" or "why haven't we used our oven to do that?" I want you to gain confidence in cooking the ordinary foods you prepare week in and week out and from there you will be encouraged to experiment with more creative microwave cookery.

Let's begin! Your kitchen probably already contains the basic non-metal utensils necessary to prepare most microwave meals. Glass casseroles in a variety of sizes are used in making such dishes as rice, noodles, spaghetti sauce, frozen vegetables, puddings and combination dishes. A glass meatloaf pan is a "must have." Glass baking dishes are used for hamburgers, chicken, brownies, fish and even cakes. Glass measuring cups in various sizes perform a multitude of jobs. Paper towels and paper plates are so handy for reheating and even cooking some foods.

Since bacon is generally considered a breakfast food and because it is one of microwave's magic marvels, it's a good place to begin.

Place the strips side by side between two good quality paper towels. Place this on a plate without silver or metal trim. Metal is a real "no-no" in microwave cooking. Put the bacon in the oven and cook on high for approximately one minute per slice. We are talking about the average slice of bacon. Thicker bacon takes longer to crisp and thinner bacon crisps in less time.

Bacon cooked in the microwave oven comes out crisp and uncurled. You don't have a greasy mess since the paper towels have absorbed the grease. An additional bonus is that your clothes don't have that telltale bacon odor. Now isn't this convenient when you want bacon for a salad, for sandwiches and, of course, for breakfast?

If you have suggestions for future topics, write to Eileen Kelly Klehr in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60002.

Cheese, tomatoes a treat

There are many ways to prepare and serve fresh tomatoes. One that is very simple is to cut each tomato sunburst fashion almost down to the stem end, then spread it apart into petals and spoon in some seasoned cheese. A double cheese-stuffed tomato offers a decorative and nutritious luncheon dish when served with a hot bread, lettuce and fruit for dessert. It contains cottage cheese and shredded Cheddar cheese with a dash of mustard and onion powder for additional peppiness.

Despite the damage to the winter tomato crop in Florida, for example, a new crop of tomatoes is coming into the market just in time to bridge the gap until homegrown or local tomatoes are available. To get the most flavor from your "winter" tomatoes, buy them several days ahead of when you plan to use them and let them finish ripening at kitchen temperature since they are harvested when "mature green" for shipping.

Refrigerate after ripening but not before because this "shocks" the tomato and you cannot bring it to a more flavorful ripened state. It is a matter of taste, but tomato growers feel that tomatoes are at their best when removed from the refrigerator an hour before serving.

DOUBLE CHEESE-STUFFED TOMATOES

salt
1 pound creamed cottage cheese
½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1 teaspoon onion powder
1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper
2 teaspoons prepared mustard

Hold tomatoes at room temperature until fully ripe. Place tomatoes, stem side down on a board. Cut each tomato resemble a flower, cutting into wedges almost through to the bottom. Spread wedges slightly apart. Sprinkle lightly with salt; set aside. Combine cottage and Cheddar cheeses, onion powder, ½ teaspoon salt, black pepper and mustard. Spoon into each tomato. If desired, top with sour cream and serve on a bed of lettuce. Makes 6 portions.

Sift your way through flours

As you shop for flour, you may see some labeled "instant blending," "instantized," or "quick-mixing."

These are flours best known for being free-flowing, dust free and easily blended with cold liquid. This type of flour was introduced to the American market some years ago.

What makes it different?

It is made by a selective grinding and bolting process. The flour is made like regular all-purpose flour except that uniform-size granules are milled, and the finer particles are sifted out. Or regular flour is subjected to a controlled amount of atomized pressure that causes the flour to clump.

You don't need to sift this flour because it does not pack down in the package. Sift it only to combine the dry ingredients.

YOU MAY BUY A much smaller package of flour today than your mother or grandmother did. Chances are that the flour is different from what they bought some years ago.

All-purpose flours are what the miller would call standard blend flours. They are especially blended to make a range of satisfactory products such as yeast breads, quick breads, cakes, cookies and pastries. You don't have to buy a different flour for each type of baking.

These flours are made from low-protein hard wheat, from soft or intermediate wheat or from blends of hard and soft wheat. The aim is to achieve a mellow gluten that you can manipulate and to guarantee tender structure in your baked foods.

When you make bread or rolls you will notice the recipe calls for an approximate amount of flour. The reason is that you'll need to add less hard wheat flour than soft wheat flour.

All-purpose flours vary in amounts of hard and soft wheat, thus the variation in the amount.

Dessert cubes

These tender, velvety cubes with crispy walnut accents are delicious with strawberries or an assorted fresh fruit cup. Soften 2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin in ½ cup water. Combine additional 2½ cups water with 1 cup evaporated milk and 1 cup granulated sugar. Cook just until mixture boils. Add softened gelatin; cook about 2 minutes more.

Cool; add 1 teaspoon each vanilla and orange flavoring. Chill until syrupy; fold in ½ cup finely chopped toasted walnuts. Chill in 9-inch square pan until firm. Cut into 1-inch squres. Arrange gently with fruit. Serves 6.

Commitment.

It's just possible that no other business requires the commitment that a bank must make. It is a two-way commitment to depositors and to community. For some 40 years, First Arlington has met its commitments in the form of earnings for depositors and reinvestment in the community. That is why the bank has become the largest in Arlington Heights. That, along with its other commitments to area progress: leadership in civic organizations and community activities. While the bank's new management recognizes past performance as admirable, it has stated a policy of even greater commitment to the people, the businesses and the community life of Arlington Heights. What this town and this bank have accomplished is merely the beginning. The future is limitless.

'Basic bacon' a good beginning

Eileen Kelly

Let's learn to micro-cook

If microwave cooking "doesn't interest" you, frightens you, seems weird, exotic or too expensive, then this column is for you. Microwave ovens should be viewed as simple little boxes that cook your meals in minutes. Microwave ovens help you to spend less time in the kitchen without sacrificing the quality of your meals.

I want you to read this column and ask "why don't we get a microwave oven" or "why haven't we used our oven to do that?" I want you to gain confidence in cooking the ordinary foods you prepare week in and week out and from there you will be encouraged to experiment with more creative microwave cookery.

Let's begin! Your kitchen probably already contains the basic non-metal utensils necessary to prepare most microwave meals. Glass casseroles in a variety of sizes are used in making such dishes as rice, noodles, spaghetti sauce, frozen vegetables, puddings and combination dishes. A glass meatloaf pan is a "must have." Glass baking dishes are used for hamburgers, chicken, brownies, fish and even cakes. Glass measuring cups in various sizes perform a multitude of jobs. Paper towels and paper plates are so handy for reheating and even cooking some foods.

Since bacon is generally considered a breakfast food and because it is one of microwave's magic marvels, it's a good place to begin.

Place the strips side by side between two good quality paper towels. Place this on a plate without silver or metal trim. Metal is a real "no-no" in microwave cooking. Put the bacon in the oven and cook on high for approximately one minute per slice. We are talking about the average slice of bacon. Thicker bacon takes longer to crisp and thinner bacon crisps in less time.

Bacon cooked in the microwave oven comes out crisp and uncurled. You don't have a greasy mess since the paper towels have absorbed the grease. An additional bonus is that your clothes don't have that telltale bacon odor. Now isn't this convenient when you want bacon for a salad, for sandwiches and, of course, for breakfast?

If you have suggestions for future topics, write to Eileen Kelly Klehr in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60002.

Cheese, tomatoes a treat

There are many ways to prepare and serve fresh tomatoes. One that is very simple is to cut each tomato sunburst fashion almost down to the stem end, then spread it apart into petals and spoon in some seasoned cheese. A double cheese-stuffed tomato offers a decorative and nutritious luncheon dish when served with a hot bread, lettuce and fruit for dessert. It contains cottage cheese and shredded Cheddar cheese with a dash of mustard and onion powder for additional peppiness.

Garden vegetables flavor soup

Hearty, one-meal soups are in style throughout the year. Two such soups are inspired by family cooks continents apart.

One is a French Soupe Au Pistou that gets its special flavor and aroma from a sauce of garlic, tomato paste, basil, Parmesan cheese and parsley. Such a sauce also is good when tossed with spaghetti or other pasta. Here it is blended into a rich chicken broth filled with fresh vegetables. Serve a warm, crusty bread with this for dipping.

A Chinese chicken soup, meanwhile, takes a cue from Oriental cooking, including strips of fresh vegetables plus Chinese noodles and is served with a ball of rice in a deep bowl.

These are versatile soups to serve when the garden vegetables are at their tasty best.

SOUPE AU PISTOU

2 quarts chicken broth
3 medium potatoes, peeled and cut in 1-inch pieces
½ pound fresh green beans, cut up or 1 can (16 ounces) cut green beans
3 carrots, sliced
1 medium onion, chopped
1 tablespoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1/3 pound zucchini or crookneck squash, sliced or 1 package (10 ounces) frozen zucchini sliced
1 can (16 ounces) beans, drained (kidney or navy)
4 cloves garlic, mashed
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1 tablespoon dried basil
1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ cup chopped parsley
¼ cup olive oil.

In large kettle, combine chicken broth, potatoes, green beans, carrots, onion, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Add squash and beans. Simmer 10 minutes more or until all vegetables are tender.

Meanwhile, prepare sauce. Mix garlic, tomato paste, basil, Parmesan and parsley. Using a wire whip, gradually beat in oil, a teaspoon at a time, until mixture resembles a thick sauce.

Just before serving, stir sauce into hot soup. Warm, crusty bread is a good accompaniment. Serves 8 to 10.

CHINESE CHICKEN ST-OUP

1 broiler-fryer (about 2½ pounds) cut in 6 pieces
6 cups boiling water
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
1/8 teaspoon seasoned pepper
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon gravy seasoning and browning sauce
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 can (3 ounces) sliced mushrooms
½ cup thinly sliced onions
1 green pepper, cut in strips
3 small carrots, cut in strips
1 cup thinly sliced celery
1 tablespoon sugar
3 small tomatoes, cut in thin wedges
¼ cup cornstarch
1/3 cup cold water
2 cups cooked rice
1 can (5 ounces) Chinese noodles

Place chicken pieces, boiling water, seasonings and gravy seasoning in kettle. Cook over moderate heat until chicken is tender, about 25 minutes. Heat butter or margarine. Drain mushroom broth into kettle with chicken. Add mushrooms, onion, pepper, carrots and celery to hot fat. Saute lightly for 2 minutes, but do not brown.

Stir into st-oup with sugar. Continue cooking for 10 minutes. Stir in tomatoes. Blend cornstarch and cold water, add to st-oup. Cook and stir until thickened. Simmer over low heat about 10 minutes.

Serve in deep soup plates with a piece of chicken and a small ball of rice in center of each. Garnish with Chinese noodles. Serves 6.

Beans and franks make hearty supper

There's no favorite like an old favorite for a hearty lunch or supper. Combine two jars (1 pound 6 ounces each) of baked beans with one cup (4 ounces) of shredded Cheddar cheese, one-fourth cup of chili sauce, two tablespoons brown sugar, one tablespoon instant minced onion and two teaspoons prepared mustard in a two-quart baking dish. Arrange eight frankfurters on top and bake 35 to 40 minutes in a preheated 350-degree oven.
